BEST BRAKES . . . In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR*, Chevy out-stopped both the other leading low-priced cars—and why not: Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. BEST TRADE-IN . . . Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.† Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two." BEST STYLE . . . Popular Science magazine sums it up: "The fact is, in its price class the Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling . . ." It's the only car of the leading low-priced three that's unmistakably modern in every line. BEST ECONOMY . . . No doubt about this: two Chevrolet Sixes won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car. BEST ROOM . . . Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. BEST ENGINE . . . Every motor magazine has given Chevy's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As Sports Cars Illustrated puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price." BEST RIDE . . . You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. But Motor Trend magazine expresses it this way: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL
DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES
THIRD SECTION
Pages 1 thru 6
Volume Forty-eight — Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota — Thursday, June 4, 1959 — Number Forty-five

I suppose one of the things that makes working in a state game and fish agency so interesting is because something is always controversial. With relatively good fishing at this time and hunting seasons still months away, other things come in for discussion—such as, does the department have too many or too few wildlife biologists. One school of thought demands more trained wildlife and fisher specialists, a more scientific approach in management, and stepped up research on a host of pressing problems. The other school remains unconvinced about the scientific approach, is not sure that research on fish and game is really needed, and believes that too many university-trained biologists are 'just "messin' around with test tubes and such."

It is always interesting to compare Minnesota with other states, so we gathered information from the states visited and studied last year by members of the Legislative Interim Commission on Conservation Laws. Complete information was not readily available from Maine, Massachusetts and Washington, but the other nine stack up as follows:

State	Total Complement	No. Biologists
California	1,025	400
Wisconsin	525	163
Montana	175	49
Michigan	700	181
Oregon	475	122
Illinois	275	50
Colorado	400	68
Minnesota	525	79
Pennsylvania	600	68

Of course, biologists in all these states have a variety of jobs. In Minnesota, for example, 25 are managers in the game section, stationed around the state; one studies and acquires natural areas in fisheries; 18 gather statewide lake survey information for direct use in fisheries management; two work on pollution problems and aquatic nuisance control; 19 are engaged in research on wildlife, while 14 study the states' fisheries.

Some 15% of the positions in the game and fish division require biologically trained people. This is slightly less than the percentage of trained foresters in the state Forest Service. It is interesting to note that some of our "top" biologists have not had the advantages of a university, but have mastered their profession in all respects.

Boats on Highway Endanger Traffic

Highway Department— Points out New Problem

Boats of all descriptions being towed behind automobiles are creating new hazard on the highways, the Minnesota highway department reported today. The hazard is one which is increasing as the interest and participation in boating continues.

There are two parts to the problem, the department warned. The first concerns the boat and trailer in its relation to other traffic. A driver pulling a trailer becomes a problem for others who may wish to pass. The longer combination ahead means the passer needs more space in which to complete his pass.

Often cars towing boats are traveling at speeds lower than the posted limits. Thus the hazard becomes aggravated as traffic is forced to move at lower than normal speeds, resulting in dangerous weaving and cutting in and out by other vehicles.

Drivers pulling trailers are urged to leave more than usual space so that passing cars can pull in ahead of them. These same drivers should remember that their vehicle combination is considerably longer should they wish to pass another vehicle, and that they can't turn back to the right lane as quickly. Otherwise they could conceivably cut off the passed driver, with the trailer forcing him off the roadway.

The second part of the problem, the department continued, is the extra burden placed on the automobile's brakes by the added weight of the boat and trailer. Many boat trailers are not equipped with individual brakes, making necessary a braking action by the four wheels of the automobile for the additional two or four wheels of the trailer.

Tells GI How to Get Mortgage Release

VA Advises Veterans Who Plan to Sell Homes

In order for a veteran selling his home and GI mortgage to be released from liability to the Government on his GI loan he must first contact the Veterans Administration.

W. R. Byrd, manager Fargo VA Center, said today such a release protects the veteran in the event the new purchaser defaults in payment.

Byrd explained the law allows veterans to be released from liability to the Government provided the new purchaser meets credit requirements and assumes the veteran's obligations to the Government on the GI loan.

The new purchaser need not be a veteran, he pointed out, and the Government's guaranty of the loan is not affected by releasing the veteran from his liability.

The only cost of obtaining the release in most states is a small fee, usually not more than $5, for a credit report on the proposed buyer, he said.

Release of the veteran from liability to the Government does not automatically release him from liability to the lender.

However, he emphasized, VA will furnish the prospective buyer's credit report to the lender, and otherwise assist any veteran who wishes to seek his lender's release.

VA makes no charge for this service, Mr. Byrd said, although the lender may require the payment of a nominal fee for the processing of his release.

Identical Twin Girls Are Sought

Wanted by Legion for National Convention

The American Legion is seeking identical twin girls to serve as beauty queens during the organization's 41st annual national convention in the Twin Cities August 22-27.

The pair will ride a float in the Legion's gigantic 10-hour parade in Minneapolis on Aug. 21 as well as performing other official duties during the conclave.

They will spotlight the Twin Cities aspect of the meeting which is expected to attract Legionnaires from every state and several foreign countries.

Qualified candidates must be high school graduates, at least 18 years old. Applicants should send full length photograph of both girls, along with home address and telephone number to American Legion, 401 WCCO Building, Minneapolis. Deadline is July 1.

Open Bottle Law Applies to Beer

While public emphasis has been upon the illegality of carrying open bottles of inoxicating liquors in motor vehicles under a new law passed during the 1959 session of Minnesota's legislature, motorists are reminded that the law covers non-intoxicating malt liquors as well.

Chapter 255, Minnesota Laws 1959, makes illegal the consumption or possession in opened containers of intoxicating liquor or non-intoxicating malt liquor in motor vehicles upon public highways. This includes 3.2 beer as well as strong beer or whisky.

The law does not forbid the carrying of these items in containers where the seal is unbroken; it provides that opened containers will be placed out of reach of the driver or passengers.

To Attend Parley for the Retarded

Two from TRF Going to Minneapolis Convention

A report on research to date into the problem of mental retardation will be heard by parents and friends of retarded children attending the ninth annual state covention of the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children.

Convention sessions will be held June 12 and 13 at Augsburg college, Minneapolis. Those attending from the Northwestern Minnesota ARC will be Mrs. Stan Cockrell and Mrs. Stan Sandvig.

Delegates will hear a report by Dr. Rudolph Capobianco, of the University of Minnesota's educational psychology department, on a research project at the Owatonna State school where a special school curriculum is being given to 24 retarded boys and girls to determine whether or not it will help them learn.

Recent advances in medical research into the causes of mental retardation will be outlined by Dr. H. H. Bruhl of the Faribault State school and hospital, and by Dight Institute for Human Gen- Dr. Sheldon Reed, director of theetics, University of Minnesota.

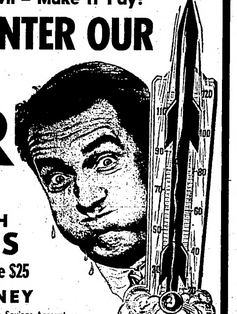
THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA
1934-1959 OUR TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY YEAR 1934-1959
CHARTERED AND SUPERVISED BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT



3.84 Inches Rain Was Registered in April

If you think the month of May was wet, you're right. A look at the statistics shows a toal of 3.84 inches fell in Thief River Falls during the month.

Compared to the same month last year, this year's total is definitely on the damp side. Only 1.14 inches were recorded during the period in 1958.

As far as temperatures go, May was a month of extremes. Five days, the mercury reached 80 degrees or above but there were eight nights when it fell to the freezing mark or below.

To add a little spice to an already changeable month,—from the 10th through the 12th the area had a windy period with gusts up to 65 miles an hour. There was some question as to whether North Dakota would have any topsoil remaining as the sun was obscured by clouds of North Dakota real estate. On the 25th, winds arose again which were clocked at 30 miles an hour and more.

The warmest day of the month was the 25th when 87 was reported but was closely followed by May 2 with an 86 degree high. The coldest nights were May 13 and 14 when the mercury dove to 28.

The average high temperature for the month was 61.3 and the average low was 38.8.

Here is a summary of the month's temperatures and rainfall:

Telephone Firm at Karlstad Gets $58,400 REA Loan

Congressman Odin Langen Tuesday received word from the Rural Electrification Administration that it had approved a loan to the Wikstrom Telephone Co. in Karlstad in the amount of $58,400.

The loan is basically for the purpose of providing dial service to 780 subscribers in Marshall, Kittson, Roseau and Pennington counties, a little less than half of whom presently have no phone service. The remainder who will receive improved service are presently served by three small companies, which the Wikstrom Telephone Co. will buy.

The loan will enable the Wikstrom company to install dial service in these exchanges, rebuild nearly all present lines and add 180 miles of new line.

In addition a new headquarters building for the company will be erected in Karlstad. With the approval of this loan this company will eventually be serving 1350 subscribers in its northwestern Minnesota area.

357 out of 956 Rural Boxes Found to Be OK

A recent inspection of the 956 rural mail boxes served by the Thief River Falls postoffice revealed that 357 of the total were in good condition and met all requirements, while a large number of other boxes were found to have a variety of faults, Postmaster R. J. Dryden reported this week.

Most common irregularity, found on 180 boxes, was lack of the owner's name, while on 17 others the names were so faded as to be difficult to read.

Fifty four boxes needed new posts, 31 were not fastened securely to the posts and 33 posts were loose. Among other faults were 14 boxes without signal flags and 23 either too high or too low.

You can't help loving this little pup. Maybe it's because he seems so out of proportion. If he somehow were able to flap those ears he might fly away.

Perhaps there is a little fellow in your home who is "all ears" in another sense . . . a youngster who takes in everything that's said, including some things he isn't meant to hear.

Most children are eager to listen . . . hungry to learn. That is why the early years are so important in the molding of a child's character. The things he hears, whether right or wrong, make a deep impression on his mind. They are soon reflected in his actions and words.

Wise parents take advantage of the Church's program of religious education in implanting those early impressions. They know there is no surer builder of character than religious faith.

NOW . . . while your child is eager to hear and to learn, bring him to church . . . and support the Church in its great undertaking.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SWIMMING was a popular pastime during last week at the Tindolph park beach as the waters warmed under sunny skies and temperatures in the high 70's and 80's. While mothers and their toddlers sunned themselves or gathered under the shade of the trees, children took advantage of the first swimming of the season. This picture was taken Thursday, June 4.

Aphid Infestation is Serious Threat

(by Paul Stelmaschuk)

Farmers need to be alert and watching for infestation of green bugs in grain fields, especially in oats. Reports of green bug infestation on grain as far north as Detroit Lakes are coming in. Reports vary in the degree of infestation. Some fields carry a light infestation while others are severely infested.

The green bug is a relative of last year's green bugs aphids that infested the grain fields. IT IS NOT the same aphid. The green bug reproduces much more rapidly and does greater damage. If the weather stays cool the green bugs may move in earlier than the aphids did last year, and close observation of fields is necessary. This is early in the season for green bugs to appear and the next grains need close watch over the next several weeks.

Green bugs cause stunting or yellowing of the grain. If there are about 50 to 100 aphids per foot of grain row, it may be necessary to spray. When you have areas of stunted grain it may be too late, so watch it closely.

Green bugs can be controlled by using one pound of actual malathion per acre, and a weed sprayer can be used for spraying.

Parathion at ¼-lb. per acre will also control the aphids but this is poisonous and should not be used in ground sprayers. Methyl parathion, TEPP, or Phosdrin should also be used only in aerial sprayers. Combination of weed spray and insect sprays are possible, but insect spray used alone can be used more effective since more pressure can be applied.

Mercury Tops 90 and Area Gasps

Cooler Weather Predicted under Partly Cloudy Skies

Temperatures topped the 90 mark twice last week under slightly cloudy skies as residents of the area sought the cooling water at the Tindolph park swimming beach during the daylight hours or the shade of trees in their own back yards.

According to the KTRF weather station, a temperature of 92 was reached Saturday and 93 Sunday with readings of 81 Friday and 87 Thursday. Readings during the nights ranged from 54 Wednesday to 70 Saturday.

Relief from the sweltering heat has been promised in the forecast which calls for partly cloudy skies through tomorrow with scattered thunderstorms today and tonight with cooler temperatures.

The high expected today is from 80 to 92 and the low tonight from 58 to 65.

Polk Co. Library Gets $30,039 Aid

County Bookmobile to Start Operating Soon

Activation of the Polk County library system was a step nearer after library officials received word Wednesday that a grant-in-aid totalling $30,039 has been approved by the state.

Dr. D. E. Stewart, chairman of the county library board, said funds will be received within a few days. He was notified of the approval by Hannis Smith, state library director.

Steps will be taken immediately to obtain a librarian to manage the county system, Dr. Stewart said. In addition, purchase of books to stock the county bookmobile unit will begin, he said.

The new county library system came into being after voters balloted in favor of a special library tax levy. Original proposals for a multi-county system embracing two or more counties in the northwestern Minnesota region were abandoned after county boards were unable to get together on a joint plan.

Tax Conferees in Legislature Again Break up

Third Committee May Be Appointed at Today's Session

The second conference committee named to try to settle the tax problem gave up Friday after only six meetings.

As before House demands for withholdings and bitter Senate opposition to it caused the breakup.

The failure to agree will be reported to the Senate and House when they reconvene at 2 p.m. today, with machinery expected to start then for appointment of a third conference committee.

The latest development did nothing to raise hopes for early adjournment of the special session of the Legislature, which ended its sixth week Friday.

"The Senate has offered nothing new," said Rep. Fred Cina, leader of the liberal majority in the House, in announcing the breakoff of negotiations.

Sen. John Zwach of Walnut Grove, Senate conservative majority leader, said the House was unwilling "even to discuss any program which is not based upon the Senate accepting withholding."

Cina said one House offer was to consider adoption of the value added or some similar tax and to use the money it would yield for personal property tax relief. This is a tax imposed on manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

Cina said it was proposed to forgive 50 per cent of the personal property tax on manufacturers', wholesalers' and retailers' inventories and on farmers' livestock and to abolish the personal property tax on household goods.

He said acceptance of this would have meant personal property tax relief totaling 22½ million dollars a year.

Other proposals rejected by the Senate, he said, included House acceptance of the Senate tax plan, with withholding; acceptance of a plan to figure state income tax as a percentage of the federal income tax, withholding; and to submit the withholding question to a statewide referendum at a special election.

Both sides said the sales tax had been mentioned but not seriously discussed.

Breakup of the conference came as a surprise. Twenty-four hours earlier the conferees had issued a statement optimistic in tone and after their morning meeting Friday the group announced plans for Saturday and Monday meetings.

Many Activities on 10th Dairy Day

Big Event Tuesday Expected to Draw 280 Dairy Calves

On the basis of registrations from the 11 participating counties, it appears today that fully 280 choice dairy calves will be exhibited by 4-H club members at the tenth annual Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 9.

Close observers agree that the most noteworthy feature of the annual event is the outstanding improvement in the quality of animals shown in successive Dairy Days since 1950, testifying to the fact that the dairy industry in this area has a bright future, with so many highly skilled boys and girls taking an interest in the work.

The calf show will be staged, as in past years, on West Second st. north of the Auditorium and arena. Registration will start at 7:30 a.m., while judging will get under way at 10:30 and continue until the early afternoon. Scheduled for 3:45 p.m. is the annual showmanship contest, followed at 4 o'clock by the award of prizes to the calf exhibitors.

Judging of the calf entries will be done by two authorities in the field, Hugo Albrecht, past president of the Minnesota Holstein Breeders association, and Olaf Kjomme, Guernsey breeder and for many years associated with Boulder Bridge Farms, an outstanding Guernsey establishment.

Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee and originator of Dairy Day, will serve as master of ceremonies at the calf show, as he has done at each of the nine preceding events. Also playing a prominent role in the day's activities will be Diane Schroeder of Rindal in Polk county, who last year was crowned Northwest Dairy Princess here and then went on to win the state title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Following the princess coronation ceremony at 4:15, the Parade of Champions will proceed through the downtown streets at 5 o'clock. Included in the line of march, in addition to the princess contestants and the dairy calves will be the Red Lake Falls, Fertile and Thief River Falls high school bands and the Bridgeman Half-pints.

Concluding event on Tuesday's program will be a banquet at 6:30 in the St. Bernard's church parlors, invitations to which have been sent to financial supporters of Dairy Day, past and present dairy princesses and champion calf exhibitors, and county agents and home agents, who have given valuable assistance.

PRINCESS KAY It will be a sort of homecoming Tuesday for Diane Schroeder of Rindal in East Polk county when she returns to the city where a year ago she was crowned Northwest Dairy Princess, the first step in her advancement to the proud title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way, which she will retain until a new state dairy princess is crowned at the state fair late in August. Diane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Schroeder of Rindal, will crown the new princess in coronation ceremonies Tuesday, and will also share in other events on Dairy Day. During the past nine months, she has made countless appearances at dairy industry promotional events thruout Minnesota and adjoining states.

33 Aspirants to Vie for Princess

Seven Former Dairy Princesses Guests on 10th Anniversary

Thirty-three contestants from 11 northwest Minnesota counties will vie for the honor of being named the 10th Dairy Princess during Northwest Dairy Day festivities in Thief River Falls Tuesday afternoon.

Entries have been received from East Polk, Pennington, Clearwater, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Kittson, Roseau, West Polk, Beltrami and Red Lake counties. According to Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsoring agency, the contestants from Beltrami county are the first to enter the contest in the 10-year history of the competition.

The Princess contestants will report Tuesday morning at 9:30 in the Elks club rooms, where they will draw their numbers and receive instructions. According to Rudy Melhouse, chairman of the event, the girls will talk with the judges until 11 a. m. and will then have luncheon. Following the luncheon, contestants will change into formal wear for final judging.

Judges for the contest this year are Mrs. Elsie Bringold of Hudson, Wis.; Dan Donahue, feature writer for the Minneapolis Tribune; and Ray Wolfe of the University of Minnesota Institute of agriculture.

The decision of the judges will be sealed in an envelope and will not be disclosed until Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee and emcee of the coronation ceremony, announces the Princess and her two attendants at the 4:15 p. m. event.

Following the coronation, the Princess and her attendants as well as the other contestants will take part in the parade through the downtown area. Each will ride in a car marked

McQuain was believed to have died instantly when he was thrown from his 1957 station wagon as it rolled 2½ times on the roadway and finally came to rest in the ditch. He had been attending an American Legion convention at Baudette over the weekend when the mishap occurred.

Charles Shirley is Best Guesser in 1st Federal Contest

What may well be the shortest contest in the area's history ended Saturday afternoon, June 6, when the time-temperature sign at the First Federal Savings and Loan association flashed a 95-degree reading and the time, 3:06 for a half hour.

The contest, which opened June 1, offered a total of $150 in three prizes to those who guessed most nearly the day, hour and minute the sign first recorded 95 degrees in 1959. Prizes would be doubled if the winners had either a savings or home loan account at First Federal.

All three winners fell into the double-money category. First prize of $200 went to Charles Shirley, 225 Kneale ave. S., who guessed the day and hour of June 6 at 2:45 p.m. Mrs. Joe Havlick of Plummer, who estimated the date and time at 2:30 p.m. on June 6, won $100 and S. H. Ness, rt. 5, who guessed the date and time of June 6 at 4:30 won a $50 prize.

Most Minnesota Snakes Harmless

Few Rattlesnakes Found in Southeastern Corner

Most snakes found in Minnesota are harmless. In fact, of the 17 varieties of snakes in the state, only two—the timber rattlesnake and the swamp rattlesnake—are poisonous. And to narrow it down even further, Minnesota's poisonous snakes are found only in the southeastern corner of the state, in an area bounded roughly by a line through Stillwater, Owatonna and Austin. No rattlers have been reported beyond this limit.

Several harmless snakes have been mistaken for the dangerous variety, however, according to Walter W. Breckenridge, director of the Minnesota Museum of Natural History at the University of Minnesota. Common confusion arises with the aggressive and belligerent water snake, found in the lakes and rivers in southern Minnesota; the tiny red-bellied snake found in all parts of Minnesota, named for its bright orange belly, often confused with the poisonous copperhead snake; and the stubby, heavy-bodied hog-nosed snake, feared because of its hissing. None of these snakes is poisonous or dangerous, assures Professor Breckenridge.

Should you encounter a snake, chances are he'll go away from you as quickly as he can. But, one quick look at a Minnesota snake's tail will tell you whether or not you've anything to fear. If the end of his tail is sharply pointed, it is definitely not a rattlesnake; but, if the tail is blunt and has rattles, beware—this is a poisonous snake.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association, through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Despite a fire in 1952 that ruined all his trees, Ben Helm, Forest Lake, still has some 200,000 evergreens growing in new plantations. He had about 150,000 trees — all hand-planted — growing when the fire struck seven years ago and destroyed them all. But he wasn't dismayed and has been planting more trees ever since. And it's paying off. Last fall, he sold several hundred Christmas trees from the oldest plantation.

Soils Scientists in the future may develop a better nitrogen fertilizer for turfs on lawns, golf courses and parks. According to W. P. Martin, head of the University of Minnesota soils department, work is underway on an experimental product now. Hopes are that it can be applied once during the year and give good uniform turf growth throughout the summer. The experimental material is peat treated with amonia under-heat and pressure. While it shows possibilities, it needs more testing for complete evaluation.

Farm ponds in Fillmore county get more use than simply watering livestock. Last fall, about 40 wild geese landed on the farm pond of Louis Barth, East Fillmore soil conservation district cooperator, near Preston. Barth says ducks and deer are also frequent visitors to the stock watering ponds in the county.

County 4-H'ers Make an Electrification Survey in Rural Area

An electrification survey was conducted recently through the 4-H members in Pennington county, and 43 per cent of the 212 4-H families completed the survey sheets, according to county agent Paul Stelmaschuk. The survey revealed the extent of electrification of farms and homes. All of the farms completing the survey showed they had electrical power.

The number of electric motors used to power equipment on farms varied from a high of 24 motors to 1 motor with an average of 6.2 motors per farm. The number of pieces of electrical equipment driven by motors varied from a high of 24 items to a low of one, the average being 7.2.

The extent to which power was distributed through the building was revealed by the following data. Outlets in granaries averaged two; pump houses, 1.7; barns, 4; milkhouses, 2; shops, 3; garages, 2; and chicken coops, 1.7.

The homes reported the following appliances:

The survey revealed a high usage of clear bulbs throughout the homes. They are not recommended except when used under shades. The kitchens in homes seem to be best lit with a majority of homes using fluorescent lights with auxiliary lighting from frosted or clear bulbs. Over one-half of the bulbs used are below 60 watts. The size of the room and number of bulbs determine the number of bulbs required for proper lighting. The survey revealed too great a usage of small bulbs in many homes.

REA was first introduced into this county in late 1930's. Since that time the farms show a great extent of electrification with 6.2 electric motors per farm; 7.2 electrical equipment items; 90 per cent of the farm buildings and 100 per cent of the farm homes, and many home appliances as shown in the report.

All this meant a great change in farm life. Greater use of electricity and mechanization in general requires greater management ability and knowledge. A farmer used to the methods of 50 years ago would be lost in trying to operate present mechanized farms.

The trend in relieving the human labor load through application and use of electricity and gasoline motors is expected to continue. What the future holds is hard to predict. But, with the development and application of solar and atomic energy to machines, equipment and building heat and ventilation, further dramatic changes are, no doubt, destined to come about in farm and urban living.

Transplanting Tomatoes

One of the most popular garden vegetables is the tomato. Although you can produce a good crop by growing tomatoes from seed, the best way to assure yourself of early tomatoes is to start plants indoors.

Selection of good varities is very important. If you live in northern Minnesota grow Fireball Moreton Hybrid. If you live in southern Minnesota, Firesteel, Moreton Hybrid and Big Boy are all excellent choices for your garden.

Don't make the mistake of setting the plants out too early. The soil as well as the air should be warm for good growth and development of tomatoes. Usually it's best to wait until after Memorial Day before transplanting tomatoes.

If space is not a problem, set the plants four by four feet apart. If you stake the plants, you may plant them as close as 18 to 21 inches apart in the row to conserve space.

Lay long, spindly plants in a shallow trench about four inches deep, with only about four or five inches of the top extending out of the soil. Such plants will produce roots along the stem and become established more quickly than if they are set deep in the soil.

Apply a fertilizer solution to the roots of the plants when you set them out in the garden. Mix one-half cup of any complete fertilizer like 8-19-6 or 5-20-20 with a gallon of water. Apply one-half cup of this solution to the roots of each plant when transplanting.

When tomatoes are spaced close together, it is necessary to prune them. As the plants begin to branch, remove the small side shoots that develop between the leaf and the main stem. Allow only one or two stems to develop and tie these to a support of some kind.

There would be very little veal on the market if there was no dairy industry. Nearly all veal is produced from dairy calves.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Trouble "Shooters"

Stretch Taylor, captain of the high school basketball team, thought up a great way to keep the new schoolyard clean.

The teachers were having trouble keeping the kids from leaving their ice cream wrappers, empty milk cartons and paper napkins in the area after lunch and after school... in spite of the handy trash cans.

So Stretch got the idea of equipping each can with a small basketball backboard and a sign saying "Shoot a basket." From the way the trash problem disappeared, our school should have a basketball powerhouse next season.

From where I sit, every problem needs just one good solution. For instance, it occurs to me that in getting along with our neighbors, tolerance is the solution. That means that your choice of tea should be honored just the same as my preference for a glass of beer. Makes for a "high scoring" combination in the friendship department.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—A friend of mine, not a veteran, made a fairly large extra principal payment on his house recently, and was required by the lender to pay some additional interest as a penalty. My friend says this is a common practice in conventional loan arrangements. I understand however, that it is not possible where the loan is a GI loan. Am I correct?

A—You are right. The GI loan specifically states that no penalty charges may be made if a veteran wishes to make an extra principal payment on his loan. The extra payment, however, must be at least $100, or a full monthly payment, whichever is smaller.

Q—I am going to college under the Korean GI Bill. If I take a part-time job this summer will I have to report those earnings to the VA?

A—No. Students taking classroom college training under the Korean GI Bill need not report outside earnings, and outside earnings do not affect allowance checks in any way.

Q—My husband died recently of a service-connected condition, and I am now drawing death compensation payments from VA. I have a chance to take a secretarial job. Would my earnings in a job decrease the amount of my compensation?

A—No. Your income would have no effect on your death compensation. Income limitations do apply, however, to pensions based on deaths not connected with military service.

Q—I let my permanent plan GI insurance policy lapse, and along with it, the total disability rider I was carrying. I reinstated the basic insurance policy but not the disability rider. In reinstating the disability income provision, must I pay all back premiums on it plus interest, or can I just add a new disability rider?

A—In reinstating a lapsed disability income rider to your GI insurance you may either follow the procedure of paying back premiums, with interest, and fulfilling health conditions, as you did with your basic permanent plan insurance policy, or you may simply apply for a new disability rider.

Matchefts Winner of Shortstop in Extra Hole Match

Tied with Roseau's Ted Listug After 27 Windy Holes Played Sunday

The local club's John Matchefts and Roseau's Ted Listug were tied at the end of the twenty-seven hole medal play tournament played over local course on Sunday, with each golfer posting a 116. In the extra-hole playoff, Matchefts carded a five, while Listug marked up a six. Reid Stromberg gained third place honors with an aggregate of 118.

The championship flight competition was decided on a medal play basis, but the remaining flights were decided by medal play. Mark Chommie won the first flight honors defeating Dick Moum in the finals. Elmer Zachar was the consolation winner. The Coast-to-Coast trapshooting squad, sparked by a straight 25 by Walt Fisher, and "25's" by Don Olson and Darrel Wood, defeated the Wilson Bros. squad, 117 to 115, last Thursday evening to remain undefeated in league competition. Olson had a 24-1, while Wood scored a 21-5.

The Oen's Appliance team edged out Dr. Jim Disse's squad, 119 to 116, in spite of the fact that Bob Baker, with a 23-7, and Gene Gaer, with a 21-8, had "25's" for Disse's squad while Gordon Olen's 22-4 was the lone "25" marked up for Oen's.

The defending league champion Times, with Bill Dahlquist posting a 21-6, Bob Mattson a 21-5, Mel Zitzow a 19-8, and Jim Rude a 21-6, had the evening's high aggregate, 123 as they defeated the Starekow Clinic squad, who totaled a 117. For the losers, Dr. Milt Starekow had a 21-5, and Phil LeGault scored a 17-8.

The Northern Chevrolet squad scored a one-bird victory over the Pharmacy, 122 to 121. Howie Brandt, with a 20-6, Erling Torgerson, with a 21-4, and Walt Jung, with a 22-4, had "25's" for the winners, with Red Thyren, with a 23-4, and Don Stewart, with 22-3, had "25's" for the Pharmacy.

Goodridge Bows 7-0 to Prowlers in Semis

Righthander Harley Drees, with a one-hit 15-strikeout pitching performance, hurled the Prowlers to a 7 to 0 win over the Goodridge Huskies in a district high school baseball tournament semi-finals game played at the Fair Grounds diamond Thursday night.

In the other semi-finals tilt played on Thursday evening, coach Bud Ellingson's Climax Vikings, with an eight-run outburst in the 6th inning, defeated the Alvarado Indians, 14 to 9.

The Prowlers vs. Huskies semi-finals game on Thursday night was a well-played and interesting game, and the locals were pressed to record their 7 to 0 victory over coach Curly Gasperlin's club.

In the first inning, with the Prowlers having first bats, Eddie Lietzow drew a walk, stole second, advanced to third on Jerry Jorgenson's infield out, and scored on Arlan Hjelle's infield out.

The Prowlers, in the second inning, added another run when, with one out, Gary Anderson doubled to right-center; Gary Klungness walked; and Lietzow was safe on Gary Sorenson's boot, filling the bases. Jorgenson fouled out to third base, but Hjelle was given a pass, forcing in Anderson with a tally.

In the fifth, a walk to Hjelle, a stolen base, and Weckwerth's single to right field added a Prowler run. The locals, getting three hits in the sixth inning, plated a pair of runs, and closed out the game's scoring with two runs in the seventh inning.

Drees, who retired Goodridge in order in five of the seven innings, gave up a hit to Mike McEnelly in the fourth inning after doling out a walk to Eldon Groven with one out. Dree struck out Marlan Warne and Clarence Carlson to snuff out that threat.

In the sixth inning, with one away, the Huskies lead-off man, Gary Anderson, was safe at first on an error (the only miscue committed by the Prowlers), a passed ball moved Sorenson to second; Grovem struck out; the dangerous McEnelly worked Drees for a walk; clean-up batter Marlan Warne laced a line drive that shortstop Lietzow speared by a leaping catch, retiring the side.

Prowlers Win Dist. 31 Title, Enter Regional

The Prowlers made a shambles of the 31st district baseball championship game with the Climax Vikings here on Friday night, erupting for 16 runs in the last half of the 4th inning to bust open a 1 to 1 tie game and rack up a 20 to 1 triumph.

The Prowlers will enter the Region Eight high school baseball tournament at Bagley on Tuesday and Wednesday. According to present plans, the Roseau Rams of District 32 will play Blackduck of District 29 in a 6:00 p.m. game on Tuesday; and at 8:00 p.m. the Prowlers will meet the Twin Valley team of District 30. The two winners will meet at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday for the regional title.

Friday's district championship was, for three frames, an even-steven affair. In the 2nd inning, the Prowlers, on a walk to Paul Saurdiff with one away, a single by Jim Wegge, and a single by Gary Anderson, gained a 1 to 0 lead.

Climax evened the game in the 3rd inning when Ron Peterson was safe on Saurdiff's muff of a fly ball; Stan Erickson was given a walk; Gary Odegard's sacrifice, third to first, moved the runners to second and third; and then a neatly executed "squeeze" play, with Allan Peterson dumping a bunt down the first base line, tallied Ron Peterson with the tying run.

But in the last half of the 4th inning, the Vikings' defenses collapsed, and with the Prowlers clubbing out eight hits, coach Skay's team racked up 16 runs. In this hectic inning, in which the Prowlers batted around twice, Climax committed seven errors.

Watch Those Bums!

We have been lavish with our praise and print about the talents and abilities of the baseball Prowlers and Thieves. And these two clubs deserve these praises. But we have been skimping the Bums of Wally Grovum.

The Bums, who are the defending league champions of the Pen-Ro-Shall league, are producing their share of interesting and entertaining baseball. And the Bums are having fun.

That they are capable of playing a fine brand of ball was proven last Wednesday night when, in an exhibition game played at Erskine, the Bums scored a 3 to 0 win over the Merchants, the team that is currently leading the Northern Minny league.

In that game, Erskine used righthander Ronnie LaChance, who pitched creditable ball in limiting the Bums to but six hits. But Mickey Hanson, the recently graduated Prowler all-around athlete, gave up but three hits in turning in the calcimine job on the Merchants. Mickey had 12 strikeouts, while LaChance had 15 strikeouts for Erskine.

That the slender Bums righthander had some stuff on the ball is indicated by the fact that Hanson had seven assists on ground balls batted to the mound.

The Bums will be "home" next Sunday afternoon, playing Gryggla in a league game on the Fair Grounds diamond.

City Golf League Play Open

Jovial Jack Boyer, the local golf club's pro, announced that the city golf league will begin play on its 1959 schedule on Wednesday evening, June 10.

Boyer's announcement is a partial explanation of the mysterious and anonymous messages we have been receiving carrying the terse legend: "Watch Nelson's Grocery."

Wes Johnson has a team in the city golf league called the Nelson's Grocery, but we are somewhat puzzled as to why we should watch his outfit. Perhaps the communications are from league opponents warning that the Nelson's squad will commit some skullduggery in the rough and the sand traps and on out-of-bounds play. We would rather not believe that Wes' boys would stoop to such tactics.

Perhaps the team has developed into such a squad that they are a threat for the title, and that is the reason we should pay heed to their play?

Miscellany

Dennis Bakke and Bob Dahl, two of Jack Junker's all-round athletes at Newfolden, have been given scholarships to Luther college. The two boys made a trip to Decorah, Iowa, for an interview and a get-acquainted meeting, and they decided that Luther is where they will be getting their college education . . . Jim Stordahl, Roseau's all-state tournament hockey player, fine football quarterback, and a baseball second baseman, will be attending the University of Minnesota. . . . It is reported that Herschel (Pepper) Lysaker, the former Crookston Pirates star athlete, and now attending the University of Minnesota, will be transferring to North Dakota U this fall. The fact that Dwayne Sundby, the former Crookston Central football coach, will be coaching as an assistant to Sioux football coach Marv Helling this fall, may have had some influence on Pepper's decision. . . . It is probable that Roseau's Dale Olson, another of the Rams' all-state tournament hockey selections, will be casting his lot with the Minnesota Gophers.

NOTICE

Baseball fans holding ticket stubs numbered K227822 and K227824, should present these stubs to Harold Stroble at the Sears store here and receive the prizes that were awarded at the Merchants Night drawing at the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday night. One winner, Harold D. Anderson, was present at the game Sunday and received a $15 award.

Boat Owners Must Buy Licenses Not Later Than June 30

County Auditor Explains Provisions of New Law Enacted by Legislature

Boat licenses will go on sale Monday morning, June 8, in three locations in Thief River Falls, it was announced by Charles Rodekuhr, county auditor.

The licenses, made necessary by the Minnesota Boat and Water Safety act passed by the legislature this year, are required on all boats in the state and must be purchased before July 1.

Rodekuhr emphasized that certain information must be obtained before licenses are issued at the county office, at Oen's Appliance Service or at the Coast to Coast store. Licenses cannot be granted until owners can give the length of the craft, its year, make and type; whether it is for pleasure, rental, owned by a dealer or is public-owned; inboard, outboard or other power; material of the hull; boat manufacturer's serial number and motor serial number.

Licenses are issued for two years. Boats under 16 feet in length will cost their owners a $1.50 fee and those over that length will cost 50c for each additional foot in length. Dealers' licenses are $10 for the two-year period.

Duplicate licenses to replace those which are lost and to license boats purchased from a previous license holder are 75c.

Numbers to be placed on boats must be furnished by the boat owners. The law requires that the numbers must be painted or purchased and affixed to the forward half of the boat on each side. Letters and numbers of reflectorized material must be not less than three inches in height.

A single glass of milk makes enough energy for the average person to play nine holes of golf—or walk one mile—or climb 186 stairs — or houseclean for two hours—or dance for one hour—or play cards for 3½ hours.

Dairying is America's greatest single source of farm income. About 20 cents of each dollar of cash receipts from farm products come from dairying.

CHAMPIONS Coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers will enter the Region Eight tournament at Bagley on Tuesday and Wednesday as the champions of District 31. The Prowlers, who have posted a season's record of fifteen wins, one loss, and one tie, will meet Twin Valley, champions of District 30, in a first round regional game on Tuesday evening.

PROWLER shortstop: a greatly improved and valued member of coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers this season is Eddie Lietzow the local club's shortstop. Not only does Lietzow play a strong game defensively, but the sophomore has developed into an ideal lead-off man. Eddie, a rangy youngster who bats left-handed, will lead off the Prowler attack as the locals open play in the regional tournament at Bagley on Tuesday night, meeting Twin Valley.

Thieves Took Eldred 11 to 4 Here Sunday

Except for the 1st and 8th innings, when they solved Tom Fenno's slants for four hits and four runs in the two frames, the Thieves had their troubles in solving the assortment of pitches offered up by the Eldred southpaw. The Thieves won the Northern Minny league game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday night, defeating Eldred by an 11 to 4 score.

The Thieves will engage in a mid-week game this week, meeting the Fosston nine on the Fosston diamond on Thursday night. Game time has been set at 8:00 P.M.

On Sunday night, the Thieves racked up four runs in the opening inning on singles by Joey Poole and Larry Gilbertson, a walk to Rod Max, a double by Glenn Carlson, a walk to Leslie, and a single by Frank Gunderman.

Eldred, on a pair of Thieves' errors, a ground single by Jerry Enstad, and a sacrifice fly by John Kraft, scored twice in the 4th inning, to pare the locals' lead.

The locals, on three walks and a single by Gilbertson, shoved across two runs in the last half of the 4th inning, to regain their four-run lead.

But the visitors came back with a pair of doubles, by Hank Hulst and John Kraft, plus a passed ball, to score a pair of runs in the 7th inning, and apply pressure on the Thieves.

Fenno, after giving up four hits in the 1st inning, had allowed the Thieves but two hits, on singles by Gilbertson in the 3rd and 4th innings, until the 8th inning, when the locals tagged his delivery for four safeties to score four runs.

The Thieves, righthander, Gene Leslie, limited Eldred to three hits, but the visitors from the Red River valley secured full mileage out of those hits, scoring four runs, and having the satisfaction of not leaving a man on base.

Brisk Demand Noted for '59 College Grads

Still further improvement was shown during the month of May in employment demand for college graduates of 1959.

Latest indications are that at least 90 per cent of all available engineering graduates are being placed by commencement time, along with three-fourths of the business administration graduates and two-thirds of the liberal arts men. Nearly all remaining grads available for employment should be placed by early fall, at salaries averaging $20 to $10 a month higher than the boom levels of 1957. At 20 engineering schools all job candidates were reported placed by June 1.

The above figures are based on final reports from the 24th annual survey of college employment, just completed by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Two features of the 1959 employment market most often mentioned by placement officials are the resurgence in recruiting of engineers by defense industries and the unprecedented demand for accountants in general business.

Starting salaries for engineers will probably average out somewhere between $490 and $510 this year. Averages most frequently mentioned for business graduates by the various schools ranged from $385 to $420, with liberal arts graduates generally commanding a few dollars less than the business seniors.

Reporting in the survey were 78 technical schools and university engineering colleges, 68 university schools of business administration, 65 liberal arts colleges and university liberal arts departments.

Three-fourths (62) of the engineering schools, two-thirds (50) of the business schools and over half (39) of the liberal arts colleges report more job offers this spring than last, with gains generally running from 10 to 20 per cent.

Placement officials appraise 1959 as definitely better than last year—and they generally rated 1958 as a fairly good college placement year, in spite of its sharp decline from the frantic pace of 1957.

Minnesota Beet Sugar Industry Set Record in '58

High Mark of 321,478,000 Pounds of Sugar Produced in Four State Refineries

Minnesota's beet sugar industry produced an all-time record high of 321,478,200 pounds of sugar from the 1958 crop beets, it was announced today.

This exceeds by over 40,000,000 pounds the previous record of 278,163,800 pounds of sugar produced from beets planted in 1956.

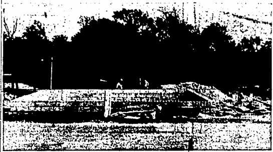
National production figures also show a new all-time record high of 4,141,856,000 pounds of sugar, an increase of nearly six million pounds over the previous record year of 1957.

Minnesota production record, which accounted for 7.76% of the national production, ranked it fourth in the nation behind California, Colorado and Idaho.

Sugar beets, produced in 22 states, account for nearly one-fourth of all sugar consumed in the United States each year. More than 60 factories, including four in Minnesota, process the crop.

Compiling of national beet sugar production figures awaits the processing of the spring beet harvest in some parts of California, where beets planted the previous year are left in the ground over the winter.

Processing plants in Minnesota are located in East Grand Forks, Crookston, Moorhead and Chaska. Beets are raised in some 25 counties stretching from the Canadian border in the Red River Valley of the North to the counties adjacent to Iowa on the south.



TOURIST PARK Workmen took advantage of the rainless days to install the drainage field and foundation of the restrooms in Riverside park. The building will be located just off Riverside ave. on top of the hill overlooking the river and park.

Dairy Products Best Buys in June

Eggs, Turkeys, Chickens Also Are in Good Supply

Meal planners can look forward to a long list of choice ingredients for June menus, reports Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

The largest supplies of milk and dairy products of the year will be available to Minnesota consumers in June. In recognition of these abundant supplies which signal June Dairy Month, the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives these foods top billing on its list of plentiful foods for the month. Total milk production is especially heavy supply is nonfat dry milk.

Eggs are June's best protein buy. Supplies of eggs are expected to continue heavy all month. According to the Department of Agriculture, there never has been a time when consumers could buy so many eggs for one hour's pay. An hour's wages today will buy about nine times as many eggs as 50 years ago.

Mrs. Loomis suggests that homemakers who delight in pleasing their families can do so without straining the budget by serving a variety of main dishes and light desserts featuring eggs.

Large supplies of consumer-size turkeys and broiler-fryer chickens for outdoor barbecuing will be coming to market in June. The chicken hatching industry set an all-time record for turning out baby chicks for the broiler-fryer industry in March. Since most of these broiler chickens come to market when they are about 10 weeks old, supplies during the first half of June will be unusually large.

2 Easter Seal Camps to Be Opened Shortly

Announcement of the opening of the two Minnesota Easter Seal camps, Camp Courage and the Easter Seal Speech Camp, was coupled today with announcement of plans for a broad camp expansion program.

The announcement was made by Rustan O. Thayer of Minneapolis, president of the Easter Seal Society (Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults).

"Another record year is expected at both camps," Thayer said, "with an estimated 450 crippled children and adults to be served at Camp Courage near Annandale and Maple Lake and 126 speech-handicapped youngsters at the Easter Seal Speech Camp near Stillwater."

Thayer said the first of three three-week sessions at the speech camp will begin Sunday, June 14. The first of five two-week sessions at Camp Courage will start Sunday, June 21.

"Of real interest to all of us in Minnesota who are interested in helping the handicapped is the new five-year development program approved by the Easter Seal Society's board of directors," Thayer said.

"Immediate expansion of Camp Courage already under way includes the erection of an additional staff house, the gift of a St. Paul friend; establishment of a fragrance garden for crippled and blind children by the Minnetonka Garden Club, and the small animal zoo to be provided by several Lions Clubs from this area. In addition, plans call for the addition of a second unit at Camp Courage, to provide space for 250-300 new campers each summer."

Thayer said this unit, to be financed by special gifts from individuals and groups, is expected to be completed by 1961.

He said it will provide additional facilities for speech-handicapped and crippled children.

ON TV Douglas Paul Hanson, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Hanson (nee Palma Jahr) of Whittier, California, formerly of Thief River Falls, appeared recently with 5 of his classmates on the TV program, "Assignment Education." His teacher had submitted samples of techniques used to stimulate independent reading and to teach thought problems in arithmetic. These ideas found favor with the public relations section of the California Teachers' Association and were chosen to be used on this weekly program.

Douglas gave a book report on the program. He is active in band and chorus in school and is a member of the Arrowhead Baseball League, playing position of catcher. He has three other brothers, Sherwood, Steven and Gregory.

Tenth Dairy Day

Northwestern Minnesota will hold its 10th annual Dairy Day here tomorrow with the prospect that the tenth event will be both the biggest and the best. From every standpoint this activity has been successful and has served its primary purpose of maintaining interest in one of our most important agricultural industries during a period of difficult, and often discouraging, adjustment.

Here, as elsewhere, during this period of adjustment, the number of dairy farms has decreased, but our fewer herds are much larger in the number of cows and in the production per cow. We are sure that as an area we have held our own with the trend that has been nationwide. We are an area of better dairy farms, and Dairy Days have contributed toward this good result.

Including tomorrow's show, our ten Dairy Days will have had neary 2,500 livestock entries, and more than a thousand of our farm boys and girls, many of them competing in several shows, will have carefully selected and prepared their animals for competition. And behind most of these youngsters there have been a Ma and Pa as very important parts of the act. Things of this kind are important family activities that develop neighborhood and community interest.

And the princess contest has been very much worthwhile not only in adding color and a heart-throb to Dairy Days but as a pleasing publicity builder for the industry. Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way is a very busy person during the year of her reign, telling a convincing story about the merits of dairy products. Our area is especially fortunate in being the home of the charming young lady who is performing so well in that capacity this year.

Looking back, Dairy Days have an exceptionally fine record and their success can be attributed to the fact that they have had the enthusiastic support of the dairy industry and its friends of eleven counties of this corner of the state. Looking ahead, we may expect a continuing record of successful Dairy Days only as the various segments of the industry and its friends continue to work together toward satisfactory solutions for their comon problems. Dairy Days help us to achieve that objective.

Funny Financing

"After a weekend recess the legislature will resume the tax argument this afternoon with little hope for an early settlement of the differences. The governor's proposed withholding system for the collection of state income taxes seems to be the cause of the deadlock.

The disagreement is not so much over the question of a withholding system as such, although there is strong opposition to the proposal because of the high cost, offset by only slightly increased revenue. The big argument is over the windfall that the governor wants so much to deaden the pain of a big spending increase.

The conservatives apparently are fed up with trick financing. They know from experience that windfalls are dangerous in that they merely postpone the inevitable tax increases. They prefer to make the disagreeable adjustments now rather than two years from now.

It may be said, in all fairness, that the governor is himself responsible for much of the bitterness hat is evident in the opposition to his plan. He talked foolishly and untruthfully in the election campaign a year ago when he said that the charges of a need for $72 million of new revenue "is a reckless distortion of the facts." He refused to admit the obvious truth that the state was in financial difficulty. A withholding tax windfall of 18 or 20 million dollars would help a great deal in covering up his misrepresentation of the facts.

In the present argument we think the conservative opposition is right. If we must spend then we will also have to pay. In recent years we have been concealing too much of the increased spending by windfall financing and by robbing junior's piggybank. We even tapped the trust funds.

The conservatives have themselves to blame for already having gone along with too much funny financing and deficit spending. We will gladly pay our share of the added cost of the special session if they now will hold the line. Better we have the showdown now than two years from now—and it isn't too late to solve the present problem by cutting appropriations.

Power Pool

Representatives of eight power companies, privately owned and cooperatives, met at Minot last week to discuss the possibility of developing a common source of power in the lignite deposits of North Dakota. A plant under construction would provide power for the eight companies which serve an area extending over four states, including northwestern Minnesota.

This plant would have a generating capacity of 160,000 kilowatts, nearly twice the capacity of the generating units at Garrison dam. It would be completed in about five years and it is estimated that in order to meet the increasing demand for power in the area additional units of this size would have to be added every two or three years.

Privately owned utilities and cooperatives are already sharing with each other the use of transmission lines. They also stand ready to assist each other with reserve power in emergencies. By pooling their facilities they have reduced their costs substantially, eliminating unnecessary duplications of both transmission lines and generating equipment for standby power.

By working together in providing common sources of low cost power for future needs, all of the companies, and the people of the large area they serve, will benefit.

If this plan materializes Thief River Falls could share in the benefit. Minnkota Power Cooperative now provides a transmission service for us and, as one of the eight companies considering a long-range program of power development for the area, Minnkota probably would be in a position to supply our future power needs at a much lower cost than we could ourselves. We are fortunate in being a part of the network.

Road to Chaos

(Wall Street Journal)

As detailed in this newspaper yesterday, the Government simultaneously owns, operates, subsidizes, puchases, promotes and regulates various forms of air, ground and water transportation. Naturally the interference is haphazard, extremely expensive and often self-contradictory.

For example, the Government subsidizes private shipping on a run where a Government-owned steamship service is in direct competition. And when one of the myriad Washington agencies involved in transportation tries to unwind a little of the fantastic red tape, it is likely to be defeated by bitter opposition from another agency.

Now two major studies are being undertaken, and a number of officials think they should be aimed at a basic reappraisal of Federal transportation policy. There is no doubt a reappraisal is urgently needed, but it is difficult to be sanguine about the results. Washington is a great place for studies; sensible action is much harder to come by.

Certainly any study, to be useful, must recognize that the key to a solution is a sharp limitation of Government intervention both as a competitor and as a regulator. For one thing, many of the ostensible original reasons for meddling have disappeared or changed. The classic case is the railroads, still tightly and inequitably controlled as the monopoly they may once have been but have not been for many years.

Beyond that, the situation the Government has created in transportation is proof that Government, when it gets too big and tries to do too much, simply cannot manage. Government cannot operate businesses efficiently because it doesn't have to go by business rules. Government cannot regulate all businesses wisely or well because, among other reasons, it inevitably smothers everything in bureaucracy. There is still no good substitute for the market judgments of millions of private individuals.

Transportation obviously is not the only demonstration of these truths, but it is one where the remedy is pretty clear: The Government should start to get off this costly road to chaos.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS from the Desk of SENATOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Juvenile delinquency rising — One of the tragic problems facing our country is the spiraling rate of juvenile delinquency. Young people in trouble with the law are raising the costs of police protection and are putting an increasingly heavy burden on welfare agencies and on juvenile court facilities.— Children's Bureau statistics show that delinquency increased more than 200 per cent between 1948 and 1956 while the number of children increased by less than 20 per cent. Police arrests of youngsters under 18 years of age increased in 1958 by 6.5 per cent over the previous year. Since 1952, such arrests are up 55 per cent, and are headed for a million arrests a year by 1962. Juvenile authorities recently told Congress that more than 2 million youngsters a year would be in trouble with police in the 1960's. And it is not just a big city problem. The delinquency rate is rising faster in small cities than in big cities—and it is rising in rural areas too.

National Program Needed— Our states, cities and local communities are working hard to control the rise in juvenile lawbreaking and to provide treatment and rehabilitation to put erring youngsters back on the right track. But juvenile delinquency is a national problem. It needs national attention, as well as action by local communities. During recent hearings of the Special Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee, I urged action on my proposal—the Delinquent Children's Act of 1959 (S. 1090) to provide Federal help and cooperation with States in strengthening and improving State and local programs.

Federal Advisory Council— S. 1090 would establish a Federal Advisory Council on Juvenile Delinquency in the Department of Health Education and Welfare to advise and to present programs for the fight on delinquency. My bill would provide up to $10 million in the third year of operation to be distributed to the States on the basis of their child population. We would authorize grants to train delinquency experts in colleges and universities and to help establish instruction in this field, as well as to publish research information to help local communities.

Youth Opportunity Program— The Delinquent Children's Act is also included in my broader Youth Opportunity Program—introduced in the Senate on February 17. This program also proposes establishment of a Youth Conservation Corps to put 150,000 boys and young men (not delinquents) out into healthy, constructive, out-doors conservation work. This would enable us to take a gigantic step forward in prevention of delinquency by taking many potential delinquents off the streets and giving them a fresh start.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

The dedication of the Port of Duluth this week dramatically illustrates the fact that world commerce can now reach us directly here in Minnesota. Increased trade and industry are on the way. Thus we have reached another milestone in the development of our state as the crossroads of the continent.

Large and Small Enterprises

The metropolitan press has recently reported many events that mark notable progress in economic growth. Many other events, particularly in our smaller cities and towns, too often go unnoticed. Yet I believe that the development of many smaller enterprises throughout our state may be just as worthy of attention and as valuable to our people. The Department of Business Development reports many such new enterprises each month.

Small Town Progress

It isn't only Duluth that is celebrating this week. New York Mills, with a population of less than a thousand, has also planned an appreciation day in honor of three new community supported industries, employing 40 people. If 40 seems small to you, remember that 40 new jobs in a town of this size can be compared with 25,000 new jobs in a city the size of Minneapolis.

An even smaller village, Clearwater, is proud of a new business manufacturing parts for a larger company. Although the village itself numbers only 224, some 60 people are employed in the new plant, on two shifts.

Statewide Development

Many of Minnesota's smaller cities are developing new industry or expanding existing enterprise. Alexandria, for example, reports that its young aircraft industry is now completing two planes a week and plans to step up the number to three. Fergus Falls is about to begin manufacturing agricultural machinery in quantity.

As these industries develop, all existing businesses prosper. More homes are built. Farmers sell more of their products. Retail sales and the demand for professional services increase.

Such examples multiplied many times throughout our state explain Minnesota's new era of progress.

Tide Turned in 1954-55

Last month, for the third year in succession, the Section of Vital Statistics, in the Department of Health reported that for the past year more people moved in to Minnesota than moved out, and the amount of the increase has been higher for each of those three years.

Up to 1954-55 Minnesota had sustained a net annual loss thru migration for a number of years. But with each year since that time the trend has changed. This migration, plus our own natural increase, gives Minnesota a provisional population estimate for 1959 of 3,418,000.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

The Child's Library Card

Reading is something that can have much to do with a child's happiness. Besides the knowledge that is acquired through reading, there are many other values. It gives children pleasure and helps to develop their imagination. Children may learn to appreciate beauty through reading good books. Humorous literature not only provides amusement, but may also help to set up habits of adapting cheerfully to circumstances. Some of the good books for very young children are rich in this sort of material. Children never tire of Leslie Brooke and Wanda Gag's and Jean deBrunhoff's funny animals. The adults who read these books aloud to children may have as much fun as the children do.

Some librarians encourage children to read by issuing library cards to children as young as four or five years of age. Most children of this age are able to print their names legibly, and they are rewarded for this achievement by being designated as "a legal borrower." This little card which is so often held lightly or unused by adults, has unlimited value and worth for children. Through its use children can enlarge and enrich their small world beyond description. Moreover, the feeling of importance a child gets by this recognition makes him still more eager to read. A child usually values his library card as much as we value our driver's license.

How soon should we start developing interest for reading in our children? One writer says consciously or unconsciously, a mother influences her child's reading from the first time he hears her say, "This little pig went to market . . ." What a child learns from his mother in the first six years of his life, shows up when he enters school.

Every time we read to the child, every time we talk ot him about his new story-book friends, "every time we pay a visit to the library or read books on our own, every time we discuss incidents from books in the presence of the youngster, we are influencing his reading. Of course our own interest in reading plays a large part in the development of reading interests and habits in our culture.

'U' Man Cites Reasons for High Meat Prices

Why are retail meat prices so high?

Why do consumers have to pay more than a dollar a pound for steak when the producer receives only 27-30 cents a pound for choice steers?

K. E. Egertson, extension economist in marketing at the University of Minnesota, says that the main reasons for the price spread between producer and consumer are: 1. Waste from the live animal to the retail cuts and 2. marketing costs.

Consumers should keep in mind, Egertson says, that meat animal is not all retail meat. In fact, 2.16 pounds of choice cattle will yield only 1 pound of retail beef.

For every 100 pounds of beef the packer buys, he can sell only 59 pounds to the retailer. The remainder— 41 pounds—is waste or low-priced by-products. To make up for shrinkage and waste, the packer must increase the price of the 59 pounds over what he paid the producer.

When the retailer purchases the 59 pounds of beef, he finds that he, too, must throw some of it away. In fact, says Egertson, almost 20 percent—or 12 of the 59 pounds—of the carcass is waste and low-priced by-products. To cover the expense of waste, packaging, handling, cutting and displaying, and allow some for profit, the retailer must increase his charge over the packer's price.

Of the total price spread between producers to consumers for beef, about 50 percent is due to waste and shrinkage and 50 percent to marketing costs. For pork, 66 percent is due to marketing costs and 33 percent to shrinkage and waste, Egertson says.

Special Session Cost Hits $223,741

Expenses up to June 3 Computed by Officers

The special session of the Minnesota Legislature cost $223,741.60 through Wednesday, June 3.

For the 33 days since the session convened April 25 this works out to $6,813 a day.

The figures were compiled in the offices of H. Y. Torrey, secretary of the Senate, and George Leahy, secretary of the House.

Largest expense is the $25 a day salary for the members. This has amounted to $97,250 for the 130 members of the House and $50,250 for the members of the Senate.

Members get no per diem allowance, as they do during the regular session, no milage and no postage allowance.

Salaries for the staff of employes, sharply reduced from the regular session, have totaled $64,668.98, printing $10,040.09, telephones $1,177.90 and office supplies $345.63.

The $25 a day per member special session salary is in addition to their annual salaries of $2,400.

St. Olaf College Paper Given High Rating in Nation

The Manitou Messenger, student newspaper at St. Olaf college, has been rated among the top six papers in the nation at schools with enrollments from 1,251 to 2,000.

The All-American award was announced this week by judges for an annual contest conducted by Associated Collegiate Press. Altogether a total of 469 college newspapers were entered in 15 different judging brackets.

Among the specific points which judges considered was the coverage of school news, creativeness, feature stories, editorial page features, sports and general make-up. They examined copies of the Messenger from the first semester of 1958-59 when the editors in chief were Virginia Larson, a senior from Minot, N. D., and Clyde Rykken, senior from Virginia, Minn.

Other members of the Messenger staff at that time included Co-sports editor, Daryl Williamson of Thief River Falls.

'Best Show Ever' General Tenth Dairy Day Verdict

Near Record Entries and Tops In Quality Make Day Big Success

By general agreement, the 1959 tenth annual Dairy Day was the best ever. According to J. M. Roche, secretary, 261 of the 284 entries appeared and he says this was probably a record participation. Stuart McLeod, president of the sponsoring organization, the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, was elated over the fine quality of the animals exhibited and the generally high standard of showmanship of the young exhibitors.

The event, replete with champions and Dairy Day royalty, was again blessed with excellent weather and a threatening late-afternoon storm held off until the final feature, the parade, was nearly completed.

Beltrami county, which sent entries to the Dairy Princess contest the first time this year, entered a winner. Dark-haired Bonita Christenson of Bemidji was chosen from 32 entries to be the Northwest Dairy Princess for the coming year and to represent the area in the state Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest at the Minnesota state fair. Myrtle Ann Blasey of Norman and Darlene Anderson of Pennington were chosen as her attendants.

The princess was chosen by Mrs. Elsie Bringold of Hudson, Wis., and Ray Wolfe of the University of Minnesota Institute of agriculture after interviews with the candidates which began at 9:30 a.m. The judges decision was announced at 4 p.m. from the stage on Second st. at W., following the introduction of six of the nine former princesses who had returned to help celebrate the 10th anniversary of the establishment of Northwest Dairy Day.

Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee, made the announcement of the selection, and Diane Schroeder of Fertile, the 1958 Princess who went on to win the state title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way at the state fair, crowned her successor.

Jerry Kruger of Warren showed the grand champion purebred of the show, a Brown Swiss, to repeat his 1957 win. The reserve purebred championship and the trip to the Waterloo Dairy Cattle congress was won by Roger Dziengel of Kennedy who showed an Ayrshire, and the title of grand champion grade and the purebred dairy calf were won by Erling Olson of Roseau, who showed a Holstein.

Breed championships were won by Larry Kresl of Angus in the Holstein division, Jeff LaVoi of Fosston in the Milking Shorthorn division, Jerry Kruger of Warren in the Brown Swiss division, Dean Stininger of Twin Valley in the Guernsey division, Marvin Peterson of Lockhart in the Jersey division and Roger Dziengel of Kennedy in the Ayrshire division.

Winners of the various class competitions were:

Redistricting Bills Passed Both Houses

Pennington and Red Lake Counties Will Be Joined to Polk

A two bill reapportionment package agreed upon by a Senate-House conference committee was passed by the House in the Minnesota legislature Tuesday and by the Senate yesterday. Reports indicate that Governor Freeman will sign the bills.

One bill calls for a constitutional amendment providing for House apportionment on a population basis and Senate apportionment on an area basis. This amendment would be voted on in the 1960 general election.

Under this plan the House membership will be increased by four to 135 and the Senate membership will remain at 67. Hennepin County will gain four Senators and eight representatives and Ramsey will gain one senator and two house members, but the five metropolitan area counties Hennepin, Ramsey, Washington, Anoka and Dakota together will never have more than 23 senators.

Legislative districts in this corner of the state will be changed under the new arrangement. To the north of us Kittson, Roseau and Marshall will remain as they now are, with one senator and each county having one representative. Pennington and Red Lake however will be added to Polk with one senator and Pennington and Red Lake will have one representative between them. Clearwater will be added to Mahnomen and Norman with one senator and one representative.

Tronderlag Will Hold Convention Here Friday and Saturday

A two-day convention of the Tronderlag will be held here this week starting Friday, the session opening formally at 1:30 o'clock at the municipal auditorium. Registration will start at 9:00 o'clock.

The afternoon meeting will open with the presentation of the American and Norwegian flags, followed by the singing of the national anthems of the two countries. An invocation will be delivered by Rev. Marvin Carlson and the visitors will be welcomed officially by Mayor O. D. Beich. Tronderlag chairman, Ragnvald Gotaas of Bemidji will respond. Business matters will be disposed of at this session.

A public program will be held at the Auditorium Friday evening starting at 7:00 o'clock with Judge Herman Kjos presiding. Community singing, a demonstration by the Sons of Norway Drill Team, and songs by a local trio, Carol Nesland, Carmen Pederson and Rose Marie Stokke, accompanied by Shirley Peterson, will precede the address of the evening delivered by Hon. L. R. Dickenson of Bemidji. At 8:00 o'clock a Norwegian movie will be presented.

Election of officers and other business will be disposed of Saturday morning starting at 10:00 o'clock and continuing on into the afternoon. The convention banquet will be served at 5:30 o'clock Saturday at the Zion Lutheran church parlor.

The local committee in charge of arrangements are Gustav Schildbred, Mrs. I. C. Aaseby and Mrs. Morris O. Odegaard.

CHIEF of the Lions Clubs in a large area of Northwestern Minnesota and Manitoba and western Ontario in Canada is James M. Parkins of this city. He was elevated to the office of District Governor Tuesday at the convention held at Port Arthur and Ft. Williams in Ontario.

New Conference Committee named on Tax Deadlock

A new tax conference committee has been named in another attempt to iron out the differences between the conservatives and the liberals in the legislature. The obstacle to agreement seems to be the governor's proposed withholding tax which would bring with it a substantial windfall of revenue even with a 50% forgiveness. The tax would require payroll employees to pay three years taxes in two.

New members named to the committee are Senators Donald Sinclair of Stephen, Charles Root of Minneapolis, Leo Lauerman of Olivia and Harold O'Loughlin of St. Paul and representatives Peter Popovitch of St. Paul, Dan Conroy of Dumont, Edmund Conn of Alden and Richard O'dea of Mahtomedi.

Mrs. Kenneth Bakke, Lee, Susan, Steven and Annmarie attended the graduation ceremonies at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks Sunday evening, in which Bruce Bakke received his degree.

Honor guests were the grand championship winners and princesses of previous shows and their parents, and the guest list included directors of the sponsoring organization, Northwest Dairy Improvement association, and representatives of the creameries, banks and businesses of the 11 participating counties who have supported the annual event.

President Stuart McLeod opened the program with a short address of welcome and an introduction of directors present and past, several of the early directors having come a long distance to attend.

Greetings from area organizations interested in the promotion of dairying were extended by Gil Thompson of Ada in behalf of the Red River Valley Dairymen's as-

Phil Hess Buys Watzke Jewelry

The fixtures and entire stock of Watzke's Jewelry and Gift shop have been purchased by Phil Hess, owner of the Jewel Box, who plans to consolidate the two stores in the Watzke location, it was announced this week.

All stock will be liquidated and the store closed for a complete remodeling before the consolidation takes place, Hess said. The closeout sale at Watzke's will continue until every item is sold.

Hess, a native of Thief River Falls, started in the jewelry business when he had completed his military service. He worked in the Harold Elofson jewelry store until 1948 when he went to the American Academy of Horology in Denver. Hay Season Brings Familiar Dangers

With the haying season here, Minnesota farmers are faced with one of the most dangerous tasks of the year.

The peril is often no greater, however, than the actions and attitudes of the people doing the work. So says Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

The danger spots range from simple tools like pitchforks to power-driven field choppers and balers.

Here are some common types of accidents to watch out for in haying operations:

Injuries from stumbling over pitchforks or from being impaled on fork handles when sliding off a haystack.

Loss of fingers or limbs in rope pulleys and accidents caused by rotten ropes that break when pulling up a forkful or sling load of hay.

Injuries from uncovered power shafts on mowers, and loss of fingers and limbs themselves, from cleaning out mowers and field choppers without shutting off the power first.

Falls from machinery, resulting in persons being crushed and often killed.

Fortunately, all of these tragedies can be prevented, Prickett says. Some good rules: Always keep protective shields on power shafts. Stop the power before cleaning a mower sickle bar. Keep children and other extra riders off tractors and towed equipment. Check the hay ropes before unloading hay; replace them if they're rotten.

IN JAPAN recently, Bob Jorstad, soldier son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jorstad of this city, enjoyed a reunion with Kiyoshi Tanabi, Japanese student who attended Lincoln high school during the 1956-57 school year. He is stationed in Korea and spent his furlough in Tokyo. In his letter to his parents Bob reports:

"Friday afternoon I went looking for Kiyoshi and luckily for me I found him. He's been coming and picking me up every morning and we have been going all over Tokyo. Friday evening we just sat at his house and visited until midnight.

"Then Saturday we went to various stores and a movie. Sunday we went to the University of Tokyo, ice skating and swimming. Yesterday we went to some shrines and temples and the Tokyo zoo, and last night we went to a theater. It was in Japanese but he explained it to me. I've never seen anything that could compare with the beauty of their costumes, the lighting and the sound effects. I've had a wonderful time which I never could have had if I had not found him."

Bob entered the service a year ago and after several state-wide moves he was sent to Korea shortly after the first of the year.

Storm Breaks in City as Dairy Day Winds up

High winds, spectacular displays of lightning, the possibility of tornadoes and .44 inches of rain highlight the area's weather picture the early part of this week.

The storm, which arrived in Thief River Falls early Tuesday evening, June 9, following the rain which resulted in a shortened Northwest Dairy Day parade, was the most noteworthy. The rain, driven by high winds, amounted to .22 inch but many tree branches were broken and lightning struck in at least two locations in the city causing negligible damage.

At 8:45 p.m., lightning struck near the roof of the Kelly Hardware store setting afire a mop which had been used for tarring the roof. The bolt then apparently followed an electrical conduit emerging through a hole it drilled in conduit on the wall of Johnnie's Hamburger shop next door to Kelly's.

There was no damage caused at either location, firemen reported after an examination of the property.

At 9 p.m., firemen were called to the Andy Homme residence at 507 Atlantic ave. N., when occupants of the home smelled smoke following a near-miss by a lightning bolt. Although firemen could also smell smoke, they could find nothing burning or damaged.

Temperatures this week have been in the 80's in the daytime with the high an 85 reported by the KTRF weather station Wednesday. The low was 55 reported Wednesday night. An additional .20 inch of rain fell Wednesday.

Partly cloudy and cooler has been predicted for today and tonight. Tomorrow, mostly fair with little temperature change is expected. The high today, June 11, is expected to be near 80 and the low tonight from 50 to 58.

Princess Honored Guest of Rotary

Local Dairy Day Used as Model, Conlon Says

Princess Kay of the Milky Way (Diane Schroeder of Rindal) was the honored guest at the Monday, June 8, luncheon meeting of the Rotary club.

The Northwest Dairy Day's own princess, who went on to win the state title, has made 393 appearances since August, she reported, promoting the use of dairy products. She was in the city to take part in the 10th annual Northwest Dairy Day and to crown her successor.

Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee and originator of Dairy Day, and Mrs. Conlon were introduced to the Rotarians by William E. Dahlquist.

Conlon opened his talk with the observation that there were present men who had attended the meeting which planned the first Dairy Day. He outlined the reasons why the event was first started and pointed to Northwest Dairy Day as the blueprint used throughout the state today for other dairy observances and the Princess contest as a nationwide model.

Conlon closed with a resume of the activities of princesses in the past as goodwill ambassadors to France, Japan, South America and other foreign lands.

Sow Farrows 32 Pigs in One Year

Harry Loggans, farming south of town, has a prolific sow. Penneo Lady, a registered Duroc, farrowed her first litter on March 17, 1958, and raised ten of the 11 pigs. Six months later she brought forth another litter of eight and raised all of them. Then on March 21 of this year, just a few days more than a year from the birthday of litter No. 1, she farrowed a litter of 13 of which nine are alive and doing well.

Thirty-two pigs farrowed in that short a time, and 27 of them raised may not set a new production mark, but it is a good record. A fourth litter is due in September and there is a possibility that the figures will be improved. Penneo Lady was two years old last April 15.

Slow Down and Live!

State Wins Awards for Traffic Safety

Two outstanding achievement awards were won by the state of Minnesota for 1958 traffic safety activities. Governor Orville L. Freeman announced the National safety council had granted "Certificates of Achievement" for outstanding performance in the maintenance of accident records and organization for traffic safety improvement.

The awards were based on reports and exhibits submitted to the national organization in the annual Inventory of Traffic Safety Activities, an over-all yardstick of traffic safety performance. The inventory is an annual appraisal of traffic accident prevention work. It shows when activities need strengthening and provides facts for improvement through action by officials, the legislature and civic groups.

By comparing Minnesota's programs with the best of other states, we are able to determine the course of action we should take, the governor explained. For example, the inventory is a guide towards uniform traffic laws and enforcement which enables all people to travel with least inconvenience and confusion among many states.

Enforcement techniques, in service training programs and officer assignments are considered within the highway patrol as means of increasing the efficiency of the agency.

The inventory is not a competition among states, the Governor reported, but a measure of performance in comparison with those states that have outstanding safety records. The awards were given for the operation of the accident records section of the highway department and the program of the Minnesota safety council, which is considered one of the best in the country.

In addition to the National Safety council award program, other awards may be made by four organizations which cooperate in the national inventory program. Still being studied are Minnesota's reports covering courts, engineering, police and drivers licensing.

Presentation to the state of the awards will be made in Duluth at the annual summer meeting of the Minnesota Safety council, August 28.

Local Power Plant Is Again in Action

Has Carried Daytime Load Since Tuesday Storm

Retention of the Thief River Falls municipal power plant in standby condition proved its worth late Tuesday afternoon, when the disastrous tornado that hit the Fargo area blew down five steel towers carrying the main power line from Garrison Dam, which supplies most of the current for this and other cities.

After a power interruption of about 20 minutes, the local Diesels were put into operation and have since carried the entire city daytime load, with sufficient bureau power available during the night, according to Morris Owen, chief engineer here.

Federal Bureau of Reclamation officials advised Owen that it will be a week or longer before the power lines are restored to full capacity.

Lew Conlon Tells Lions of Dairy Day

Lew Conlon was the speaker at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon, introduced by Morris Howick, program chairman. Mr. Conlon expressed great satisfaction with the tenth anniversary event just completed. He was especially pleased with the quality of the animals exhibited which, he said, has improved year by year.

President John Peterson reported that J. M. Parkins had been elected district governor. Dr. O. D. Beich, chairman of the club's sight conservation committee, reported that a thousand pairs of glasses had been collected in the drive just completed. He stated that the response from the local schools had been particularly gratifying.

Moral and Spiritual Values

Each culture has its own standards of what is good and what is bad. What may be considered right by one society may be considered wrong by another. So each society has to teach its children what it approves of and what it disapproves of. The major part of the responsibility of teaching moral and spiritual values, therefore falls on the parents. We, as parents, need to give the best teaching possible, and set the best example possible, but we have to remember that the child's ability to learn values develops slowly. His many mistakes in the early years should not discourage us. Four-year-old Dick may tell tall-tales, because he is not able to clearly distinguish between fact and fancy. We can enjoy his imaginings and yet help him to see the difference between real and make-believe.

It is, no doubt, a tremendous task to teach a child a specific way in which he ought to respond in every single situation he might face. In past years, there was a trend towards letting children develop their own values. Many believe that given freedom and love every child will find the right way for himself. Research shows that this is not always the case. Some children brought up in an extremely permissive atmosphere grow up into adults, who have no particular values and goals in life and who shirk the responsibility of taking a definite stand on various vital issues.

We are told that children learn decision-making by making their own decisions. This is true but they also learn from examples set by their parents. Moreover, values and standards are essential to decision-making and so children need to develop these as they gradually have increased opportunity to make their own decisions. Values which have helped parents in living, have considerable likelihood of helping the child and parents should not hesitate to teach these to their children.

We can foster spiritual experiences by creating a climate which will encourage appreciation of truth, beauty, and other virtues. For a young child spiritual experience grows out of a sense of security. For the older child, we can encourage skill in some mode of self-expression. Whatever form it takes, the parent can look for and encourage the personal values that come from the child's creating or doing something appreciated by others.

Prowlers Win Region Eight Baseball Title

Defeated Twin Valley and Blackduck at Bagley Wedensday

Playing like the champions that they are, coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers won a pair of regional high school baseball tournament games on Wednesday to gain the Region Eight title and earn a berth in the state high school baseball tourney being played in Minneapolis' Metropolitan Stadium June 23, 24, and 25.

The Prowlers, as the Region Eight representatives, will meet New Ulm from Region Three in game number three in the tournament, with game time being slated for 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday evening, June 23.

In their championship performance on Wednesday at Bagley, the Prowlers, getting low-hit and clutch pitching from their righthanders Harley Drees and Arlan Hjelle, and playing a superb game in the field, and hitting enough, defeated the Twin Valley Tigers, 2 to 1, in a semi-finals game yesterday afternoon, and in the championship finals last night, the locals defeated Blackduck, 5 to 2.

In yesterday afternoon's tilt, Drees and Twin Valley's Mickey Holen hoked up in a tight hurling duel. The Tigers, in the top of the 1st inning, picked up a run and an early lead when leadoff batter Erv Samahal popped an infield hit that fell just in front of Jerry Jorgenson's outstretched glove; Phil Peterick blazed a drive into right field, moving Samahal to third; Holen bounced a hit off Gary Anderson's glove, scoring Samahal. Drees, with runners on second and third, retired Bob Knutson on a fly, struck out Waldo Waller, and Gary Dunbar grounded out, second to first.

The Prowlers, in the 3rd inning, knotted the game on Hjelle's double and Drees' single. And in the 4th inning the locals tallied their winning run when, with one away, Gary Klungness walked, advanced to second on Eddie Lietzow's ground ball to first base, and scored on Jorgenson's solid single into left field.

Twin Valley made a desperate attempt to even the game in the 6th inning when Peterick led off with a ground single past second base; Holen struck out, and Knutson was called out on strikes as Peterick stole second; Waller drew a walk; Dunbar singled to center field, but Peterick, carrying the tying run, was erased at the plate on fine play, Klungness to Drees [illegible] Wegge, with the Prowlers [illegible] cher making the tag.

In the championship ti[illegible] night, Blackduck's Melvi[illegible] assayed an "iron man[illegible] and tried to pitch the [illegible] to the championship [illegible] ing a three-hit shut[illegible] Roseau Rams on Tu[illegible] night. Wild performed we[illegible] [illegible] George Thorbrogge[illegible] [illegible] 29 titleists, holding [illegible] [illegible] to but four hits an[illegible] [illegible] king out seven.

Hjelle, on the mound for the Prowlers, gave the hard-hitting Blackduck nine but three hits, all singles, and struck out ten.

Blackduck, following the pattern of the afternoon game, scored a run in the top of the 1st inning. Pete Huffman gained a life when Jim Wegge made a wide throw to first base after fielding a dribbler in front of the plate; Huffman stole second, moved to third on Dick Jacobson's infield hit, and tallied when Hjelle made a high throw to first base on a pickoff play.

The Prowlers made short work of getting back into the game, for in the last half of the first inning, Eddie Lietzow and Jerry Jorgenson drew walks, and Hjelle beat out a bunt to load the bases, Harley Drees banged a sacrifice fly to center, scoring Lietzow, and Jorgenson followed with a run on a passed ball and a throwing error by the catcher.

A walk to Klungness with two away in the 2nd inning, a stolen base, and Lietzow's double added a run to the Prowler total.

In the 3rd, an infield hit by Hjelle, a stolen base, a wild pitch, and Gene Weckwerth's single to left center, boosted the Prowlers score to 4 to 1. And in the 4th, a couple of walks, a Blackduck throwing error, and a muff of a fly ball by centerfielder Elden Leino, scored Jorgenson with the Prowlers final tally.

The Drakes chalked up the game's final tally in the 5th inning when Leino reached first base on an error, stole second, and came around to score on Huffman's solid hit to left field.

Hjelle retired Blackduck in order in the 6th and 7th inning, setting down the last two batters in the 7th inning on strikeouts.

Schedule, Sunday, June 14

Grygla at T. R. Falls (afternoon)

Badger at Goodridge (afternoon)

Plummer at Greenbush (afternoon)

The Pen-Ro-Shall league lead will be at stake on Sunday afternoon when, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the Grygla Red Sox play Wally Grovum's Thief River Falls Bums. The two clubs are deadlocked for the league lead with each team having a two wins and no losses record.

The Bums scored a 21 to 15 win over Goodridge in a game played at Goodridge on Sunday afternoon. The game was tied at 12 to 12 at the end of the nine innings of play, but the Bums rolled up nine runs in the top of the 10th inning. Goodridge added three runs to their total in the last half of the 10th.

Lefty Freddy Jensen and righthander Mickey Hanson shared the Bums' hurling chores, with Hanson coming on in the 9th inning and receiving credit for the win.

Grygla continued undefeated in league play by scoring a one-run victory over Plummer in a game played at Plummer, winning by a 14 to 13 margin.

In the third game on Sunday's slate, Greenbush scored a 15 to 10 victory over Badger in a game played on the Badger diamond.

Disappointed

We were considerably disappointed at the play of coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau Rams in the first round regional baseball tournament game at Bagley on Tuesday night. The Rams dropped a 7 to 0 decision to the Blackduck Drakes of District 29.

It could be that Roseau entered the game, which was played under miserable weather conditions, a bit over-confident, for the Rams had coasted through their district tournament without much difficulty. And, too, it is possible that Blackduck has been under-rated, for the Drakes turned in a fine all-round performance in sidelining Roseau.

Blackduck, in righthander Melvin Wild, had an efficient pitcher who possessed more of an assortment of pitches and pitching savvy than did either Jerry Ulvin or Don Ross, who shared the Roseau hurling.

What surprised us, though, was the lack of batting punch that Roseau exhibited. This, again could be to the credit of pitcher Wild, who was throwing at the corners with fine accuracy. But the Rams batters appeared to be indecisive at the plate, and they weren't stroking at the ball with the gusto they exhibited in the game they played here against the Prowlers, and which ended in a 5 to 5 tie.

Excitement

As far as we are concerned, most of the excitement in the first round regional baseball tournament at Bagley on Tuesday night occurred a few minutes after the conclusion of the Roseau vs. Blackduck game. Along with Doug Tegtmeier, Jerry Dahlberg and Web Mayes, we were "engulfed" in the near-tornado that struck the Clearwater county Fair Grounds.

The storm, which moved in from the southwest, caused considerable damage, and for a few minutes, with trees being uprooted, buildings being de-roofed, it was questionable whether or not we would escape injury. Fortunately, the high winds subsided.

Dahlberg, though, was unlucky in that the windshield of his new Oldsmobile was shattered. Dahlberg, sports director of KROX, had originally parked his car adjacent to the playing field, but fearing that glass breakage from a batted or thrown ball would occur, he moved his car away from the playing area. He parked his car between some buildings, and when, after the "blow" had subsided somewhat, he reached his car he found that a brick chimney had been toppled by the wind, and several of the bricks had smashed down on the hood and windshield of his car. As Jerry said, "You can't win."

Winnipeg River

Am Wysoski, Earl Gjernes, Les DeBrlyn and Cliff Overum returned on Sunday from a three-day fishing trip on the Winnipeg river in the vicinity of Point Du Bois in eastern Manitoba.

The quartet went into that area for the primary purpose of fishing Northern Pike, and that's the kind of fishing they had. The northerns, especially the "lunkers," began hitting on Saturday.

The big-fish winners in the party were Am, who caught an 18-pounder, and Cliff, who had a 16-pounder to his credit. It is probable, too, that the boys had some larger fish within range, for Les, using a 30-pound test line, had a heavy strike that snapped his line.

As far as the walleyes were concerned, the "pickerel," as the natives term them, w[illegible] too active. They did get e[illegible]h walleyes to provide for a well-balanced diet. But it was the northerns that provided the action.

Leo Pahlen and Harry Phillips returned from a successful lake trout fishing expedition into Kay lake. Kay lake, just a short flight from Nestor Falls, has been a producer of limit catches, and Leo and Harry Caught their five trout apiece, and the fish averaged out at seven pounds, in one day of fishing.

Grouse Increase Shown by Study

Reports that ruffed grouse continue on the upswing following a "low" in their population cycle was borne out in part by 1958 kill figures recently released by Dr. Stanley Harris of the Minnesota conservation department.

"As a result of our statistical tabulations, an estimated 510,300 ruffed grouse were bagged last fall. This exceeds the 1957 kill of 409,000," reports Dr. Harris.

Some 378,700 resident small game hunters took to the woods and fields last fall, or about 60,000 more than in 1957. In addition, 1,596 non-resident hunters also tried their luck in Minnesota. Increases in the kill of sharp-tailed grouse and Hungarian partridge were also reported. Reports from other states in the grouse range are reporting similar increases.

Sunday, June 14—

T. R. Falls at Cass Lake (afternoon)

Bagley at Fosston (night)

Winger at Eldred (afternoon)

In the feature game of the week's schedule, Russ Smith's Cass Lake team, with southpaw Jerry Daniels on the mound, defeated the Erskine Merchants, 5 to 4, in a game played at Erskine Sunday night. The defeat, which was the first in league play for Erskine, dropped the Merchants into a two-way tie for second place with the Thief River Falls Thieves. Cass Lake, marking up its third win in four starts, took over first place in the standings.

The surprising Winger Tigers defeated the Fosston club, 6 to 3, in a Sunday afternoon game at Winger. The Tigers, with a mark of two wins and two losses, are deadlocked with the Bagley Merchants for fourth place in the league standings.

In a game played at Thief River Falls on Sunday night, Eldred, a newcomer to Northern Minny league play this season, dropped an 11 to 4 decision to the Thieves. The Thieves put together a pair of four-run innings, the 1st and 8th, to roll up their margin over lefty Tom Fenno the Eldred hurler.

This week's feature game could well be the Thief River Falls vs. Cass Lake on Sunday afternoon. A win for manager John Drury's Thieves would move the locals into first place in the standings, while a victory for Cass Lake would give the Lakers a one-game lead over the runner-up club.

Workhouse Sentences for License Fraud

A warning that fraudulent use of or fraud in obtaining a drivers license will bring fines and jail sentences was issued today following a series of convictions resulting in young men serving workhouse sentences.

Charged with a second offense within 1959 for use of fraud to obtain a drivers license, a St. Paul youth is out $50 and is serving 18 days of a workhouse sentence. He was arrested when a driver license examiner discovered he was trying to take a driver's test for a friend. A Minneapolis youth was fined $100 upon conviction for the same violation, while his friend also received a $100 fine.

Forged drivers licenses sentences of 30 days in a county jail to others who were charged with printing and selling fraudulent licenses.

"The driver license program operates to assure all drivers that only those who have demonstrated their competency are permited on the highways," G. A. Hatfield, state driver license director, said. "When persons by fraud obtain licenses for those who are unable to drive sufficiently well to pass the drivers test, they are permitting a dangerous driver to be on the road.

"Further, when it has been determined that a person by his habitual disregard for the safety of others is incompetent to drive and his license is suspended or revoked, then fraudulent use of some other license is compounding that danger to others."

Hatfield explained that the examiners have uncovered numerous attempts by individuals to take written or road tests for others. In these cases, licenses of both parties are suspended and both lose driving privileges for the fraudulent attempts.

He also pointed out that many communities have adopted ordinances which make a definite violation the fraudulent use of licenses or the forging of licenses for use by minors in buying beer and whiskey. This gives local authorities an added weapon against illegal drinking and driving, he warned, the possession of forged licenses in a violation of state law.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks office.

Q—I know World War II veterans have a GI loan deadline coming up on July 25, 1960. Must a veteran's GI loan arrangements be all completed by then?

A—No. That deadline is for making application for a GI loan. If World War II veterans apply by July 25, 1960, they have another full year in which to complete loan arrangements.

Q—According to a GI insurance dividend statement just received I have a substantial dividend credit with the VA. Will I still continue to receive premium-due notices, or will premiums be taken out of my accrued dividends?

A—You will continue to receive premium-due notices, as before. Dividend credits are used by VA only to prevent lapse of a policy. Premium notices are not suspended where there are dividend credits.

Q—A woman veteran neighbor of ours has just died, leaving a husband who is quite helpless. Isn't there some recent law which says a helpless widower of a woman veteran may receive VA benefits based on the death of his wife? And if so, what are the law's main provisions?

A—You are correct. There is a new law. And it states that the unremarried widower of a woman veteran may receive VA death benefits if he is incapable of self-maintenance and, at the time of his wife's death, was permanently incapable of self-support because of physical or mental disability.

Q—I am the beneficiary of my veteran-husband's GI insurance policy. He owed a few bills at his death, which I intend to pay. Meanwhile, do these creditors have any right to seize the GI insurance policy to get their money right away?

A—No. Proceeds of a GI insurance policy are exempted by law in your case from any claims of creditors. The proceeds may not be seized or attached to pay your husband's debts.

Deer Kill in 1958 Tops Previous Year

Minnesota firearms deer hunters who took to the woods last fall in "record numbers" killed 75,141 deer. This report from Dr. Lyle Blankenship, state big game specialist, who indicated the statewide hunter success rate was 38 per cent.

Resident firearm deer license sales totaled 203,403 for an "all time high." A previous record license sale occurred in 1956 when 191,121 licenses were purchased.

Last fall's kill of 75,141 deer exceeded the 1957 kill of 67,304. The success rate, however, remained the same as in 1957 due to the marked increase in hunters.

Highest success reports, 44.5 per cent, came from zone 4 in the northeastern region of the state where a 9 day season for legal firearms was permited Nov. 8-16. Only slightly less success was reported in zone 2 in the northwest and zone 9 in the extreme southeastern Minnesota. The latter zone had a five day "shotgun only" season.

In addition, some 552 non-resident hunters reportedly took 200 deer. Over 11,000 archers also sought deer and took some 403 of them for a 3.6 per cent success. Camp Ripley archers took 129 of the deer killed with bow and arrow; 123 during the October season. Thus, the total deer kill by all legal hunting methods approximated 75,744.

While many arguments have been offered pro and con on the early vs. late deer season, last fall's army of hunters indicated that interest in the sport is increasing. Referring to the previous record license sale year, 1956, Dr. Blankenship stated "the entire state was open to deer hunting that year, whereas, last fall there were 13 counties and portions of nine others closed."

"It's good to have money and the things that money can buy, but it's good, too, to check up once in a while and make sure we haven't lost the things that money can't buy."
—George Horace Lorimer

Who Are The Villiains?

President Eisenhower's statement that the government may have to raise the interest limit on its long term bonds to more than 4.25% has been criticised by some of the spendingest members of Congress as a highly inflationary proposal. It is interesting to learn that they too are now showing some concern about the buying power of the dollar.

But interest rates generally are established in the market place and the members of Congress should know that government bonds are now selling at prices that bring a higher return than the 4.25% limit established by law. Government bonds issued at lower rates of interest are selling at proportionately less than par.

The spenders should be concerned about the fact that many good citizens who bought government bonds a dozen years ago are now taking a beating in two ways. Their bonds are worth less on the market in terms of dollars and the fewer dollars they get if they sell their bonds have less buying power.

Who are the real villains in this act? The spenders who have played fast and loose with the government's credit in trying to convince the dear people how much they love them.

More or Less?

We can understand the position of those who pressure Congress for funds for special projects in which they are interested. We have been on the pressure side too, and there is nothing wrong in asking the government to appropriate money for special needs.

We will not be critical therefore of those good people in North Dakota who want the government to divert Missouri River waters for irrigation purposes. Maybe we should congratulate them on their good fortune in getting a committee approval for a $300,000 appropriation for the planning of their project.

But it would seem that the government should adopt a general program of aid to agriculture that would be consistent, and that while billions of dollars are being paid out to take farm land out of production millions should not be paid out to either put more land into production or to make farm land more productive.

This, of course, is wishful thinking. We can always hope for something better, but government is the playground for politicians and we shouldn't expect the impossible. The question as to whether we will have more or less land in production is more or less a problem that will be decided by the members of Congress more or less according to what they individually are expecting out of the pork barrel. It is more or less a trading matter.

A Scrap of Paper

Under the provisions of a "Convention" entered into in 1817, Canada and the United States have limited their naval strength on the Great Lakes to four gunboats each, not to exceed 100 tons. For nearly a century and a-half this disarmament treaty has been respected by both nations. We have boasted to the world about our 3,000 miles of unprotected border.

Now that old treaty is going to be suspended. This summer large fighting ships of the navies of both countries will be patrolling the peaceful waters of the Great Lakes. And there will be firing of cannons on the floating fortresses. The old agreement is now just another scrap of paper.

But who cares? A great celebration is in the making. Queen Elizabeth of Canada and President Ike of the United States are going to be present at ceremonies dedicating the great new St. Lawrence Seaway, and on such an occasion, it has been agreed, fighting ships of each nation should be on hand to fire the necessary salutes.

It's great to [illegible] on friendly terms with your neighbors an[illegible] Canadians and Americans do not [illegible] written documents to maintain th[illegible] along the border.

Whic[illegible]ay Is Forward?

Th[illegible]ard of education is proposing that [illegible] mathematics and a year of [illegible]ed to the requirements for high [illegible]ation, and that of course is a [illegible] right direction. The state's [illegible]imum requirements are shame- [illegible] high school diploma now is little [illegible] a certificate of attendance. It has [illegible] remote relationship to scholastic [illegible]ement.

[illegible]nother proposal the board is considering [illegible]ld limit classroom size in the elementary [illegible]rades to 30 pupils, and that might prove to [illegible]e a step backward.

Dr. James E. Allen Jr., New York State Education Director, commenting on the recent order increasing the number of pupils in New York City classrooms, justified the action and urged better teaching methods and the use of modern teaching aids to get satisfactory results.

According to the New York Times, Dr. Allen said:

> "Teachers and their administrators must look for more economical and efficient ways of doing their jobs. There is nothing sacred about traditional class size. Experiments in some schools have shown that flexible arrangements can provide better teaching, more individual attention where it counts, and more economy. In these reorganizations, several classes may be combined for easily-taught material and subdivided into groups of ten or so for more difficult areas.
> "Teachers also need to give more attention to the use of visual aids such as recorders, television, tapes and films. These devices should be exploited to do part of the teaching job, or to enable a teacher to reach more students, or to offer things that otherwise would not be available. The city schools now have available the television programs broadcast by the State Education department which are intended to "enrich" the classroom teacher's efforts rather than teach a subject. About one-third of the elementary schools use them and still fewer of the high schools. The city is now running comparative tests of television-taught and conventional classes."

Under the circumstances, considering the conflicting opinions among educators themselves as to how we should adjust to the uncertainties of present conditions, the Minnesota board will do well to move slowly in setting up new regulations. Too often the visionaries of education have led us astray and we now are just beginning to recover from the errors of progressivism.

More car than this Impala Sport Coupe is hard to find at any price.

clings to curves like a cat on a carpet!
the travel-lovin' Chevrolet
Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with such solid assurance!
It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of the pounds distributed with painstaking care. Chevy's born with it.
The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.
We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple.
This one's really made to get up and travel and loves every minute of it.

Hugs tighter on turns...

the road-hugging Wide-Track Pontiac!

Wide-Track Wheel design brings car and road into a new relationship. The wheels of a Pontiac are five inches farther apart. This widens the stance but not the car. There's a feeling of complete control, road-holding response. You're steadier, more secure, balanced. Lean and sway disappear. It's the automotive advancement of the year and one of the big reasons why you see so many new Pontiacs these days. Hasn't the day come for you to drive this sleek beauty? The keys are waiting.

PONTIAC! AMERICA'S NUMBER ① ROAD CAR

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS
Dotted lines show conventional wheel positions. Pontiac's wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car itself. Pontiac hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean are considerably reduced, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier.

Reduce Speed, Urges State Safety Head

With vacation time upon us, highway department safety officials have urged all citizens of Minnesota to keep a sensible rein on their speed whenever they drive. "Hold your horses; use horse sense rather than horsepower," Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, has asked.

Sieben explained that modern cars have a great deal of power normally kept in reserve for special needs such as passing. "Much of our trouble comes," he said, "when irresponsible drivers forget the dangers of high speed and unleash that reserve power without regard for the consequences."

All drivers should slow down when poor visibility makes driving hazardous, he warned. "Twilight, winding, roads, hilly stretches and other conditions make high speeds doubly dangerous." He went on to say that motorists should heed warning signs which tell of special factors such as road conditions, residential areas, school zones, sharp curves, etc.

G. A. Hatfield, driver license director, noted that speeding convictions led to the revocation of the drivers licenses of 375 Minnesotans during the four months of 1959. "I think this points up the plain fact that there is a problem here which should concern us. What's more we were forced to suspend the driving privileges of almost 2,000 Minnesota drivers during the same period because of speeding convictions."

"The summer theme is CAN YOU STOP IN TIME, directly concerned with rate of speed," Markson said. "It means simply, will you remember to be able to stop in time to avoid an accident should an emergency arise?"

Baudette Company to Manufacture new Poison Ivy Remedy

Rowell Laboratories to Patent Preparation to Be Named "Residerm"

"Residerm," a new preparation for treatment of poison ivy will be manufactured and marketed by Rowell Laboratories of Baudette. The new discovery was originally made by a scientist at the University of Minnesota and has been developed over the past several years by the research division of Rowell Laboratories and the research laboratories of two midwest universities.

"Hundreds of clinical trials on human beings as well as animals have proven the new therapy to be highly effective. A patent on the preparation is pending," states T. H. Rowell, the firm's president.

The new product creates its effect by an ion exchange process. The exchange resin and the ivy phenol form an inactive, non-irritating resin phenolate which is readily removed from the skin by washing.

the right answer

Ed Jones asked me to go fishing with him last Sunday morning and when I said I was going to church he asked, "WHY?" For a moment, I was stymied. I just couldn't think of a good answer. Matter of fact, it has taken me all week to think of the reply I want to give Ed. Here it is.

Why do I go to church, Ed? Why do I breathe? Why do I smile when I see the sun in the morning, or shiver when I'm cold? Why do I love my wife and kids, and lose my temper when the lawn mower breaks down? Because I'm human, because I'm a man — and because I have a God whom I love. This God cares enough about me to have sent His only Son to make the most supreme of all sacrifices — for me, and for you, Ed Jones, and for all of us.

I go to church to worship that God. I do not go to beg, but to thank Him for what He has given me. I go to ask Him for guidance and forgiveness. I don't have to ask Him for His love. I have that. So have you. So have we all.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TIMES SALES PITCH PROPERLY—Good timing is vital to successful selling. Any salesman would prefer to make his "pitch" when he can have the full, voluntary attention of his prospect. Which is one reason why newsadvertising does such a good job. The newspaper is never an intrusion. . . is always a welcome presentation of buying information, timed to suit the mood and convenience of each reader.

Railroad Replacing Bridge at Lancaster at Cost of $78,500

Numerous improvement projects are currently in progress or about to begin on the Winnipeg division of the Soo Line, it was announced today by E. A. Hamerski, division superintendent.

The railroad is rebuilding its timber bridge crossing over the north branch of Two Rivers located approximately one mile north of Lancaster. The new bridge will consist of 7 steel spans suported on concrete pilings. The total length will be 237 feet. The concrete piling has been prefabricated by the Fehr Concrete Products company of Eau Claire, Wis. The new bridge construction is to be carried out without interruption of regular train service. The estimated cost of the entire project is $78,510. The work is to be performed by the Soo Line bridge and building crew under the direction of division engineer W. B. Peterson of Thief River Falls.

The Soo Line started work on the installation of yard lighting to illuminate the east switching leads in the yard at Thief River Falls. The project will involve the installation of 13 luminaires consisting of mercury lamps mounted on 35 foot poles. The estimated cost of the project is $10,868. The work is being carried out by the Soo Line signal crew.

The Soo Line has just completed the distribution of ballast obtained from their gravel pit near Vergas, for the purpose of raising and surfacing the track from Thief River Falls north through Newfolden—a distance of some 20 miles. Approximately 20,000 yards of ballast have been distributed over this territory and it is expected that the work of putting ballast under the track will begin about July 20. It is estimated that the project will cost approximately $56,000, said Hamerski.

In addition, 10 miles of ballast is being placed in track between Warren and Alvarado. This work is now underway and it is estimated the cost of this project will run $25,750. Material was obtained from the Soo Line gravel pit at Fordville, N. D.

At the present time the Soo Line, Winnipeg division, has two tie gangs placing ties, each gang consisting of approximately 18 men and one ballast gang of 22 men.

Art Stenberg Herd Leads Local DHIA Averages for May

Yield 51 lb. Fat Per Cow; Svendsgaard, Bruggeman Herds Are Next in Line

Nine of the 21 herds on test in May averaged more than 40 lbs. of butterfat per cow, it was announced by George Janssen, supervisor of the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement association. He added that 423 cows were milking during May, and 40 were dry. Twelve herds averaged from 25 to 39 pounds of butterfat per cow.

The A. S. Stenberg herd topped the group with 1494 pounds of milk per cow and 51 pounds of butterfat. The Charles and Dale Svendsgaard herd produced 1364 pounds of milk and 47 pounds of fat. The Don Bruggeman herd produced the average of 1273 pounds of milk and 44 of fat.

A 42 pound fat average was recorded for Maynard Mehrkens, John Burtness, Gerald Yonke, Maurice Derosier and Kenneth Remik. The milk average ranged from 1116 to 1307 pounds.

All of the herd owners were feeding grain with their pasture. Eleven herds were fed alfalfa hay and seven herds were fed hay with pasture. One herd has loose housing, 7 dairymen have bulk milk tanks, 3 use pipeline milkers, 2 have a mechanical barn cleaner. Seven are selling Grade A milk.

It is expected that this fall a new unit will be organized to give service to dairymen who have expressed interest in joining. Details are available from Dale Svendsgaard, secretary, Goodridge, or the county agent in Red Lake or Pennington county.

There is a steady increase in dairy record keeping and new supervisors are going to be needed, said Janssen. The next short course will be held in September at the Farm Campus in St. Paul. The county agent's office has details.

Estimates by the Army Corps of Engineers have placed the total cost of the project at $753,000, and with $163,000 already having been appropriated, this $300,000 will bring the project to 62 per cent of completion, if passed by the Senate and signed into law.

No Crop Can Be Removed from Soil Bank Land

Chairman Houske of ASC Reports Many Inquiries Received

A statement was issued today by Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the Pennington county ASC committee, which should be of special interest to all farmers participating in the Soil Bank program.

Mr. Houske stated that a large number of inquiries have been received regarding the possibility of harvesting a crop from land covered by a soil bank conservation reserve contract. This is probably due to the adverse affects of the past winter on tame hay seedlings, causing a shortage of hay supplies.

In order to clear up any misunderstanding which might exist, Mr. Houske made it clear to all concerned persons that no harvesting of a crop of any kind is permitted on conservation reserve land, regardless of the circumstances.

The Soil Bank act makes no provision for emergency harvesting of any kind. If a crop is harvested from designated land, no payments will be made to the contract signer involved, and a civil penalty will be assessed against him if such harvesting is done deliberately. For this reason, all farmers participating in the soil bank program should be careful not to be misled by rumors to the contrary.

The Soil Bank act does contain a provision which allows the Secretary of Agriculture to authorize emergency grazing because of drought or other disaster in a properly designated and approved area. It does not appear that such a situation exists or is likely to occur in this county or state, said Houske. If such an emergency authority were given, it would also result in loss of annual soil bank payments to the farmer.

Any farmers having further questions on this phase of the program should contact the local ASC county office.

Red Cross Swim Program Starts

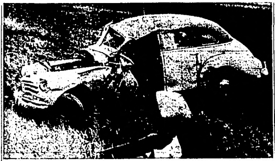
Goodridge and Plummer Children Taking Part

Tindolph park beach will be the scene of many activities beginning today when the American Red Cross swimming program begins.

Goodridge and Plummer will begin regular schedules. Goodridge will be in Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Plummer will be in Tuesday morning and Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Grygla also is expected to be in for one day a week.

Anyone interested in playing tennis is asked to register at Tindolph park beach. Kenneth DeLap and Kenneth Jones will help supervise the program for those of high school age and older.

GUARD Leaving for two weeks of training at Camp Ripley, 76 men and 6 officers of the local Company D of the National Guard loaded their equipment into trucks Saturday morning, June 13 for the trip. A total of 8,000 Guardsmen from Minnesota will take part in the training exercises.



DEMOLISHED This car, driven by Harlan Tveltbakk, son of Halvor Tveltbakk, city, was in collision with another vehicle driven by Arthur J. Larson, rt. 1, at the intersection of county aid roads 75 and 64 shortly before 2 p.m. Friday. Tveltbakk had not regained consciousness as of noon Saturday and was transferred from Northwestern hospital to University hospital, Minneapolis over the weekend.

Dennis Haider, 14, son of Frank Haider, city, was less seriously injured, while Floyd Holzknecht and Gary Thompson, both 15, also in the car with Tveltbakk, were not injured. Larson was not injured, either. The mishap is still under investigation by the sheriff's office.

Fast Time to Continue Thru September 8

House and Senate Reach Agreement on Issue Wedensday

All of Minnesota will remain on daylight saving time (DST) until Sept. 8 as a result of a committee compromise reached Wednesday and passed by both houses of the state legislature.

Had the legislature not acted this month, a statewide time law adopted in 1957 would have expired June 30.

The bill passed Wednesday becomes effective June 30. It provides that DST will be in force in the future from the fourth Sunday of May until the day after Labor day.

Removed from the bill before final passage was a house amendment setting an advisory election on DST in 1960.

Five senate conferees and three house members signed a conference committee report approving the bill in its senate form, without the amendment. The two house members who refused to sign were from rural areas; Alf Larson, Hayfield, and George Mann, Windom.

The Senate approved the conferees' compromise without a word of debate by a vote of 37 to 21.

The house followed suit with little delay, 69-51.

Deer Park Joins Rural Fire Group

The township of Deer Park in Pennington county joined with the Oklee-Plummer Rural Fire association at the annual meeting of the organization held in Oklee recently. Named Deer Park fire chief was Fred Lundeen and assistant is Juel Chervestad.

Ice Show at Fair Grounds 2 Nights

Carrying with them their own portable ice-making equipment which produces an excellent ice sheet even in plus-90-degree temperatures, Ed and William Leary will present their ice skating extravaganza, "Adventures on Ice," at the Pennington county fairgrounds Tuesday and Wednesday evening, June 16 and 17, starting at 9 p.m.

The show, local arrangements for which were made by the county fair board, has won high praise in other communities where it has been presented.

The skating show features an "Arabian Adventure" number starring Leary as the Sultan and a skating dedication to our 50th state of Hawaii in the "Island Adventure" number.

Ed Leary began his skating career 10 years ago in this area and, after appearing in major ice extravaganzas, achieved his life-long dream of his own ice revue.

Advance tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Tax Collections up Sharply in '59

Due in large measure to higher tax levies, collections of real estate and personal property taxes for the period January thru May, 1959, mounted to $685,830, a substantial increase of $63,000 over the $622,312.67 collected during the same period in 1958.

County Treasurer Ellsworth Jorgenson reported that another factor contributing to the gain is that 387 more receipts were issued this year than a year ago.

Also collected this year was $167.24 in penalties on delinquent taxes compared to $154.59 for the same period in 1958.

Kenneth S. Agerter, director of admissions at Shattuck school, Faribault, will visit alumni and patrons of the school in Thief River Falls Wednesday, June 17.

Half of Pennington Exhibitors Win Blue Ribbons on Dairy Day

One-half of the dairy cattle shown by Pennington County 4-H'ers won blue ribbons at Northwest Dairy Day last Tuesday. A record number of fifty-three exhibitors won 26 blue ribbons, 25 red, and only two white. This indicated an overall excellence in quality of cattle shown and good fitting and showing by the county 4-H'ers, stated County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

Winning top placings in classes were: Michell Tollefson, St. Hilaire club, Brown Swiss calf and Linda Tollefson also of St. Hilaire, Brown Swiss 2 year old; Myles Koop, Rocksbury, Guernsey calf.

Marshall County Names New School Survey Committee

With little foreseeable work left to do a new Marshall County School Survey committee was elected in Warren Tuesday at a meeting of school officials from the county. The committee's formation and election is required by state law and it will act on a standby basis as consolidations have been completed in all major areas of the county, according to County Superintendent of Schools John O. Pearson.

Those named from the rural areas include: Charles Sedlacek of Radium and John Rominski of Strandquist, 1-year-term; Ervin Broten of Viking and Mrs. Erwin Morken of Warren, 2-year-term; Sanford Tverstol of Argyle, 3-year-term.

Those representing consolidated areas include Ralph Knudsen of Warren, 1-year-term; George Fricker of Middle River, 2-year-term; and A. O. Gudim of Newfolden and Arne Samuelson of Viking, 3-year-terms.

The new committee will take office in July. Only holdover member from the old committee is Mr. Gudim. Little work remains for the committee with only a few scattered rural areas left in existence and most of these are slowly joining consolidated areas by dissolution which does not require action by the county school survey committee.

Youth and Man Gravely Hurt in Car Mishaps

Harlan Tveltbakk, 16, Is Unconscious after Head Injury

Two persons were seriously injured in rural highway crashes in Pennington county over the past weekend, according to the sheriff's office here.

The first mishap occurred at the intersection of county aid roads 64 and 75 about two miles northwest of the city shortly before 2 p.m. Friday. Arthur J. Larson, rt. 1, was traveling west on CAR 64 when his car was involved in a collision with another driven south on CAR 75 by Harlan Tveltbakk, 16, son of Halvor Tveltbakk, city.

Following the collision the Tveltbakk car rolled at least twice and finally wound up in a field facing the roadside ditch. The Larson car did not roll.

Tveltbakk was taken to Northwestern hospital. He had not regained consciousness by Saturday noon and he was transferred to University hospital at Minneapolis. He is believed to have suffered severe concussion with indeterminate brain damage, although the extent of his injuries is unknown.

With Tveltbakk were Dennis Haider, 14, son of Frank Haider, city, hospitalized here with lesser injuries; Floyd Holzknecht, 15, son of Al Holzknecht, city, and Gary Thompson, 15, son of William Thompson, city, both of whom were released after examination revealed they were uninjured.

The Tveltbakk car was demolished, while the 1957 model Ford driven by Larson sustained an estimated $500 damages.

Following the second weekend mishap, which occurred sometime before 3 a.m. Saturday, William R. Klinke, a Lengby construction worker, walked nearly two miles from where his car ran off a dead-end, to get a farmer, Jack Radniecke, to take him to Northwestern hospital here.

The sheriff's office stated the accident was not reported to them until after 8 a.m. Saturday. According to Deputy Eugene Prestegard, Klinke ran off the dead end at the intersection of state aid roads 3 and 23 near Oklee.

Klinke suffered chest injuries, the extent of which is not known, although he was in considerable pain. His car was badly damaged.

In the third mishap a driver unidentified at present struck the car driven by Mrs. Chester Carlson in Rocksbury twp. about 1:30 p.m. Sunday, and then left the scene of the mishap. The Carlson car sustained about $150 damage in the crash.

All three accidents are still under investigation at present, the sheriff's office reported.

An "All Faiths" church service will be held on the grounds of the Legislative building Sunday morning at 9 a.m.

The summer meet at Assiniboia Downs will be underway, with eight races being run each day, commencing at 5:55 p.m. weekdays, and 2 p.m. Saturdays and holidays.

Special arrangements have been made for American visitors on local golf courses. Introduction cards will be supplied.

An information package will be handed to every visiting car at border crossing points, which will give full details for the week. Special attention will be directed to a well-raked map, on which historic sites and recreational and entertainment centers will be marked.

Old People Urged to Consult Social Security Agent

If you desire to know facts about your social security, there should be no mystery about where to get those facts — your social security office, of course.

Your social security situation isn't exactly the same as your neighbor's or your brother's, for that matter. So that you may make your plans and be sure that Social security will play the role that you expect it to, you should get your facts and get them straight, says Walter Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks office.

You need to know how long you have to work under social security to qualify for benefits, approximately how much your benefits will be, what rights your family may have. You'll probably want to find out what papers you'll need when you do file your application. Possibly you can't get a birth certificate so you'll want to know what other documents are acceptable to establish your age.

There's one place to get these facts—your Social Security Administration district office located at Grand Forks.

On June 29, 1871, the Navy Department announced the appointment of Dr. William Maxwell Wood to serve as the Chief of Medicine and Surgery, the Navy's first surgeon general.

ANCIENT AUTOS

Herman Eck of Wykoff has kept a diary for 50 years. May 17 this year he noted therein the 42nd anniversary of his Buick—the first and only car he has ever owned; the faithful car has rolled only 151,000 miles, practically all of them at less than 30 miles an hour. . . . Alex Benson, Sauk Centre, drives a 1926 Chevrolet just fast enough to keep the battery charged, and at 92 he expects the car to serve him as long as he needs it.

June Dairy Month

June is Dairy Month and the time when Pennington county 4-H'ers drink a refreshing, wholesome milk toast to the dairy farmers of Minnesota.

Drinking enough of this nutritious food is no problem because milk is a refreshing drink either plain or prepared in some "fun" way, says Miss LeBourveau. Teen-agers who need more milk than any other age group, will enjoy preparing and serving some of the milk beverages suggested by Evelyn Harne, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota. Serve them to your friends or make them as part of your food preparation project.

Maple Float—Combine ⅓ cup maple syrup, 4 cups of milk and ⅛ teaspoon of salt. Pour into six glasses and top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Garnish with chopped nuts.

Peanut butter special—combine ½ cup cream-syle peanut butter with ¼ cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon vanilla extract. Slowly stir in 2 cups of milk and beat until smooth. Divide among six tall glasses. To each add one scoop of vanilla ice cream. Fill each glass to the top with ginger ale.

Mint ice cream soda—first you will need tall soda glasses. Into each one thoroughly combine a generous scoop of vanilla ice cream with a dash of peppermint extract and a drop or two of green food coloring. Then fill each glass two-thirds full with a cold, carbonated beverage. Add two more large scoops of ice cream and ll the glass to the top with carbonated beverage. Then for added dash, garnish with a fresh mint sprig or frosted mint leaves.

Litchfield Youth State 4-H Chief

Richard Krueger, 17, Litchfield, will head an organization of some 48,000 4-H boys and girls in Minnesota next year.

Krueger was elected president of the Minnesota State 4-H Federation at the annual business meeting of the organization held during the State 4-H Junior leadership conference on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus last week (June 9-12).

Also elected were Shirley Schmidt, 16, Sherburne, vice president; Dennis Breamer, 18, Albert Lea, secretary; and Karen Koehn, 18, Lindstrom, treasurer.

David Carlson Has Joined Marines

David Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Carlson, Rt. 5, Thief River Falls, has enlisted in the U. S. Marines, and is in San Diego California undergoing training. After 16 weeks of recruit and individual combat training, he will be granted a 20-day leave, and on return to duty will receive additional training. David, who recently graduated from Lincoln high school, was captain of the wrestling team, and a member of the track team, and intends to continue his athletic participation while serving with the Marines.

The trouble with too many people is that the only thought they have is that they have to say something.

Thieves Evict Cass Lake from Loop Lead

The Thieves shoved Cass Lake off the top rung in the Northern Minny league standings on Sunday afternoon by scoring a come-from-behind 12 to 6 win in a game played at Cass Lake. The Cass Lake lose dropped Russ Smith's club into tie for second place, and moved the idle Erskine Merchants into first place.

The Thieves will meet the Winger Tigers in a night game on the Fair Grounds diamond next Sunday, June 21.

Trailing by a 4 to 0 score entering the 5th inning of Sunday's game at Cass Lake, and having been held to but two hits, singles by Dale Klungness and Charley Kankel, by southpaw Jerry Daniels, the Thieves erupted for four hits and four runs in the top of the inning to knot the game at 4-all. The uprising started with a walk to Klungness, and then was followed by doubles by Frank Gunderman, John Drury and, after Harley Drees had popped out, a double by Larry Gilbertson. Gilbertson's two-play swat drove Daniels off the mound and brought righthander Tom Swenson in from second base to do the hurling. Swenson gave up an infield hit to Rod Max, and Gene Leslie lofted a sacrifice fly to left field scoring Gilbertson with the tying run.

Cass Lake had picked up their four runs by scoring two-run clusters in the 2nd and 3rd innings. An error, a double by Smith, and single by Daniels tallied two runs in the 2nd; and in the 3rd, with the doubling Bob Kennedy on second, Rod South smote a home run over the snow fence in left field.

The Thieves moved into the lead with three runs in the 7th inning when, with one away, Gilbertson walked; Kankel, who banged out four hits, singled to center; Max hit into a force play, retiring Gilbertson at third; Leslie smashed a ground single into left field, scoring Kankel; and when Arlan Hjelle's ground ball skipped thru second baseman Harold Annette, Max and Leslie tallied.

The locals, enlivened by the presence of Jack Junker in the lineup (he arrived in time to take over the catching duties in the last half of the 5th inning), scored five runs in the 8th inning to "insure" the game. A double by Gunderman, singles by Kankel, Max, and Hjelle, plus a Cass Lake error and a wild pitch, accounted for the five runs.

Drees, who took over the Thieves' hurling duties in the 4th inning, turned in a fine job of relief, giving up but 6 hits in the six innings he toiled. Only in the 8th was he in difficulty, being touched for three hits and having the bases loaded with one out and one run in, but Drees set down Cass Lake's Kennedy and South on strikes.

Fosston Defeats Thieves by Score of 10-9 Thursday

Thieves Score Two Runs in Ninth Inning and Nearly Make up Deficit

The Thieves fell one short of tying the game, or gaining the lead, in the top of the 9th inning in the Northern Minny league game played at Fosston on Thursday night, losing the tilt, 10 to 9.

Trailing by a 10 to 7 score entering the 9th, the Thieves rallied for a pair of runs and had the tying run on third and the go-ahead tally on 2nd with one out only to have Fosston snuff out the threat. Gene Leslie opened the inning with a single to right off righthander Dave Carlin, who had replaced Fosston starter Stan Otness. A wild pitch moved Leslie to second; Glenn Carlson walked; and when John Drury, who clubbed out three hits in four trips to the plate, also walked, the bases were filled. Jack Hoppe sliced a single to left, scoring Leslie and leaving the bases jammed. A wild pitched scored Carlson, and advanced Drury to third and Hoppe to second. But the rally faded when Frank Gunderman and Darryl Rude were strikeout victims, and Dale Klungness grounded out, second to first.

Fosston piled up with a five-run outburst in the 5th inning, tagging Charley Kankel, who had taken over the Thieves' pitching duties from Drury in the 3rd inning, for four hits. Four of the Fosston runs in the inning were of the unearned variety.

The Thieves, picking up singles runs in each of the first four innings, held a 4 to 2 lead entering the 5th.

Gene Leslie came on in relief for the Thieves in the 6th inning and gave up four hits and two unearned runs, and collected seven strikeouts.

CURLING Workmen of the Langseth Construction company Friday were laying up the concrete block foundation of the new curling rink being constructed on the south edge of the fair grounds. The 168 x 60-foot building, being financed jointly by the local curling club and the fair board, will be used during the winter months to provide four curling rinks and during the fair season as an exhibition building. The structure will be of frame construction with laminated rafters and a balcony for spectators will be in the south end. It is expected to be completed in about two months.

CATCHER Given the assignment to handle the slants of righthanders Harley Drees or Arlan Hjelle in the Prowlers' state tournament game against New Ulm in Minneapolis' Metropolitan stadium at 7:30 P.M., Tuesday, June 23, will be catcher Jim Wegge. Wegge, a junior, has been a "first string" catcher for the past couple of seasons and he has shown continued progress, both in the field and at the plate. Jim, who was batting in "tough luck" early in the season, has been boosting his average the past couple of weeks.

Crookston Legion Juniors Edge TRF

Locals Play G. Forks in Doubleheader Tonight

Crookston's veteran southpaw, Billy Taylor, scattered four hits as coach Jerry Lindell's Crookston American Legion Junior baseball team edged out coach Ralph Skay's local junior club, 3 to 2, in a south sub-district junior Legion conference game played at Crookston on Thursday evening. Taylor, although graduating from Crookston Central high school this spring, is still eligible to play Legion junior baseball.

Righthander Jack Goulet, who hurled for coach Skay's cub, gave up ten hits, but the rangy pitcher was "tough" in the clutches, and the Pirates left numerous runners stranded on the bases.

The local junior club will play a doubleheader this evening at the Fair Grounds diamond, meeting coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks Juniors in a twin bill. The first game is slated for 6:00 p.m., with the second game being scheduled for 8:00 p.m.

According to coach Skay, righthander Gary Anderson will get the pitching assignment for the first game, with Arlan Hjelle being booked for the night-cap.

The line score:

T R Falls	101 000 0	2	4	0
Crookston	101 010 x	3	10	2

Batteries — Goulet and Wegge; Taylor and Nelson.

Vern McMahon Receives Degree from Illinois 'U'

University of Illinois conferred more than 3,000 regular and five honorary degrees in two commencement ceremonies at Urbana-Champaign and in Chicago, Ill., last weekend.

Commencement was on June 13 at Urbana-Champaign for 2,631 candidates for degrees and June 12 at Navy Pier for 383 candidates from the university's Chicago professional colleges.

Among Urbana-Champaign candidates is Vern A. McMahon of Thief River Falls, who received his master of science degree.

He Sniffed the Roses

Harley Drees, pitching for the Prowlers in their important first round regional tournament game against Twin Valley on Thursday afternoon, experienced a few anxious moments when, with the score 2 to 1 for the locals in the top of the 6th inning, Twin Valley had runners on first and second with two out. Gary Dunbar banged a single into center field, and all the fans expected that Phil Peterick would scamper in from second with the tying run. But it wasn't to be. Gary Klungness made a quick pickup of the ball and threw a strike in to Drees, who was twenty feet in front of the plate, and Harley whipped the ball to Jim Wegge who tagged the runner to retire the side.

After that play, Drees sniffed the roses and realized a trip to the state tournament was in the offing. He finished off the final inning in workman-like style.

From personal observation of, and in conversation with the boys, we can assure the fans that the baseball Prowlers, the players and their coaches, derive a great amount of satisfaction out of the district and regional titles that they won last week. And it was a job well done.

What particularly gives the boys such satisfaction is the realization that it was through team effort that the Prowlers were able to post this season's remarkable record. It was the result of a lot of hard work (and of that we can vouch for we have been in attendance at many of the practice sessions), and of broad-shouldered cooperation by every member of the squad.

Sure there were spectacular plays by various individuals during the season, and especially in the tournaments. Who can forget Arlan Hjelle's relief pitching in the Prowlers district opener against Crookston? Wasn't that a thrill, to see him pitch one-hit ball for five and one-third innings as the Prowlers came back to win? And Drees' two-bagger that scored the Prowlers first two runs against the Pirates, a blow that bounced against the fence in right-center in the 5th inning. And another individual highlight was the shortstopping of Eddie Lietzow against the Blackduck Drakes in the regional finals, with the sophomore digging three ground balls out of the dirt and retiring the runners on fine throws to first base.

But by and large, the district and regional titles, and the Prowlers baseball success, can truly be termed a team effort.

And so it's good luck to the boys as they make the jaunt to Minneapolis' Metropolitan stadium.

Miscellaney

Tom Knoff, the smooth-throwing southpaw of the Drayton, N. Dak. state high school champions, and who was one of the stars of last season's sectional and regional champion Drayton American Legion junior baseball team, has been given a tryout by the Winnipeg Goldeyes of the Northern league. The Goldeyes, a farm club of the St. Louis Cardinals, were os impressed by Knoff's pitching potentials that they have called him back for another look-see next week. Said Chase Riddle, the Winnipeg manager, "We definitely feel Tom has a chance in baseball. He threw to some of our batters and we liked what we saw." One of our vivid recollections of last season's junior baseball game was that epic eight-inning duel at the Fair Grounds here between the locals' Harley Drees and Drayton's Knoff, with Knoff gaining a 1 to 0 decision. And we recall, too, that Knoff struck out the first nine Prowler batters that came to the plate . . . John Hayasich, the former Eveleth all-stater and University of Minnesota All-American, has signed a contract to be player-coach of the Green Bay Bobcats of the Upper Michigan, or is it the Central States hockey league? Mayasich played a number of games with the Bobcats this season, and on a goals-per-game average he was the team's high scorer. Jack Hoppe and Jackie Poole, former Prowlers who played with the Bobcats last season, expect to return to the Wisconsin city next season.

Eagles Midgets Defeat Fosston

Coach Larry Gilbertson's Eagles Midgets baseball team opened play on their 1959 schedule by scoring a 13 to 6 win over coach Don Otness' Fosston team in a five-inning game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Monday morning. The battery for the locals had Tony Poole pitching and John Aune catching.

The local midgets will travel to Newfolden Wednesday for a 3:30 p.m. game with coach Jack Junker's midget baseball team.

34 Boat Permits Are Issued Here; Deadline July 1

With the deadline for licensing boats under the new Minnesota law little more than two weeks away, the three places in Thief River Falls which issue licenses reported Monday morning, June 15, that only 34 had been sold.

Under the Minnesota Boat and Water Safety act passed this year, all boats, except canoes, sailboats, duckboats, rice boats during harvesting season and seaplanes must bear a license after July 1. The fee for boats under 16 feet in length is $1.50 for two years.

The Thief River Trap shoot league will conclude its first round of competition on Thursday evening, and it appears that the league championship will be a two-team race, between the Coast-to-Coast and Oen's Appliance, throughout the balance of the schedule.

Last Thursday evening, Don Olson's Coast-to-Coast squad, having the benefit of Walt Fisher's 25 posted the week previous, defeated the Northern Chevrolet, 107 to 104. That 107 total was the lowest score, by eight birds, that the league-leaders had recorded this season.

The Oen's Appliance kept pace with the Coast-to-Coast by scoring a 110 to 107 win over the cellar-dwelling Starekow Clinic squad. Roy Oen had a 20-8 for the winners, while Lloyd Brunsberg notched an 18-8 for the losers.

The defending champion Times dropped a 115 to 112 decision to the Pharmacy as Don Stewart, with a 23-3, and Red Thyren, with a 22-3, had "25's" for the druggists. Mel Zitzow carded a 19-7 for the losers.

Dr. Jim Disse's squad, with Bill Ranta having a 17-8 and Don Lawrence a 21-6, defeated the Wilson Bros., 116 to 108.

Hospitals Giving Routine TB X-rays

469,000 Patients X-rayed in Minnesota in 1958

Routine admission chest x-rays for the detection of tuberculosis and other chest abnormalities were given in 66 per cent or 125 of Minnesota's general hospitals during 1958, reports Dr. Helen Knudsen, director, hospital services division, state department of health. This compares with 61 per cent of the state's general hospitals using the admission program in 1957.

These examinations, which have been advocated by the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association for more than ten years, detect more than twice as many cases of tuberculosis as are found through routine mass x-ray surveys, says Dr. Robert N. Barr, executive officer of the Minnesota department of health.

Receiving chest x-rays upon admission to hospitals were 468,968 patients or 88.1 per cent of the total number of patients admitted to Minnesota's general hospitals in 1958. Only three hospitals with a capacity of 100 or more beds do not have a routine admission chest x-ray service.

Higher Interest on Savings Bonds Would Affect All Issues

Arnulf Ueland of Minneapolis, state volunteer Savings Bond chairman, today reminded the public that under the terms of the Treasury's proposal to Congress, improvements in rates on Series E and H Savings bonds would be effective June 1.

"There's no reason for anyone to hold up on buying their Savings bonds," Ueland said. "In order to await congressional action. The Treasury has announced that, if Congress approves the request, interest rates on Savings bonds will be increased retroactive to June 1."

President Eisenhower sent a message to congress on June 8 recommending improvements in the terms of Savings bonds, in connection with other public debt matters. His message was accompanied by a state from treasury secretary Robert B. Anderson proposing an increase in the interest rate on Series E and H Savings bonds from the present 3¼ per cent to 3¾ per cent, when held to maturity. The proposal also provides for a rate increase of approximately one-half per cent on all outstanding bonds purchased prior to June 1, 1959.

"It's a good idea to hang onto your present savings bonds, too," Ueland pointed out. "If congress accedes to the treasury's request, the old bonds you now have will begin immediately to draw a higher interest rate, without any action on your part."

Purchases of Series E and H Savings bonds in May, 1959, totaled $14,266 in Pennington county, bringing the year to date purchases to $80,058 or 36.2 per cent of the county goal for 1959.

Savings bond purchases in Minnesota for the first five months of 1959 total $31,115,096 and represent 39.4 per cent of the 1959 quota.

HOSPITAL MEALS POSE PRODUCTION PROBLEM

An inquiring Minnesota editor found that a typical meal at the St. Peter hospital involves a lot of food and a lot of work. About 2,500 patients are being currently cared for there, by a staff of 584 persons. Just one of the approximately 3,285,000 meals served each year runs: 1,250 pounds of beef, 30 bushels of potatoes, 75 gallons of gravy, 150 large cans of peas, 300 loaves of bread, 60 pounds of butter, 100 gallons of ice cream, 170 gallons of coffee. Much of the food used, the editor of the Gibbon Gazette learned, is raised and processed at the hospital, which occupies 63 buildings on about 1,000 acres. They bake their own bread, raise their own hogs, have a herd of 80 cows; last year staff and patients put up 3,000 large cans of pickles, 10,000 cans of tomatoes, 75 barrels of sauerkraut.

Chromium, when added to steel in small quantities contributes strength, resistance to wear, and "hardenability," in large quantities it gives resistance to corrosion and oxidation.

Personal Property Tax

Politicians talk about cutting personal property taxes, but personal property taxes are local taxes and practically all of the approximately $60 million dollars that are now being collected to support local government would have to be raised by a bigger tax on other property or by some other tax.

Minnesota's personal property tax is not the evil monster some would have us believe it to be. A few changes can be justified but the tax, basically, is just as fair as any other tax on property. The fact that at some levels it produces little income and the cost of assessment and collection is less than the return is equally true of the state's income tax. We like the personal property tax partly because it gets a few nickels from some people who make no other direct contribution to the support of the many public services they enjoy.

Our New District

At long last the legislature has agreed upon a redistricting plan, the first time a reapportionment bill has been passed since 1913. For this achievement the present legislature deserves a pat on the back.

The most gratifying thing about this achievement is the fact that the redistricting law takes into consideration area as well as population, an important victory for outstate communities. The Twin Cities area, where probably in the foreseeable future a majority of the state's population will be resident, has insisted on redistricting strictly on the basis of population as the constitution presently provides. Most outstate members of the legislature, fearing control of both houses by the metropolitan area, have demanded that one of the two houses be elected on the basis of area and one on the basis of population.

Under the provisions of a proposed constitutional amendment to be submitted in the next election the five counties of the metropolitan area will be limited to 23 senate seats, the approximate number to which they now would be entitled on a population basis. The metropolitan area's representation in the lower house will steadily increase as the area's population grows proportionately larger. Such an arrangement, similar to the basis for representation in our national congress is fair and reasonable.

It may be assumed that the senatorial districts as now established will be permanent. House districts will be subject to change. The total number is to remain at 135 and as the metropolitan area gets more House members the number representing the outstate districts will be reduced.

The district boundaries as established in the new law are far from perfect. Because in general the new districts are formed along county lines, as they should be, there necessarily are some inequalities. Pennington and Red Lake, two small counties, are now merged with Polk, to form one of the largest districts in terms of both area and population. Clearwater is added to what has been one of the smallest districts in the state, Norman and Mahnomen. Considering the necessity for consolidating four districts into three the new arrangement probably is as good as any that could be worked out.

We do not share the fear of those who think our two small counties will lose their identity completely because they are attached to mighty Polk. The interests of the three counties are basically the same. The qualifications of candidates, along with partisan considerations, will be more important factors in district elections than county lines.

Polk county has the same kind of people we have in Red Lake and Pennington, and they are divided among themselves on most questions just as we are. We are satisfied that in the new arrangement we will get all the consideration that we deserve.

Michigan's Answer

University of Minnesota officials say there is only one sensible way to provide for the needs of higher education in our state and that is to make the University bigger. In light of what other states are doing in their efforts to meet similar problems, the Minnesota approach appears to be rather provincial and probably prompted by the cash-register interest of the city of Minneapolis in making the university the biggest school in the world.

Reports of what other states are doing are interesting, and especially the trend to quality production and efficient operation. The following report from the New York Times on a new school in the making in the state of Michigan rates special consideration. Reports the Times:

> Michigan, which provided the nation's first agricultural college and the pattern for the land-grant institutions, will embark in September on a new departure in state universities to help educate its mounting student population.
> Reversing the trend to vocational training, it is to be a liberal arts college of the highest quality—but one to develop the abilities of the average to good high school graduates, rather than of a highly selected elite.
> No intercollegiate athletics and no fraternities or sororities are planned. No remedial courses will be given. There will be new teaching methods and a new abandonment of faculty departments. An adult education program as novel, and as important as its undergraduate program, is being mapped.
> Most of the college's first 600 students—all freshmen—have been admitted. In four years there will be 3,000 and in a decade 10,000. The campus is now taking shape on the donated Alfred G. Wilson estate of 1,600 acres at Oakland, between Pontiac and Rochester. The school will be named Michigan State University-Oakland and will be a sister, but no twin, to Michigan State at East Lansing.
> Four Degrees
> Unlike that pioneer agricultural and land-grant institution, which offers undergraduates degrees in 130 fields and graduate degrees in 70, the new college will offer four degrees—all undergraduate. They will be liberal arts, engineering, business and education.
> Its curriculum is the product of more than a year's study by a score of the nation's leading educators and distinguished citizens working with the institution's new chancellor, Durward B. Varner, a vice president of Michigan State, and others from the East Lansing campus. Their objective was to develop a program incorporating the newest and most promising ideas in American higher education.
> Dean of the faculties is Dr. Robert G. Hoopes, 39, who formerly taught English at Harvard, Yale and Stanford, now vice president of the American Council of Learned Societies.
> This university, he said, "will challenge the assumptions of elementary and secondary education of the last few decades about built-in abilities and aptitudes of students." The function of education, he declared, is not to cater to tests but to change people, to discover unseen potentials.
> "The aim," said Dr. Hoopes, "is to render the professor dispensable at the earliest possible moment. This is to be a place of the mind, and the mind is an activity, not a repository. In this spirit, we invite students to come and learn with us."

Maybe other states are wrong in their approach to this problem but it will be interesting to see what results they get. The new school at Michigan will never make the headlines for the athletic prowess of its students but possibly they may excel in terms of scholastic achievement. We think it might be worthwhile to have one public school of higher education here in Minnesota that would specialize in education. One of the present state colleges could be converted to such a purpose.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The state legislator had barely squeezed into office following a turbulent campaign. Realizing the extent of his opposition, he was somewhat tense as a delegation called upon him immediately after he had begun his duties.

When the group had filed into his office, the spokesman announced, "Sir, we are here to enlist your aid in our campaign for forest preservation."

Sighing with relief, the legislator replied, "You may be assured of my zealous support. Fact is, I don't know when I may have to take to the woods." —Wall Street Journal.

We have won this position partly because of our wealth in natural resources that invites and encourages us to insure their preservation, and partly because of the effective efforts of scores of organizations, official and unofficial, to cooperate to that end.

Summer Educational Programs

It is logical to emphasize activities in conservation education in the summer time, and both teachers and students have exceptional opportunities in Minnesota. Special field courses are being offered to elementary school teachers at the University summer session; and a field course for high school teachers of biology will be held at St. Mary's college.

Winona State College is conducting its third conservation workshop at Whitewater State Park in July for both college students and teachers, and college credit will be granted for this one week of intensive study and activity.

Education and Recreation

Outdoor recreation is effectively combined with education in the summer training camp operated by the Vocational Division of the State Department of Education for members of the Future Farmers of America and the Future Homemakers of America. Last summer approximately 600 Minnesota boys and girls enjoyed this camping program on Lake Arrowhead, near Virginia. Some of them attended as winners of scholarships provided by the Keep Minnesota Green organization.

Education and Activity

Minnesota youth organizations often carry out activity projects of real educational value in the conservation field. This summer more than 47,000 4-H Club boys and girls will have an opportunity to call on farmers to ask their cooperation in a Keep Minnesota Green—"No Burning Pledge" campaign designed to prevent all unnecessary burning that might get out of control.

Camp Fire Girls are emphasizing the planting of trees and the broad encouragement of the wise use of natural resources.

Volunteer Organizations

I am sure that some of the most effective education along conservation lines is done by volunteer organizations such as the Isaak Walton League and the many other organizations of people especially interested in some aspect of our natural resources. One of our main problems is often to get coordination among programs specifically related to one resource or another. Sometimes in the past, the management from the standpoint of production of trees in not the best from the standpoint of feeding and propagation of wildlife. Sometmes in the past, the mowing of weeds along the highways has been very hard on the pheasant population.

Education that results in an understanding that nature is very much a unit, and must be considered in all of its aspects, usually brings about a public willingness to support programs that consider resources as a whole. Just such a simple change in policy as delaying the mowing along the highways until there is no longer any danger of destroying the pheasants can make a great difference.

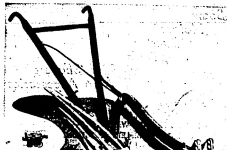
PEEKIN' into the PAST

THE BREAKING PLOW — 1840



Pioneers used plows like the one illustrated above to conquer the grass and convert the soil of a virgin continent.

This "breaking plow" was built in 1840, just a few years after the first steel mouldboard was invented. Usually it was drawn by oxen but sometimes horses were used.

Furrow by furrow the early-day farmers broke the sod and planted crops to feed themselves and their livestock. Markets for grain were far away, if available at all.

The WORLD OUTDOORS

WITH thousands of enthusiasts this year joining the big swing to such water sports as boating and water skiing, it is likely that the current season will see an increase in the number of accidental drownings.

Accidents will happen, in any activity and in every sport, and it naturally follows that the more people engaged in a particular activity, the more opportunities are there for accidents to happen.

Despite regulations and oft-repeated safety warnings, many people unnecessarily expose themselves to danger while in pursuit of fun and relaxation on the waterways. Some who cannot swim also foolishly cannot see why they should burden themselves by wearing life preservers. Some, who don't know the rules and regulations that guide safety on the waterways—or who just don't seem to care—endanger not only their own lives, but the lives of others through careless or negligent boating procedures.

In coastal areas and on the nation's "big" waterways, boating activities are well regulated. On smaller rivers and streams, there is often little regulation or supervision, particularly in remote areas.

Boating is fast becoming a highly-popular "family" activity and, for this reason, if for no other, the new boat owner should take the effort to know and learn the safety rules, and to obey them at all times. The new boat owner can get all the information he needs from the Outboard Boating Club, the Coast Guard and the local dealer from which he purchases his boating equipment.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH COW
"TWIN OAK LUE"
Purebred Milking Shorthorn

SOMETHING TO BANK ON as an attention-getter in any city is a real-life dairy cow in a bank lobby. Four-year-old Timmy Maetzold is one of hundreds of youngsters who stared in wide-eyed awe June 1 and 2 at the display of Twin Oak Lue in the Minneapolis Farmers & Mechanics Savings Bank. The lad, son of Mr and Mrs. Tom Maetzold of St Louis Park, receives a fresh-from-the-source glass of milk drawn by Princess Kay of the Milky Way, pretty Diane Schroeder of Kindel. Banks throughout Minnesota have joined in the June Dairy Month salute to the state's 96,000 dairy farmers.

THE BATTLE CRY

By U. S. Allen

"HEY, Cop!"

Patrolman Burke merely paused and looked across the street with little concern, for he had detected no tragedy in the voice. He saw four men moving along at the edge of the park in close formation. One of them seemed intoxicated; was being supported by two of the others—one on either side. The hour was midnight.

Burke moved on. He had gone some twenty or thirty steps when he heard a louder shout from the same voice. This time he was not positive as to what the man had yelled. It sounded like, "Hey, you." Again facing them he saw one of the men place his hand over the mouth of the drunken one, who had evidently done the shouting. What he next saw roused him with a start. He saw a gentleman leave the lady he escorted at the door of a cafe and dash toward the quartet, brandishing a heavy cane. At the same moment a roughly dressed man rose from a park bench with a cudgel in his hand with which he began to flail the men who were supporting the drunk.

Burke blew his whistle and rushed to the scene, arriving just in time to arrest the activities of a butcher who had come out of his shop armed with a cleaver. It was a fierce battle, at best, resulting in black eyes, bruised heads and broken noses.

The affray looked freakish to Burke at the time, but it became still more puzzling at the station.

The gentleman with the cane proved to be a lawyer and offered to be spokesman for himself and his allies.

"We were walking home from a little party, minding our business," said one of the attacked. "Our friend here had been drinking. I don't mean he was drunk but he was not sober—not too sober, you know—when all of a sudden these gangsters—"

"I object," shouted the lawyer.

"Sit down, you!—Go on, you."

"These ga—well, without provocation they came running from every direction with clubs, battle-axes—"

"We had provocation enough," the lawyer declared. "It's every man's duty to aid a fellow in a vital emergency and men of our kind never shirk a duty."

"Just a minute! What do you mean, 'men of our kind?'"

"I know this much, that they are all erstwhile circus men."

"How can you tell that?—I mean—how do you know?"

"Because they answered this man's call, that only a circus man would understand, and in a way that only a circus man would."

"Yea? We seem to be puttin' on a circus here. I s'pose you'll tell us that this stranger friend of yours—this man that's not too sober—is also a circus man."

"Yes, sir. I can say positively that he has been. And when he called on us for help and we saw him being gagged and overcome by these bandits—"

"Who the hell are you calling bandits?"

"Sit down, you! Young man, did you call on these guys for help?"

"Certainly not. These fellows with me are my best pals."

"But these men all say that you called for help, and Burke heard you shout something."

"That must have been when I yelled to a farmer across the street."

"And did you call on the farmer for help—to fool him, perhaps?"

"No, I was only kidding him."

"Well, come on, come on. Don't kid this desk.—What did you say to the farmer? What were your words?"

"Oh the words. Well—as I remember—I said, 'Hey Rube.'"

a peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

The transition from athlete to actor proved no problem at all to Chuck Connors, who stars in ABC-TV's "The Rifleman" . . . "I received $500 for my first day's work doing a bit part in MGM's Pat and Mike and right then I knew acting was for me," he declares . . . Chuck was born in Brooklyn, attended Adelphi Academy and then went to Seton Hall college in New Jersey on an athletic scholarship . . . It was one of 88 offers he received . . . While at Seton Hall he starred in baseball and basketball, signing a pro contract with the Brooklyn baseball organization in June 1942.

Drafted by the Yankee organization when the Dodgers failed to protect him, his first stop was Norfolk in the Piedmont League . . . At the end of the season he enlisted in the army and served a few months at Ft. Knox . . . Transferred to West Point, he remained there until discharged in February 1946 . . . On leaving the army, he joined a basketball team, then went back to baseball . . . From 1948-50 he was the first baseman for the Montreal Royals of the International League.

In 1951, he was sold by Brooklyn, who had obtained him back from the Yankee chain, to the Chicago Cubs, who in turn farmed him to Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League . . . Recalled that same year, he played 70 games for the Cubs . . . The following season he was back with L.A. . . . While a blow to his major league playing ambition, it was also the turning point in his life . . . His crowd-pleasing performance with the team made Chuck a celebrity on the coast and led to his "Pat and Mike" role and eventually a full-time acting career in movies and TV.

Connors is married to a Canadian girl he met while playing with Montreal in 1948 . . . They have four boys, Michael; Jeffrey; Steven and Kevin . . . With his former team now in L.A. he spends considerable time watching the Dodgers play ball.

JUVENILE INTEGRITY STARTS IN THE HOME

Across the Desk

Ideas from other editors

From The Armstrong Herald, Armstrong, Missouri: Early in the 1900's the Doukhobors migrated to western Canada and established what they called the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, Ltd. C.C.U.B. once had an estimated worth of $7 million, which included sawmills, a jam factory, a brick-making plant and hundreds of communal villages farming over 19,000 irrigated acres.

Today, a feature article in the Wall Street Journal points out, the land has deteriorated. Wood irrigation pipe has rotted away. Water starved apple, pear and other orchards on thousands of acres have withered. The Doukhobors have burned their former jam factory and even many of their own homes. John J. Verigin, British Columbia declares: "The community theory of taking out according to the family's needs and putting in according to ability did not work. Some put in more than others. This bred individualism."

The robbing Peter to pay Paul theory of economics which is advocated by big government "planners" should be scorned by every American. The communal idea of work and property in the guise of confiscatory taxation and Federal assumption of local and individual responsibility will destroy incentive and with it the dynamic character of this country.

From the Tri-County News, South Bend, Indiana: There was a day, not so long ago, when every young American was assured that he had a chance to become President of the United States, and, if he failed in that, at the worst, he would probably make a million dollars.

The result of this teaching has probably been evil. The generations that have grown on such notions have been inclined to grab for themselves and get all that the law allows, and some of the fruit that law prohibits.

It is about time that education includes the idea that an individual attains satisfaction, not by getting everything or the highest honors for himself, or herself, but by serving society in his or her place, with distinction. The development of men and women into intelligent creatures, with an understanding of human nature, is a task that most of us complete late in life, if at all.

Maybe, by starting early with the youngsters, we could help them attain a greater goal earlier in life, and that, we admit, is what life is intended to accomplish.

HOME Garden TIPS

Vegetable Garden Pests

The most troublesome pests in the vegetable garden include weeds, insects and disease. All three pests are often associated together in producing garden problems.

The aster yellows virus disease on carrots, lettuce, celery and tomatoes is spread from certain weeds to the vegetables by the six-spotted leaf hopper. Weeds must be controlled not only from the standpoint of competition but also from the possibility of harboring diseases and insects.

Chemical weed control in the small vegetable garden is not practical. Chemicals that will control certain weeds will harm some vegetable crops and not others. It is only where we have a large acreage of one crop that we suggest chemical weed control during the growing season.

Foliage diseases on potato and tomato can be controlled with zineb (Parzate or Dithane). Maneb (Manzate) has also given excellent control of blight. It is important to follow directions on the package on rate of application.

Soil insects like maggots, wireworms and grubworms can be readily controlled by granular dieldrin applied to the soil around the plants. Maggots are especially troublesome in onions, radish and cabbage.

Chewing insects can be controlled with methoxychlor. This gives good control for cucumber beetles that transmit bacterial wilt and cause wilting of the vines.

Aphids and plant lice should be controlled with malathion. Applications of this material will be helpful on broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, cucumbers and tomatoes.

Good control of weeds and applying insecticides and fungicides early before the pests become troublesome are steps toward a sucessful garden.

FALSE COURTSHIP

By Glenn Gordon Parker

At first, Randall McIntyre believed that he was attracted to Janice Reed for the sole and gainful reason of money. She was exceedingly rich and he had always fancied the sort of life that was synonymous with that kind of wealth. He had gone to considerable trouble to achieve the undying affections of Janice and it was only now that he began to wonder whether it was really the money after all.

Although Janice was rich, from all outward appearances, she was not, as one might suspect, without physical charm. On the contrary; she was generously endowed with an attractiveness that most men might best describe as "remarkable." She had that long flowing hair that was characteristic of olden days and it was the colour of a glowing sunset, falling almost to her delicate waist. Her eyes were an incredible blue that seldom expressed anything but the complete happiness that she seemed infinitely possessed with.

She never ceased to amaze Randall with her blind reasoning, her superstitions and her inability to detect the cynicism in other people. She was not unlike a woman from another generation, another century, for she had the finesse that set her distinctly apart from the conventional woman.

During the ensuing months Randall became increasingly impatient to marry Janice one way or another and to embark on his newly-found life of luxury. He also had become vividly aware of a feeling he had acquired for her—a feeling of awe and the almost unconscious realization that he was falling in love with her. It disturbed him for he had always prided himself on the fact that he was able to sustain his emotional fervor toward the opposite sex.

The afternoon when he had gone to visit Janice for the first time after having been introduced to her by way of mutual friends, the same friends who later had so freely informed him of her apparent wealth, he had had no previous knowledge of her financial status. It was just a normal attraction of a boy for a girl but with the money it somehow confused the issue and Randall wasn't sure whether he loved her or her money.

As they leisurely strolled through the park one pleasant Sunday afternoon he came to the conclusion that he should ask her about her money since she had never volunteered to tell him about it. After all, he reflected bitterly, he had a right to—didn't he? He turned to her and said in a barely audible voice for he wanted to sound casual, "Janice . . . are you really as rich as your friends tell me you are?"

She regarded him with her incredible blue eyes and then after a moment of visible contemplation she said, "I'm not rich at all, Randall; whoever gave you that idea?"

Randall stared at her in utter incomprehension. He was visualizing his dream of becoming rich melting before his very eyes. "You mean," he managed to say after recovering from the shock of it all, "that you don't have a lot of money?—I mean, you aren't rich at all?"

She nodded her head, smiling blithely and he just looked at her. He looked at her soft, vulnerable mouth, her innocent blue eyes and her beautiful, golden hair and suddenly it didn't matter whether she was rich or not. He had fallen deeply in love with her and it was too late to pull out now. Money or no money he was still going to marry her just the same.

"Anything the matter?" she asked. "You look as though you just won a battle with your conscience."

"I did, darling," he said, looking at her fondly. "I did."

A Tip From Our "Cap"

Couple of months ago, Cap Anderson traded in that fifteen-year-old rattletrap of his and purchased a new snazzy '59 model car. A real beauty, two-tone, and complete with power-everything.

But yesterday, of all things, Cap rattled into town behind the wheel of his old car. Naturally, all of us wanted to find out "How come?"

"Bought it back," said Cap, "I'm now a two-car family. I like my new car because it looks real modern—but I like this car because it's real me!"

From where I sit, all of us have certain affections that grow more a part of us with each passing year. For instance, when I think of Saturday night, I always think of my easy chair and a cold glass of beer. Your idea may be something else. But let's not ask each other to "change"—let's just respect the other fellow's preference. Agreed?

N.W. School Alumni to Hold Reunion June 27

The annual alumni reunion at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, will be held on Saturday, June 27. The activities for the day will begin with a business meeting of the Northwest School Alumni association. This will be followed by a short formal program; a number of awards will be presented to "distinguished" alumni.

The meeting and program will be held in the Kiehle auditorium. The formal program will recess to the outdoors at which time the new girls' dormitory will be formally named "McCall Hall", in honor of former superintendent, T. M. McCall of Crookston, who was a member of the Northwest School staff from 1911 to June 1956.

A committee headed by Ole Flaat of Fisher is planning a special late afternoon picnic supper for the classes of 1915, 1916, and 1917, and particularly honoring Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McCall and family. There will be special reunion time for all of the classes whose class year ends with 9, starting with 1909, 1919, 1929, etc.

For those who enjoy the evening alumni reunion dance, there will be the music of Jimmy Dunn's orchestra beginning at 9 p.m. in the Northwest School gymnasium.

Alumni, former students, and friends of the school will also be interested in visiting Robertson Hall which has taken on a 'new look.' During the summer and fall of 1958, Robertson Hall was rehabilitated; the dormitory facilities were completely replaced with the exception of the outside shell. This building served one year short of fifty years when the state legislature appropriated funds so that the inside walls could be completely renovated as well as the inside mechanical systems.

The new classroom building, now under construction, will be open for visitation also on alumni day, June 27.

LAST RUN Alfred M. Johnson, center, 239 Tindolph ave. N., was congratulated Monday afternoon, June 15, by Doug Kemmer, trainmaster of the Soo railroad, when he completed his final run as a locomotive engineer with William Dicken, left, 830 Kendall ave. S., as his fireman on his Monday trip. Johnson completed 51 years, 1 month and 8 days of railroading which began May 1908 with the Northern Pacific road. Two years later, he began his service with the Soo as a blacksmith's helper at the Shoreham shops in Minneapolis. In August, 1912, Johnson began firing with the Soo and was promoted to engineer in 1926. In the more than a half century, the retired railroader has been on locomotives ranging from the hand-fired Rhode Island engines to the diesels of today and once fired "Old 1024" now on display at the local Soo station. For the time being, Johnson says he intends to do "nothing" and will winter in California.

More Teacher Contracts Are OK'd by Board

School Board Makes Counter Offer to Employes' Union

Teacher contracts and the discussion of requests from the Drivers and Helpers union no. 664 were among the most important items considered by the Thief River Falls school board at their meeting Wednesday evening, June 17.

Raymond Henderson, a principal in the Northfield school, has been employed as the director of elementary education. Henderson, who has his M.A. degree from the University of Minnesota, will take the place of Kermit Eastman who will be employed in the St. Cloud school system next year.

Other contracts include: Hartley Storey as basketball coach; Edna Lindquist, who has taught in the rural schools of Pennington and Red Lake counties, will teach the course for the mentally retarded; Laura Jean Sherlock, a graduate of Moorhead state college, will teach Washington school grade two; Adeline Iverson, formerly of Evanston, Ill., will head the practical nursing program and Charles DeCorsey, who taught at Lake Crystal, will teach grade seven science and coach wrestling.

A request by the union for an increase of 20c an hour, a 40-hour week and an eighth holiday for janitors was met with a counter proposal by the board of a five cent increase, the present 44 hour week and no extra holiday. The board rejected a request that union dues be deducted from payroll checks and that severance pay of one-third of accumulated sick leave time on honorable severance be established.

The board also rejected a request that employes who use their personal cars for school business be paid $2.50 a trip and said that school vehicles should be used for this purpose. The board to agreed investigate a health and welfare program to be paid by the school district which would be equal to or better than the Blue Cross-Blue Shield program.

Fuel oil and coal bids will be received in August, the board decided, and Neary Louze was given a leave of absence for the year from his janitorial duties.

Secretarial salaries were increased from $5 to $15 a month

Jaycees Make Plans for '59 Water Sports Carnival July 18-19

Plans for the Junior Chamber of Commerce annual water sports carnival July 18 and 19 were the topic of discussion at a meeting held Wednesday evening.

Present were Jaycee officers and heads of the various water carnival committees.

Gary Forsberg, overall chairman of the water carnival, said plans for the annual event are well under way and that the show promises to be the best ever.

He stated that the show will be slightly different from shows held in previous years, both in organization and layout. This year's show will also be considerably larger, Forsberg said.

The selection of a water carnival queen will be made Saturday night before the actual water show, following a large street parade. Following the coronation a gala street dance will be held, amid a carnival atmosphere, on LaBree av. between Second and Third streets.

A much larger attendance is anticipated at this year's water sports carnival, Forsberg said. A considerable amount of publicity is being directed toward bringing a large number of Canadians into the city that weekend.

The group of skaters who presented the ice skating revue at the fair grounds Tuesday and Wednesday evening were guests at the luncheon. They reported that they will appear later this season at the New York state fair.

John Peterson, Lions president, appointed Bill LaFave, Dr. M. D. Starekow and Norman Peterson on a committee to make plans for the annual interclub golf match with the Rotarians to be held in July.

The club voted to meet jointly with the Rotary club next Monday, June 22, when a Winnipeg publicity representative will extend an invitation to local residents to come to the Canadian city on the occasion of the appearance of Queen Elizabeth of England there late in July.

House-Senate Tax Conferees Make Headway

Governor Opposes Passing Amendment on Reapportionment

While House and Senate conferees were still at odds over a tax program, a new controversy was sparked in the state legislature Wednesday by Gov. Freeman's announced opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment on reapportionment.

Rep. Fred Cina, liberal House majority leader, reported to the House that House-Senate tax conferees are making progress. However, he explained that it is necessary to find other taxes to balance the budget to finance the next biennium under the Senate proposal.

Gov. Freeman said he would urge voters in 1960 to reject the proposed constitutional amendment, and issued a lengthy statement saying "it fails to guarantee to either the rural or urban voters the fair representation they deserve."

His announcement brought a reply by Rep. N. R. Nelson of Breckenridge, a liberal, that he is drafting a bill to repeal the statutory reapportionment act signed by Gov. Freeman last Monday.

That law, effective in 1962, provides for direct redistricting of legislative districts. It bases reapportionment of the Senate and House on population and adds four more seats to the House. The Senate membership of 67, although reshuffled, is left unchanged.

Although the governor's approval of the proposed constitutional amendment is not required, it has been customary for governors to sign such bills. Freeman said he would not sign it.

Sinding, who has been in the profession at Pipestone and Tyler for more than 20 years, stated that for the present the business will continue under the Gulbranson name. His wife and four of his six children will join him here shortly, two daughters living in Minneapolis.

Sinding served for some years as city clerk in Tyler, and is a past president of the Tyler Kiwanis club.

Martin Gulbranson purchased the business from Carl B. Larson in 1942, operating in the Brumund building until 1948, when he bought and completely remodeled the Math Barzen residence on Riverside av. Field Inspection of Certified Seed Plots Needed Now

Farmers Raising Seed Reminded to Get Forms at County Agent Office

Farmers growing seed for certification or registry are reminded to request field inspection in the next several days. Forms requesting inspection are available at the extension office. Request for grass and legume field inspections may be made on the same forms for use for grain fields, said Paul Stelmaschuk, county agent.

If the seed being grown on the farm is from a Minnesota grown seed produced in 1959, then one tag is submitted to the Minnesota Crop Improvement association. If the seed source is out of state, all the tags must be submitted.

The certified and registered grain fields will be inspected in July. Soybeans and alfalfa will be inspected in August.

Among new varieties grown in Pennington county this year are Penscott red clover, Climax timothy, Minton oats and evergreen sweet clover.

Common Poisons Hit Youngsters, Rotarians Told

Several Children Taken to Hospital Each Week, Dr. Dan E. Greene States

Three or four children suffering from self-administered poisons commonly found around homes are admitted to Northwestern every week, Dr. Dan E. Greene told Rotarians at their Monday luncheon meeting.

Listed as the most common poisons not usually thought of as dangerous by Dr. Greene were aspirins and insecticides, especially powdered insect killers. Prefacing the showing of a film, "One Day's Poison," the doctor warned that the effects of these poisons should not be shrugged off but parents should call their doctors at once. "The biggest problem is getting parents to bring children in early enough," he said.

Sleeping tablets, aspirin, pain killers of various kinds, antiseptic solutions, kerosene, household bleaches, insecticides and other common poisons should be placed out of the reach of small children, Greene warned.

The movie dramatized one day in the routine of a children's hospital to which patients were admitted suffering from taking common poisons.

Preceding Dr. Greene's appearance, the club heard a report by E. B. Benson on arrangements for the annual Rotary-Lions golf match and the appointment of Vern C. Erickson as the third director of the club for the 1959-1960 year.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Taxeraas and grandson, Steven, left Monday for Spokane, Wash., where they will spend some time visiting relatives.

Plans Advance for West Side Sewer Project

Council OK's Plans for Submission to Highway Dept.

Discussion of city street maintenance and the examination of plans for the storm sewer project in District three were the major items of business taken up by the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening, June 16.

Following a report by Alderman A. J. Rau and Bob Jablinske, street commissioner, on work which has been completed in recent weeks, a request was made by Rau that the council call for bids for a road roller and a sander to be used to finish streets when they are constructed. The council voted to call for bids on this equipment to be opened at 8 p.m. July 6.

D. H. Stewart, consulting engineer for the city, presented plans and specifications for the storm sewer work in District 3 and announced that the work on Third and Sixth streets will be completed by Nov. 1, 1959, and the entire project by July 1, 1960. After examining the material, the council approved them and Stewart will submit the plans and specifications to the state highway department this week for that agency's approval.

The total estimated cost of the project has been set at $302,000 which includes resurfacing of streets where mains are installed. The cost of new water mains across Third st. to replace those in use for many years has been set at $6,700.

Supt. Irwin T. Mickelson appeared before the council with letter from the school's insuring agency which suggested better fire hydrant access for the southern part of the Lincoln high school buildings. After an estimate of from $6,000 to $7,000 for the work had been made by D. H. Stewart, the council, on the advice of Robert Wurst, city attorney, directed Stewart to prepare an informal feasibility report which will be presented to benefited property owners including the school, elevators, railroad and the L. B. Hartz Wholesale company.

The council approved the resignation of Elwood Ehrenstrom as airport manager effective July 6. V. M. Draper, chairman of the airport commission, told the council that applications are being received for the position thru the Minnesota State Employment

Plymire was re-appointed custodian of the Tindolph park recreation building for the months of June, July and August at a salary of $215 a month and Frank Jasnock was appointed as water plant operator for a probationary period of six months. Martin Nelson was appointed watchman and custodian of the plant for a probationary period of six months replacing Jasnock.

The transfer of the beer license for the Viking tavern from its former location at 206 LaBree av. N. to 208 Second st. E. was approved if the license holder, Elmer Poole, can satisfy the requirements of the state health department at the new location.

The request of Francis McGanley of International Falls that the assessed valuation of property owned by him be reduced was approved. Cutting Your Hay

Lose some of your alfalfa thru winter killing?

If so, it's more important than ever to save the quality in hay you do have. The way to start is by cutting that first crop early.

Recent field trials show that alfalfa-brome hay cut between pre-bloom and one-tenth bloom has nearly 15 per cent more total digestible nutrients (TDN) and three to six per cent more protein than forage cut at one-half to full bloom.

How you handle the crop also makes a difference. A field conditioner — crusher or crimper — will save half a day of curing time. Then if there's also a dryer in the barn mow, it's possible to get the hay into the barn a full day earlier than if this equipment weren't available.

Making grass silage is another way to cash in on the high value of early-cut forage. But silage must be made right. If you have a direct cut chopper, better plan on adding a preservative, such as 20 pounds of ground corn or other ground grain, for each ton of silage. Molasses is all right, too. Either grain or molasses will add to the feed value of the silage, in addition to preserving it.

Another good preservative, when used according to manufacturer's advice, is sodium metabisulphite. However, this material does not add any feed value to the silage.

Calves Prefer Hay Over Grain

In general, pelleting hay and grain won't make dairy calves gain faster.

In several University of Minnesota tests, calves getting long hay and grain in meal form have actually gained a little more rapidly than calves getting pellets.

But if you're feeding pellets because of handling convenience, it may be wiser to mix the hay and concentrate together and make one pellet. If the two parts of the ration are pelleted separately, the calves may overeat on hay, not eat enough grain, thereby reducing their intake of energy.

Dairy cattle researchers W. A. Olson and J. B. Williams recently compared two systems for dairy calves: grain pellets and hay pellets mixed together, and hay and grain mixed and compressed into one pellet. They tried each system at two hay levels — 40 and 60 per cent.

For the first 42 days, calves on the higher hay level did a little better, regardless of whether they got the separate hay and grain pellets or the combination pellets.

During the second 42-day period, though, calves on the lower hay level gained faster and seemed to prefer hay to grain. Where hay and grain were pelleted separately, they tended to nose the feed around and eat the hay pellets first.

Where pellets are fed it's better to have the entire ration mixed before pelleting, so the animal doesn't have a choice. Otherwise, the calf may not eat enough grain.

When to Fill Silo

Here's a quick way to judge moisture content of your grass silage. Before you put it in the silo, squeeze a handful of the finely chopped material for 90 seconds. Then release your grip. If juice runs freely, the material is too wet to make quality silage holds its shape and your hand without treatment. If the ball is moist—but no juice flows—the moisture is about right for bunker or trench silos. If the ball expands slowly and your hand is not damp, it's in the 60-70 per cent moisture range — ideal for upright silos. The material is too dry if the ball spring out as soon as you open your hand.

Sunday Races Marred by Bob Pahlen Injury

The season's largest crowd was on hand at the speedway west of town Sunday night as the Northwestern Racing association put on their first program of stock car racing under the lights.

LeRoy Whitson, a driver who has shown continued improvement in his racing tactics and skill, was the program's only double winner. Whitson won the eight-car consolation event, and followed that win with a first place in the fourteen-car feature event.

Dale Sevre, who won the time trials in the comparatively slow time of 23.0, due to a heavy track, was runner-up to Whitson in the consolation and feature events.

The program was enlivened by a jalopy race, and in this event, Bob Pahlen suffered severe injuries during a three-car crash. According to latest reports, Pahlen is to be taken to Fargo for an examination to determine the extent of his head injuries.

Another interesting program of under-the-lights racing has been arranged for Sunday evening, June 21. The time trials are scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m.

The summaries:

Time trials—Dale Sevre, 23.0; LeRoy Whitson, 23.7; Bob Reopelle, 23.9; Bob Pahlen, 24.0; John Coone, 24.2; Bruce Kramer, 24.2; Howie Thomas, 24.3; Don Joppru, 24.5; Jim Pierce, 24.6; Spud Manning, 24.7; Milt Jorgenson, 25.1; Gerald Johnson, 25.5; Arne Henson, 26.0; and Dick Hogie, 26.8

First heat—won by John Coone; 2nd, Bob Reopelle; 3rd, Bruce Kramer.

Second heat—won by Milt Jorgenson; 2nd, Don Joppru; 3rd, Spud Manning.

Wally Grovum's Thief River Falls Bums, in a game that was highlighted by a tremendous home run clout by LeRoy Pederson, defeated Grygla, 12 to 10, in a game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday afternoon. The win boosted the Bums into undisputed possession of first place in the league standings, with the club holding a one-game lead over the Grygla and Goodridge teams, who share runner-up honors.

Goodridge edged out Badger, 9 to 8, and the Plummer Red Sox defeated Greenbush, 6 to 4, in the other games on last Sunday's slate.

This week's game will find the Bums carrying their league lead to Badger for a game with last season's runner-up Badger club.

Coach Curly Gasperlin will take his Goodridge team to Plummer for a game against the improving Red Sox; and Greenbush will invade Grygla for a game.

Legion Jr. Team Takes Newfolden

Marks First Win after Dropping Three in Row

Coach Ralph Skay's American Legion junior baseball team, after absorbing three straight defeats, losing to Crookston and a doubleheader to Grand Forks, moved into the win column on Tuesday evening by scoring a 6 to 3 triumph over Jack Junker's Newfolden's juniors in a game played at Newfolden.

The local juniors will meet the East Grand Forks juniors in a sub-district conference game on the Fair Grounds diamond tonight, Thursday. Game time is at 8 p.m.

In a hotly-contested doubleheader played here Monday evening, coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks juniors marked up a pair of wins, posting scores of 5 to 3 and 8 to 4.

The feature of the two games was the home-run hitting of Grand Forks' Ray Stinar. The rangy pitcher-first-baseman poled out two home runs in the second game to drive in seven runs and provide the Grand Forks club with their winning margin over Arlan Hjelle and the locals. In the 3rd inning, Stinar, with the bases loaded, poled a four-bagger over the left field fence; and in the 7th inning, with two runner aboard, the lanky right-handed batter lofted a towering home run near the tower in left-center. Hjelle, who was tagged for the two circuit blows, gave up but five hits and struck out 10 Grand Forks batsmen.

Playing at Newfolden on Tuesday evening, the locals bumped into a capable pitcher in southpaw John Haglund, who scattered the 11 hits that coach Skay's club collected. Newfolden's Lowell Halvorson, in the 3rd inning, and off the slants of Paul Saurdiff, drove a home run over the left field fence.

Grygla Loses to TRF Bums 12 to 10

Two Home Runs Feature Contest Last Sunday

The Thief River Falls Bums took over first place in the Penn-Ro-Shall league on Sunday by defeating the Grygla nine, 12 to 10, in a nip-and-tuck affair played on the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday afternoon.

This week, the Bums will travel to Badger for a game against last season's runner-up club.

Sunday's game was high-lighted by a pair of home runs, with the Bums' Roy Pederson blasting one of pitcher Paul Saurdiff's tosses for a long four-bagger over the left field fence. Tiegland of Grygla also entered the home run column.

Erskine Leads in Northern Minny

Four Teams Are Tied for 2d Place in Standings

Northern Minny League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Erskine	2	1	.667

Cass Lake	3	2	.600
Bagley	3	2	.600

Fosston	2	3	.400
Eldred	0	4	.000

Results of th[is] week's games:
T. R. Falls, 9, at Fosston, 10.
Bagley, 5, at Fosston, 2.
T. R. Falls, 12, at Cass Lake, 6.
Winger 11, at Eldred 10.

Schedule, Sunday, June 21
Bagley at Erskine (1:30 P.M.)
Winger at T. R. Falls (night).
Cass Lake at Eldred (afternoon).

The idle Erskine Merchants were elevated into first place in the Northern Minny league standings on Sunday afternoon when the Thief River Falls Thieves, in a game played at Cass Lake, defeated Cass Lake, 12 to 6. Russ Smith's Cass Lake club had held the league lead with a three wins and one loss record previous to Sunday's tilt.

The Bagley Merchants and the Winger Tigers moved into a four-way tie for second place, posting victories over Fosston and Eldred, respectively. Bagley, getting a four-run cluster in the 1st inning, held off Stan Otness' club to score a 6 to 2 win in a night game played at Fosston. The Winger Tigers, who are proving to be a surprise this season, edged out Eldred, 11 to 10, in a game played at Eldred Sunday afternoon. The Tigers will invade the Fair Grounds diamond here Sunday night for a game against the Thieves.

The feature game of the week's schedule will probably be the Bagley vs. Erskine game at Erskine at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday. The two teams are long-time rivals, and are well-matched in personnel and pitching strength. Bruce Lindell, a righthander, will probably get the nod for the pitching assignment for Mel Brustad's Bagley club, while Bob Hallameck, also a righthander, is expected to take the mound for the league-leading Erskine nine.

An Object Lesson

We hope that the district tournament committee, or he district officials in charge of arranging the pairings, were in attendance at the 31st district's recent high school baseball tournament finals at the Fair Grounds. The score of the game was 20 to 1 for the Prowlers over the Climax Vikings.

At a pre-tournament meetings it was decided, by a five to two vote, to arrange the tournament pairings by a "fish pond" method, drawing the teams out of a hat.

The arguments put forth in favor of this lottery method was that it was impossible to arrive at a league rating or conference standing basis without doing an injustice to some of the clubs. The claim was that several of the teams had played a representative schedule, and as a result it was difficult to make an equitable rating of the team's standing in the conference.

That the Crookston Pirates, last season's champions, and the Thief River Falls Prowlers, were the district's number one and number two teams wasn't open to argument. And it should not have been so very difficult to have rated the district's remaining teams.

And, wouldn't that have been a fine climax to the district tournament, with a game between the Pirates and the Prowlers? Instead the luck of draw paired to the two teams in a first round game, with the Prowlers winning by a 6 to 5 score in a game that will linger a long time in the memory of the fans who witnessed the contest.

From that first round win, the Prowlers moved into the semi-finals, against a well-coached Goodridge Huskies team, and then into the finals against Climax.

Possibly a solution to the problem, and to give a boost to the smaller schools who usually have only one capable hurler on their staff, would be to engage in a sub-district tournament. The four teams coming out as winners and runners-up in the sub-district would be eligible to participate in the district tournament.

Quite a Lift

The Thieves baseball team certainly received a "lift" this past week—along about the 5th inning of the game at Cass Lake on Sunday—when catcher Jack Junker returned to the local lineup. It was, or is, a bit difficult to believe that the presence of one player would make such a difference in the spirt and efficiency of a ball club, but such was the case on Sunday.

It's not so strange, though, for Jack is the type of player who possesses tremendous desire. And he has the happy faculty of instilling this desire into his teammates. Jack's a 110-percenter.

Definition

The most apt description we have heard of the game of golf are these few words we have culled from Arthur Daley's column in the New York Times: "Golf is an ineffectual endeavor to put an insignificant pellet into an obscure hole with entirely inadequate weapons."

Fishing

Jerry Amundgaard, and his dad, Iver, of Argyle, spent an enjoyable and successful week-end on Lake of the Woods.

They headquartered near the government wharf north of Morrison, adjacent to the entrance into Saboskong Bay, but the pair did not do much fishing in that vicinity. They moved up into Obabikan lake, where they had what they termed good walleye pike fishing. According to Jerry, they were "throwing away two and three-pounders on Sunday afternoon."

The explanation is that they had their limit, less one, on Saturday, and these fish were filleted and packed for the trip home. Needing but one walleye pike on Sunday, Jerry and Iver could "hand pick" the pike on their Sunday fishing, and that's what they did, keeping a five-pounder and releasing the others. And there weren't too many three and four-pounders released either, about four or five.

Boat Licensing Law Is Further Clarified

Regulations relating to licensing of watercraft, placement of temporary structures upon waters of the state, designated swimming areas, rental watercraft and rules of the waterway have now been established by commissioner's orders as required by law according to an announcement by George A. Selke, commissioner of conservation, today.

Additional regulations will be formulated from time to time as the need arises, Selke said. Licenses are now available at the offices of county auditors and their approved agents. A digest of some of the current regulations and pertinent sections of the boating act follows:

What boats must be licensed? All watercraft used or designed for navigation on water other than a duck boat during the duck hunting season, rice boat during the harvesting season, canoe, sailboat or seaplane must be licensed.

Where is license obtained? Applications must be made in person to the county auditor or his agent. Be sure you know your boat length and serial number of boat and motor, if any. Length may be determined by measuring the shortest distance between the point farthest forward and the point farthest astern.

Licenses: Licenses purchased now are good until Dec. 31, 1960, when they must be renewed for the succeeding two calendar years. The original license number may be retained if continuously renewed. Monies collected will be used for administration, enforcement and public access.

License numbers: License numbers may be applied with paint or may be metal or reflectorized decals. Numbers and letters may be of any material with other than a flat or dull finish, need not be luminous, but must be of a color that contrasts with the background. Letters and numbers bordered with a contrasting color comply.

Licenses: License numbers must be affixed on each side of the forward half of the watercraft, read from left to right and letters and numbers must be at least three inches in height and of a block type. No number other than the license number of the watercraft shall be displayed on either side of the forward half of any watercraft.

Licenses for each boat must be carried on board at all times and be available for inspection. This is a requirement of federal law.

Lost license: Duplicate licenses may be obtained for a fee of 75 cents.

Transfer of ownership: Within 15 days a duplicate license must be obtained under the name of the new owner.

Reciprocity: Visitors from another state do not need a Minnesota license for a period not to exceed 90 days if licensed under federal law or a federally approved state licensing system.

Water skiing: It is unlawful to tow a water skier unless two persons are in the towing craft, or unless it is equipped with a curved rear-view mirror or equipped with an approved safety device, or to water ski between one hour and a half after sunset to sunrise of the day following.

Floating or moored structures: A permit from the sheriff of the county is required for any floating or moored structure on the water between sunset and sunrise, and then only when properly lighted or reflectorized. This does not apply to mooring or navigation buoys.

Accidents: In case of accident the operator of a boat must stop, render assistance if necessary provide identification, and report accident to the local sheriff or deputy.

Winnipeg Host at American Visitors Week June 19 to 27

Many Events Planned for Entertainment, Including Red River Exhibition

Winnipeg's third annual American Visitors' Week June 19-27 promises to be the biggest event of its kind ever staged in the Manitoba capital.

Friday evening, June 19, the opening night for both the Red River Exhibition and American Visitors' Week, sees a monster parade, which has been heralded as the longest and best ever to be seen in Western Canada. Parade spaces have been allotted for 70 marching bands. Fifteen of these will come from Minnesota and North Dakota, combining a total personnel of well over 1,000 high school bandsmen.

Seven of the American bands, from Morris, Deer River, Sauk Centre, Bemidji, Fosston, Hibbing and Cold Spring in Minnesota, and Lisbon, N. D., will participate in a special band concert for American bands on Saturday afternoon, June 20.

Feature attractions of the Red River Exhibition and American Visitors' Week include: Minneapolis Aquatennial, "Symphoney in the Sky," the world famous U.S. Air Force band from Washington, D.C., the International baton twirling contest, and the All-Faith Sunrise church service on the Legislative Building grounds, Sunday, June 21.

Other highlights of American Visitors' Week include the Royal American shows, light horse show, field dog trials, livestock and commercial exhibits at the Red River Exhibition.

During World War II, with smoking prohibited in combat areas during "blackout," Navy men and other military personnel took large amounts of snuff. One manufacturer reported shipping a rush order of 1,000 cases to a ship going into a submarine zone.

Please, No Tinkering

A report from Washington says the drop in hog prices may bring back a food stamp plan. In a campaign year we can expect almost any kind of political stupidity.

The less the government tinkers with the market prices of farm products the sooner will there be a proper balance between supply and demand and, fortunately, most of the producers now recognize that fact.

An egg producer of this community, with many years of experience in this specialized field, tells us that over a normal three-year period he expects one year of high prices, one year of fair prices and one year of low prices.

The high prices bring the inners-and-outers back into competition, boosting production and busting the market. In two years they are out of production again and the regular producers have another good year. If Uncle starts guaranteeing fair prices for pork and eggs the government will soon have as many cold storage plants as it now has grain bins.

There Will Be New Marvels

Rocketing a package of letters from a submarine 100 miles offshore to Jacksonville, Florida, last week was an interesting demonstration of the progress we have made in the control of guided missiles, but it left us a little cold when we considered it as a possible new device for speeding up the delivery of mail.

Old-fashioned jet planes now fly from Paris to New York in six hours. The new faster-than-sound jets that soon will be hauling passengers and mail across the Atlantic will make the hop from Paris to New York in two hours. It occurs to us that folks who need a message delivered faster than that should use the telephone.

That was our first reaction. On second thought, rocket ships may some day be old-fashioned too. Many of the things that were inconceivable at the beginning of the century are now commonplace. Because we have been wrong so often we will not now predict that new marvels are not in the making.

Headline Hater

Senator Hubert Humphrey, speaking as a presidential candidate, and replying to a question on "summit" meetings, told a Christian Science Monitor reporter that he favored more such meetings but that, meetings "of the heads of state would be better if there were not quite so much headline attention until something was done."

We gather from this that if he becomes a head of state he will become a headline-hater. Until things are done he will brush off the reporters with a curt "no comment."

That's our Hubert.

Short-Cut Route

Scandinavian Airlines, flying the short-cut route from Los Angeles to northern Europe, is now permitted to land its trans-arctic ships at Winnipeg for purposes of refueling, but is not allowed to board or land passengers. The Winnipeg Tribune is hopeful that this ban may be lifted, being encouraged by some recent "exceptions" having been made by the Ottawa government.

Such an over-the-top flight available to and from Winnipeg would find a few interested customers in this area of Minnesota. We hope that this hope of our Winnipeg neighbors is realized.

Six-Day Schools

In a recent nation-wide referendum the people of Sweden voted by an overwhelming majority to continue their six-day school week. The winning arguments were that the pupils would have to work harder in a five-day week and holidays might be encroached upon.

It is good to be reminded that we have to work harder to accomplish as much in five days as we would if we worked six days. In a national referendum in Switzerland this year the people voted against a shorter work week for this reason. They had the choice of more leisure or more of the things that labor produces.

Our people prefer more leisure, and that is what they are going to get in the form of unemployment, as our production costs climb and we become less competitive in a world of workers.

But we suspect that the main reason why the Swedes voted to continue their six-day school week was that they didn't want any lowering of scholastic standards. A few years ago they were arguing about compulsory high school attendance. Those who argued against compulsory high school attendance said it would mean a lowering of standards and that their schools then would become like the schools in America.

A Sound Dollar

President Eisenhower told Congress last week that the government must put its financial affairs in order and get the national debt under control. In the best interest of all of the people of the country, that should be the one "must" objective of the present session, he said. In a recent talk to a group of business magazine editors, Mr. Eisenhower referred back to his own experience to explain the need for preserving a sound dollar. He remembered:

"My wife and I decided, in 1916, to get married. Since I, like all other Second Lieutenants, was alway overdrawn at the bank, I decided that I ought to show a little more sense of responsibility. So I began to buy a small insurance policy. . . . Thirty years later the company came around to pay off. It was so small (in terms of today's dollars) that I would have been ashamed to ask my wife to exist on it for six months.

"Today, through the changes in our industrial system, we as a people have become dependent for old age security, more and more upon pensions, insurance policies, savings bonds and savings accounts. These are the people that are particularly hurt by depreciation of the dollar . . . A man who puts away his savings to be used 40 years from now can receive some startling lessons over that 40 year period.

"Today think of the man at the lathe, the drill press, who is earning money which he is putting away in his pension with his company or into an insurance policy. If we cannot today insure him that 40 years from now he is going to be able to have a living left, then I say, sooner or later, he will quit buying insurance policies, he will not have any confidence in a Government bond, and he will not think much of his pensions."

Inflation has robbed many of our senior citizens of their independence. Their savings and their retirement funds in various forms, would have been very adequate and would have permitted them to enjoy their years of retirement if the dollars they depended upon had retained their buying power. By our mismanagement of the economy, by our deficit spending and the building up of an enormous public debt, we have depreciated the value of those dollars by more than one-half. And the crazy procedure is continuing.

The free-spenders in Washington should be reminded again and again that, as President Eisenhower told the publishers, unless this trend is checked, American citizens will soon quit buying insurance policies, will lose all confidence in government bonds, and will not think much of their pensions.

Anybody for Butter ?

(Miami Herald)

The incredible dilemma of farm surpluses was graphically illustrated recently in an article by David Kraslow of our Washington Bureau.

The Army is asking bids for 538,440 pounds of butter at a time when the Commodity Credit Corporation owns 17 million pounds acquired under the price support program which it keeps in costly storage.

Offhand, it would seem, logic dictates use of surplus butter by he Army.

But no! There is no logic in the topsy-turvy economics of price supports and farm surpluses.

This would simply mean that 538,440 pounds of butter would go unsold on the open market, creating more surplus for the Commodity Credit Corporation to acquire and store.

Anybody got the answer?

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS from the Desk of
SENATOR
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Slippery interest — One of the hardest ideas to pin down is the meaning of an interest-rate rise. It's a slippery, illusive matter. After all, interest rates make pretty dry reading at first glance. And the figures are deceptively small. When they raise the average government bond yields from 2.6% (1952) to over 4% (1959), the figures do not look startling. They are startling, of course. But you have to scratch your head and think a moment before you realize that the holders of government bonds are now making an increased income, from the government 53 per cent greater than in 1952.

National debt—On June 8 the President asked for authority to remove the present 4¼ per cent interest rate ceiling on government bonds — as well as to increase the national debt limit from $283 billion to $295 billion. Here again, that little figures of 4¼% doesn't look very big compared to the enormous figures right next to it. But it is very big. Translated into dollars paid by the taxpayer, the interest payments on the national debt got very large indeed. In 1952 we taxpayers were paying $6.2 billion a year in interest on the debt. This year we are paying almost $7.8 billion, and next year the President says we may have to pay $8.6 billion. In other words next year the taxpayers of this country will be shelling out $2,400,000,000 more than we did in 1952—just to pay interest! That money would buy a lot of new schools, new homes to replace rotten tenement houses, and a lot of medical research. I have joined with other senators in requesting a thorough study of the new administration proposals by the Joint Economic committee of the congress.

The big squeeze—Tight money and resulting higher interest rates—theoretically to discourage and slow down borrowing—puts a terrible squeeze on the small man—the home-buyer, the automobile-purchaser, the municipality and school district. More and more of the monthly payments go out in increased interest. When the "discount rate" is raised, the local banks have to borrow money at higher rates, and have to pass on the increase to the individual borrower. It's like a stack of dominoes: when government bonds bear higher interest rates, there is an automatic inflation of the whole family of interest—right down to the local small town bank.

Monthy payments — Perhaps the best way to understan' how the "tight money" policy hurts is to look at what home-buyers have to pay out at various levels of interest. Take a small (for these days) $12,000 mortgage. In 1952, a veteran could get 4% financing for 30 years, which meant a combined principal and interest monthly payment of $57.36. Now, with the new upward pressure on interest rates, many home-buyers will be forced to turn to conventional mortgages at 6% and even at 7% interest. On the same 30-year $12,000 mortgage, then, the monthly payment will be $72 (for 6% financing) and $79.92 for 7% mortgages.

Housing costs—Another way to look at it is to look at the 30-year total interest charges to a buyer with a $12,000 mortgage on his house. That little difference of 2% between the 4% GI mortgage and the 6% conventional mortgage means a big difference in the actual total cost of repaying the mortgage:

At 4% total cost (principal and interest) will be $20,649.

At 6% total cost will be $25,920.

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

One of the most important single issues to the life and economy of our Ninth district was debated in the House of Representatives last Wednesday and Thursday, and voted upon on Friday. This issue is wheat legislation, and more especially, H.R. 7246—the House Agriculture committee's approved wheat bill.

Leaves Much to be Desired

The bill, which passed the House and now goes to a conference committee for attempted compromise with the already-approved Senate bill, leaves much to be desired. It provides for a reduction in each individual wheat farmer's production by 25% in return for 90% of parity on the remainder.

A national referendum is provided for, whereby wheat farmers would choose between these production controls or whether they would rather plant with no controls and parity set at 50%. There is little quesion in my mind that should this bill become law, which is doubtful, wheat farmers would take the first alternative.

But actually, what kind of a choice is this? What kind of a choice is it that provides a reduced income to the wheat farmer no matter which of the two alternatives he decides upon? I very reluctantly voted to support the bill, but only because I believe that something has to be done. A "no" vote in my estimation would have been a vote to postpone action on this very crucial matter, and in too many instances, I'm afraid, a vote to eventually destroy the farm program.

Hope for the Future

It is my hope that the conferees will come up with a more equitable and just solution to the wheat farmers and the nation—a solution which will not only provide opportunity to the wheat farmer, but also deal with the huge surpluses presently costing the taxpayers so much. The Senate wheat bill, I am gratified to say, is based on the incremental price support principles of the legislation which I introduced earlier in the session.

This legislation would provide more opportunity to the wheat farmer at the same time it was effecting a reduction in surpluses. The Senate bill, however, falls short of the mark in other respects. If the bill decided upon by the House-Senate conferees should turn out to be nothing but stop-gap legislation and not a real solution to the problem, and such legislation should become law, I sincerely hope that the congress will use the two years during which such legislation would most likely be in force to find a more favorable and adequate solution to the wheat problem.

As I told the House during the debate on the wheat bill, "Such a solution, I feel, should bring to the American wheat farmer opportunity to improve his income to the point of where he will receive a just share of the national income and to do so without being further hampered by restrictive government controls and penalties.'

Most popular way to get a home loan today
Like millions of Americans you may be dreaming of building or buying your own home. If you are, chances are you need two important things—first, money for a down payment; second, a home loan to make up the difference. Our association specializes in helping you get both these things.
Last year, associations like ours throughout the U.S. made one out of every three home loans—1,000,000 of them totaling more than $10 billion. The Insured Savings and Loan way has, in fact, become America's most popular way to finance a new home. Here's why:
1. We know more about home loans because we make more of them.
2. You get friendly understanding from our staff which is experienced in home financing.
3. You repay your loan just like rent. A monthly repayment is usually set up to include principal, interest and property taxes.

NEED A REMEDY FOR DRIVING BORE-DOM??

When you're alone, driving can sure get boring without music. And, if you're without music because your auto radio isn't working, then don't drive a foot farther than our service shop.

For years now we've been offering drive-up service on auto radios of all makes. In our experience, more often than not, fixing your car radio won't take any longer than an average shopping visit to your favorite bakery, delicatessen or hardware store.

Another thing we've learned too, is that we get good results with high quality Sylvania tubes designed especially for auto radio use. Guess that's why many large auto radio manufacturers use Sylvania tubes in the first place.

So remember, if your auto radio isn't working, drive up for fast, efficient service and drive off to your favorite music.

Boat tonnage along the Mississippi River system during the 1810's accounted for more than half of all that registered in the United States. Then railroads, highways, and planes relegated the river boat to the past. Two world wars reversed the trend and since 1945 Mississippi traffic — especially in oil, grain, metal and building materials — has grown year by year.

No rest for this Chevy... round the clock the engine never stops!

At Washington's bustling National Airport, Allied Aviation Fueling counts on its radio-equipped Chevy to get crews and tank trucks to the right planes at just the right time. Aside from occasional time out for the usual service, its Thriftmaster 6-cylinder engine has been running 24 hours a day for the past 9 months!

Once you've got that kind of endurance working you don't worry much about lost job time. Breakdowns go out of style the day your Chevy goes into action.

The fact is, Chevrolet trucks are dead set on dropping the word "downtime" right out of the English language. And they just might, if precision engineering and top-quality materials have anything to say about it. Chevy trucks are put together to stay together—incorporating the most advanced chassis developments, the most efficient 6-cylinder and V8 engine designs. They're built to last, built to keep Chevrolet's hard-earned reputation for reliability flying high.

Going into the rest heart of Chevrolet advantages is where your dealer comes in. He'll show you, in feature after feature, that you can't buy more truck dependability—in any weight class—at any price.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck! CHEVROLET

Miniature Gas Cars Are Termed Menace

Midget gasoline-powered vehicles are appearing this spring as a greater menace to traffic and personal safety than ever before. So says William Proetz, St. Paul, president of the Minnesota Association of Chiefs of Police, in response to requests from various individuals for clarification of the law in this matter.

According to Minnesota traffic regulations, any vehicle which is self-powered is classed as a motor vehicle and must abide by laws governing such vehicles. This includes simple "soap-box type" home-made models to which a small gas engine has been added, as well as the more sophisticated manufactured small autos. Often the small vehicles are not equipped with brakes of any kind and almost all fail to meet safety specifications for fenders, lights, brakes and windshields.

"There's still another aspect to the problem," Proetz continued. "These vehicles must conform to safety equipment regulations. I think it's safe to say that only the more expensive manufactured models do this. The other side of the problem is licensing. To operate on the public streets, these vehicles must be licensed by the Minnesota motor vehicle registration division. What's more, the operators must also be licensed unless they're under 15 years of age, in which case they can't be licensed and they can't drive on public property."

Parents of children and young people who are in possession of such illegal vehicles are urged by safety officials to supervise their youngsters and to be sure they don't endanger their lives by driving on public streets or highways. These small vehicles are safe only on private property.

Adults who allow children to operate such vehicles illegally are subject to arrest for allowing incompetents to operate motor vehicles.

Campaign Planned for New Buildings for Winter Shows

Financial Drive to Be Made among 14 Counties in the Red River Valley

The board of managers for the Red River Valley Winter Shows held a special meeting at the Northwest Experiment station in Crookston Friday, June 12. They unanimously passed a resolution which directed the Winter Shows president to organize and conduct a financial campaign in the 14 Red River Valley counties as the first major step in realizing a new set of buildings for the Shows.

Plans are to organize and conduct this campaign through the summer and fall of 1959. Assuming the campaign goes well, plans for the building will be established by a committee of northwestern Minnesota farmers.

These general plans will be put into form by an architect. According to Dr. B. E. Youngquist, president of the Valley Winter Shows, this is a $100,000 project and will be financed jointly by a financial drive in the 14 counties which serve the Shows.

The buildings in downtown Crookston, in which the shows are currently staged, are owned by the Red River Livestock association. The shareholders in the livestock association have voted to provide all of their property to the board of managers of the Winter Shows to be utilized in the building project.

STATE HAS VAST AND VARIED RAIL PATTERN

Seventeen different railroad systems operate 8,635 miles of rail lines in Minnesota, according to a recent survey by University authorities. Shortest route is two miles of Green Bay & Western's 224 total; Chicago Burlington & Quincy operates only 35 miles, Illinois Central 37. The entire 77 miles of the Minneapolis Northfield & Southern Road are operated within Minnesota. Great Northern has the greatest mileage, 2,055; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 1,331; Northern Pacific 1,181; Chicago & Northwestern 1,066; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault St. Marie (Soo Line) 1,041. Longest overall route represented in the state is the Milwaukee, with a total of 10,590 miles; C&NW is second at 9,287, CB&Q third 8,758; Great Northern total mileage is 8,274, Northern Pacific 6,289; 555 of the 563 miles in the Duluth Mesabi & Iron Range system are operated on Minnesota soil. Operating revenue of these roads has recently run each year between 210 and 290 million dollars. Of freight originating in the state 80% is products of mines, 11.3% agricultural products; of that brought in 38% is agricultural, 33% products of mines, 23% manufactured goods.

Nickel is used as an alloying element in steel because it makes the steel stronger, tougher and more resistent to wear.

DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

This story is dedicated to the younger generation — to the sportsment of tomorrow—to the poor little kids who must sit patiently and listen while Dad, Granddad, and Uuncle Joe talk about fishin' and huntin' in the "good old days" and how these sports "just ain't what they used to be." Well, son, remember this, when Dad was a boy he listened to the same old line from Granddad, and long ago Granddad sat wide-eyed and took in these "good old days" stories from Great-granddad. And don't forget, son, some day you will be telling your kids about the great huntin' and fishin' you had way back in the 1950's—though it could be just as good then as now.

In case the "old timers" around your house claim this can't be so because the game and fish are practically gone in Minnesota, here are a few facts you can throw at these old fellows. Minnesota sportsmen are catching 50 million fish a year and this is about 12,500 tons of fish. Last year we shot over one and one-half million pheasants. The old timers can't beat that because the only time we shot more was in 1941 and 1942 when one hen in the bag was permitted. Besides, we could have taken more cocks last year because when the shooting was over we still had one cock for every three hens and one for eight hens would be better. This year, if the spring weather hold good, we may have even more pheasants.

Last fall Minnesota hunters also took over a half-million ruffed grouse, about 67,000 sharptails, 27,000 huns, 3,000 quail, 9,000 woodcock, and 8,000 jacksnipe. All of these showed an increase over 1957.

When it comes to deer hunting, you can tell these "good old day" fellows that over 75,000 deer were taken by hunters last year. This is 8,000 more than the previous year and we had an excellent supply of brood stock left with good hunting prospects for this fall.

In addition, Minnesota hunters shot over half a million squirrels and over half a million rabbits and hares. This is the greatest harvest of squirrels and rabbits we have ever had, and it could have been larger with no harm to the brood stock.

Even the trappers did well. The number of mink and muskrats trapped increased over the previous year in spite of the fact that there fewer trappers. The total value of furs taken in Minnesota last year was one and one-third million dollars.

Of course, we do have more people hunting and fishing than we did in the past, but they are all having fun and never in its history did Minnesota give out with so much game and fish to so many sportsmen. And, if carefully managed, it will produce even more in the future. By taking a good harvest — but never too much; preserving and improving wildlife habitat; making and enforcing wise laws and regulations; and constantly searching for new and better management methods, we will produce more game and fish on each acre of land and water just as the farmer has learned to produce larger crops on each acre of soil.

At our house on Lake Minnetonka we have been fly fishin' and catchin' limits of nice sunfish about any evening for the past three weeks. So I invited out a fella' with a nine-year-old kid who likes to fish. This kid has learned to fish pretty good, but he also learned to talk like us old codgers. Well, after castin' a fly about three times, this little old kid says, "Pa, fishin' just ain't what it used to be, is it?"

221,675 Muskrats Trapped in 1958

Minnesota Fur Trappers Collected $1,305,145

Minnesota fur trappers received $1,305,145 last year, in spite of a declining market during the past few years, reports Donald Balser, state fur specialist.

Balser indicated the muskrat harvest (221,675) was up noticeably, while the take of mink (56,087) was up slightly over last year in spite of a steady decline in regular trapping license sales.

A noticeable increase in the price of certain furs occurred too late to affect Minnesota trappers. Certain long neglected pelts such as bobcat, badger and fox once again had a market price established with some buyers looking for fresh caught pelts. Average value of muskrat pelts was 60c, while mink brought $16.

The 1958 spring beaver and otter harvest was the highest on record with some 14,590 beaver and 549 otter reportedly taken. Beaver hides brought $9.20 on the average, while otter approached $20. The combined harvest brought in over $237,000.

While regular trapping license sales have been decreasing, beaver licenses showed a good increase over last year. Prices and employment seem to have a pronounced affect on license sales.

Increasing numbers of beaver damage complaints and destruction of beaver habitat through overpopulation still continues in certain areas. In spite of the substantial harvest; reports of die-offs have come in from limited areas around the state.

Paul Engelstad Speaks to Valley Potato Growers

Head of Valley Group Urges Growers to Adapt to Changing Conditions

The president of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association Tuesday urged the members to heed the "tremendous changes" taking place in the industry and to adjust to them so that they may not lose the outlets for their crops.

Paul Engelstad of Thief River Falls, in a report on the developments of the past year, said that the public today is consuming nearly 20 per cent of the yearly potato production in varied styles of processed potato foods.

There will be yet more changes, he said, and sooner or later the growers will be compelled to adjust themselves to varieties and quality demanded.

Engelstad and other officers addressed the annual meeting of the organization at the Grand Forks Armory-auditorium where several hundred members gathered for a business session and a number of informational discussions. A social hour and dinner, followed by an entertainment program for members and their wives concluded the meeting.

Engelstad, who said that farm "integration' will play an important part in how the growers survive the impact of the changing times, added that: "Unless we stay abreast with the changes . . . the valley growers will find themselves short-changed in not having a full outlet for their yearly potato output."

The Happy Fisherman

There was a fellow at the plant who was always asking me to go with him to church.

In a way this picture portrays his zeal. For there was something boyishly enthusiastic about his eagerness; something joyously genuine in his confidence.

And his fervor reminded one of the disciples of old who became "fishers of men."

Well, he brought my family to church. Not because he was a salesman or a saint. Simply because he encouraged us to seek the convictions he was so eager to share.

Betty and I, and little Ricky, really owe our cherished faith to the moment that fellow at the plant said, "I'LL STOP BY YOUR PLACE ON SUNDAY MORNING."

Now, we too, find happiness in bringing our friends and neighbors to church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

AMERICANA Places To See

Historic Mackinac Island

Standing high, proud and green in the Straits of Mackinac (in the very shadow of Michigan's $100 million Straits Bridge) the island is rich in Indian legend and early American lore. Mackinac Island played a vital role in the struggle between England and France for supremacy in the new world. Those who controlled the island controlled the rich fur trade of the great northwest.

High on the bluff overlooking the harbor stands Old Fort Mackinac, built in 1780 and preserved today exactly as it looked then. Massive limestone ramparts, cannon, a guard house, a block house and a "blockhole" dungeon are but some of its more interesting features. A museum in the fort tells the story graphically through relics of those days of the beginnings of this part of the country. And in the village of Mackinac Island, which stretches leisurely along the Straits coast, the old Astor Trading Post and the mission church stand as they were built.

The original homes of the Astors and the Biddles are landmarks of the island.

The Indians dubbed the island "the great turtle," (Michilimackinac) and thought it to be "the place of the dancing spirits" where lived Mishaboo, god of the waters and his attendant gods.

The Indians worshipped the island as a shrine because of its beauty, towering elevations and arresting rock formations. The Jesuits made it one of the first outposts of civilization in the northwest. Then it became the citadel of the Great Lakes. Here stand stockades, block houses, forts and missions of colonial America. And for the last century, Mackinac has been a famous summer resort. It is a little world of its own with the air of a 19th century print. And to this day automobiles are not allowed on the island. Giant old homes stand guard on the heights along with Fort Mackinac, while below lies the village itself, colorfully tranquil, and blessed with the charm of ageless appeal.

TAKE ME TO YOUR LEADOFF MAN . . . It's just another pre-game spectacle staged by baseball magnate Bill Veeck, majority stockholder of the Chicago White Sox.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MOTHER!

By Daniel Frame

WHITEY REGAN was a good man, a hard worker, and usually a law-abiding citizen; but he had one deplorable weakness. About every six months, he would go on a drunk, a regular tear.

One Sunday Whitey awoke to find several bars obscuring his view of the sky.

Monday morning in police court, Whitey's appearance and the weight of the testimony of a saloon keeper resulted in a thirty-day sentence.

Whitey had just finished his noon meal when the cell door opened and a flashily young man protestingly joined him. "They had no business picking me up," the newcomer told Whitey. "I was trying to hitch a ride out of this lousy burg when the cops grabbed me and threw me in here on a vag charge."

Whitey clucked sympathetically and his cell mate calmed down a bit. His name was John Roberts, he informed Whitey, and he claimed to be a photographer. "Had to hock all my stuff to get out of San Diego," Roberts went on. "A girl there just about had me hooked."

The judge who heard Roberts case the next morning was less impressed and handed the self-advertised Don Juan ten days. During their confinement, the two men got along well. Roberts continued his boasting and found an appreciative audience in Whitey. Of himself Whitey had little to say but during their time together, Roberts learned that the one person whom he loved was his mother.

The day he was released, Roberts put into action a plan he'd devised while listening to Whitey. He placed a phone call to Whitey's mother in Beloit, Wisconsin. "Mrs. Regan," Roberts began, "my name is John Roberts. I'm an attorney representing your son, Whitey. Whitey is in jail in Bledsoe, and there are some pretty serious charges against him."

"What did my boy do?" Whitey's mother asked in agonized tones.

Roberts answered, "He hurt a man in a fight—put him in the hospital and if charges are pressed, Whitey will go to prison; however, I've persuaded this man to drop charges for a consideration of five hundred dollars but we'll have to act fast. The hearing is set for the day after tomorrow."

"That's terrible!" Whitey's mother exclaimed. "I'll go to the bank and get the money and telegraph it to Whitey right away."

"That won't do, Mrs. Regan. Your son is in jail and has no way of receiving the money in time to help. You'd better let me handle this. Just telegraph the money to me, John P. Roberts, in care of Western Union here in Bledsoe."

"All right, Mr. Roberts. I'll send the money as soon as I can."

The next morning, Roberts entered the Western Union office with a confident step. He had no difficulty in cashing the telegraphic order and all that remained was to leave town in a hurry.

On the way to the bus station, Roberts looked up to see one of the policemen who had arrested him a few days before coming toward him. He checked an impulse to run. The cops had nothing on him! As he started to pass the uniformed man, a hand grasped Roberts' wrist and he felt the snap of a handcuff.

"What's the idea?" he snarled. "You guys got nothing on me."

"We've got plenty, Roberts! By the time you leave this state, you'll be an old man. Today is Whitey Regan's mother's birthday and the sergeant gave Whitey permission to call her. His mother told Whitey how you had swindled her out of five hundred dollars.

BE SURE of Top-Quality Feed

Put up good forage with an Allis-Chalmers forage harvester — the machine that cuts clean . . . at the right length. An even mix of high-quality chopped feed pays off in higher milk production when you chop for daily green feeding or when you barn-feed silage.

Here's the machine with sharp-shear action . . . and big capacity that will surprise you. High tonnage per hour comes from cut-and-throw chopping along twelve feet of cutting edge. And this machine gives you 3-in-1 advantages of handling grass, windrows and row crops.

The WORLD OUTDOORS

By MIKE BENNETT

MONTANA'S Senator James E. Murray, in a letter to Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, asked a question that sportsmen over the nation have been wondering about for some time.

Senator Murray stated: "I understand that a 10-year program for development of fish and wildlife resources has been prepared within your department, although it has not been formally presented. My committee (Interior and Insular Affairs) is very interested in this report. Please advise me when we can expect it will be presented to Congress."

What happened to the widely publicized 10-year plan for the Fish and Wildlife Service has been one of those Washington mysteries. Over a year ago, the plan was sent to State game department heads for comment and assembled in final form. Before getting to Congress, it first would have to be cleared by the Interior Department and the Bureau of the Budget. Somewhere along the way it was sidetracked.

The value of detailing program needs and objectives to guide Congress in determining what can and should be done to enable an agency to act in the best public interest was shown in the "Mission 66" program which the Interior Department outlined for the national parks. The Agriculture Department will probably follow that course for the national forests and advisers are recommending that the Interior Department do the same for its Bureau of Land Management and Fish and Wildlife Service.

Many sportsmen have long believed the Fish and Wildlife Service to be one of the government's most neglected agencies.

Oliver Byklum and his mother left Saturday for Dawson, Canada where they will visit relatives.

House Leader Sees Early End of Legislature

Group to Offer New Proposal to Senate Conferees Tonight

Rep. Fred A. Cina, Aurora, spokesman for the five Minnesota house tax conferees, predicted Saturday that the longest special session in the history of the Minnesota legislature will conclude by next weekend.

The Liberal majority leader announced at the close of the 45th tax conference session Saturday morning that the house team will offer a proposal, or proposals, which he is confident will be acceptable to the senate, at the next conference meeting Monday night.

"We feel the impasse can be resolved Monday," said Cina. "We're determined to resolve it within two or three days."

He added that house conferees are confident that "we'll have adjourned by the end of the week."

The full house and senate which quit for the weekend Friday noon will convene at 5 p.m. Monday. The all-important tax conference committee—five Conservative Senators and five Liberal house members—will meet at 8 p.m., at which time the Liberals will make the offer about which house conferees were so enthusiastic Saturday.

Its contents were a closely-guarded secret.

But it seemed likely that if the Liberals were truly confident of having in their pockets an offer that the senators will grab at, they must have decided to give up their — and Gov. Freeman's—demands for withholding of state income taxes.

Conservatives have made it clear, time after time, that they will sit all summer before they accept withholding. And Liberals vowed last week to hang on for it till Christmas, if necessary.

It is that single policy issue, therefore, that has prolonged the special session.

If the session continues until Thursday—and that seems likely —it will have reached its 45th day. That would be one day longer than the record 44-day special session of 1937.

Sen. John Zwach of Walnut Grove, Conservative, majority leader in the senate obviously was pleased at the turn of events Saturday, but he said he had no idea what the Liberals will propose.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Johnson Head Dist. 9 Legion and Auxiliary

HAROLD M. JOHNSON

MRS. HAROLD JOHNSON

At the Ninth district American Legion and auxiliary convention at Mahnomen last weekend, Harold M. Johnson of Thief River Falls was promoted from vice commander-at-large to district comander, and at the same time Mrs. Johnson was named president of the Ninth district auxiliary group.

Johnson, superintendent of the municipal water treatment plant, was elected unanimously following the withdrawal early in the balloting of his opponent, Howard Lohman of Moorhead, who was then elected vice commander-at-large.

Other Legion officers named include William Kleven of Alvarado, Vernon Strandemo of Mahnomen and Douglas Anderson of Dilworth, area vice commanders; and Rev. Clemen Cloutier of Oslo, district chaplain.

Johnson immediately appointed Robert Bredeson of Thief River Falls to the post of district adjutant, and Stan Pladson, also of this city, as finance officer.

Elected auxiliary officers along with Mrs. Johnson were Mrs. Carlton Mortenson of Fergus Falls and Mrs. Andrew Sorum of Crookston as respectively first and second vice president; and Mrs. R. I. Olson of Angus and Mrs. R. P. Marshall of Dilworth, executive board. Mrs. Johnson appointed Mrs. M. R. Applications for Airport Manager Being Considered

Airport Commission Asks Men Interested to Apply Not Later Than Wednesday

Members of the city airport commission will meet at 5 p.m. today to discuss the appointment of an airport manager to succeed Elwood Ehrenstrom, whose retirement becomes effective July 6. The meeting will be held at the Rex cafe.

Matters pertaining to the hiring of a full-time manager will be aired, in addition to other affairs related to the airport. Those applications received by Monday will probably be reviewed, and their qualifications discussed before a date is selected for interviewing applicants for the position.

Members of the airport commission have made known their views in past meetings that, because the airport is a business, it should be operated in the efficient manner of any business in an attempt to make it as nearly self-sufficient as possible. A good airport manager, they contend, can do much to narrow the gap between expenditures and income, and some cities have even put their airports on a paying basis.

The commission will also discuss the expected increase in air traffic due to the TVOR station and A & E school's establishment here. Construction of the TVOR station will begin sometime this summer, while the shop building is already under construction. Bids have been called on the TVOR station by the state bureau of administration, and will be opened in St. Paul July 2.

The two new facilities at the airport here are expected to bring a considerable increase in income and in order to meet the increasing demand for it, 100 octane aviation gasoline will shortly be made available to transient aircraft requiring it.

The commission urged that anyone interested in the position of airport manager have their applications in today or no later than Wednesday.

Wheat Disposal Deadline June 30, Culkins Reports

Time Now to Dispose of Wheat in Excess of Acreage Allotments

Farmers of Pennington county have only until June 30 to dispose of wheat planted in excess of their acreage allotments, Patrick W. Culkins of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office said today.

Culkins cited several advantages for the wheat grower who disposes of excess acres and brings his acreage for harvest down to the allotment. These include eligibility for wheat price support and Soil Bank payments, freedom from a marketing quota penalty on wheat and credit for acreage diverted from wheat this year in computing his allotment in future years.

Farmers who have any questions about excess wheat disposal are urged to get in touch with the county ASC office for further information.

Probate Court Jurisdiction to Be Enlarged

To Handle Certain Added Civil Actions after Jan. 1, 1960

An improvement in the handling of juvenile traffic cases will be seen under a new law adopted by the state legislature which will go into effect January 1, 1960.

Juveniles, now convicted as delinquents in cases of traffic cases, will be adjudicated "juvenile traffic offenders" under the law which provides specific penalties upon conviction.

The jurisdiction of probate and juvenile courts will be expanded under the law. Many counties which now do not have municipal courts but which try cases in justice courts will now try cases in the probate courts. This will mean a decrease in the number of cases tried by justices of the peace and an increase in trials in the salaried court.

Probate courts in counties under 30,000 population, including Pennington county, will have jurisdiction over civil actions in which less than $1,000 is at stake and over misdemeanors including all juvenile cases in addition to present duties probating estates, guardianships, juvenile court and authority to perform marriages.

Although adoption proceedings in some counties will be shifted from district court to probate courts July 1, this will not apply in Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Clearwater, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Hubbard and Becker counties, according to Herman A. Kjos, probate judge.

The new law marks the first time since the early 1920's that a complete new juvenile code has been adopted in Minnesota.

Farmers Union Urges 'YES' Vote on Wheat

At least $234,000 will be at stake for farmers and businessmen of Pennington county and when farmers go to the polls July 23, for the seventh consecutive year, to vote in the national wheat referendum. This is part of more than $250,000,000 in wheat money at stake in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana.

According to information recently compiled by the Minnesota Farmers Union, the amount of money involved in the wheat referendum is a least 78 cents a bushel on the 1960 crop. Multiplied by the average production of 300,000 bushels for this county, it amounts to more than $234,000. This is the amount of income farmers could lose if they turn down support prices on wheat.

This difference is between $1.78, average farm support price, and $1.00 a bushel, the estimated price wheat would sell for without any support price.

Under the existing law, a "yes" vote means the government will support wheat at $1.78 a bushel next year—75 per cent of parity. The national acreage allotment will be 55 million bushels, the same as this year. Any stop-gap legislation that might be passed would have but little effect on the net income.

If more than one-third of the there will be no price support in wheat farmers vote "no"—thus rejecting marketing quotas — 1960, and marketing experts predict that wheat will sell for around one dollar a bushel, says the Farmers Union.

This is the seventh consecutive wheat referendum. Farmers in the spring wheat country have approved quotas overwhelmingly in all—last year by better than a 95 per cent "yes" vote. The national vote was 84.1 per cent for quotas.

Minnesota People Carry $8.3 Billion in Life Insurance

Protection Increased from $3.6 Billion in Policies Ten Years Ago

Minnesota families owned 3,577,000 life insurance policies providing $8,307,000,000 of protection at the start of this year, a new high record, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

This compares with $1,682,000,000 owned in this state the year before and $3,695,000,000 at the start of 1949. The ten-year rise in this state was 125 percent.

"The past few years have seen the greatest addition to the bulwark of U.S. family financial protection through life insurance in all our history," Holgar J. Johnson, Institute president commented. "In just five years we have seen nearly $200,000,000,000 of life insurance added, an amount equal to the total in force in the U.S. at any time up to 1948. What is more, today's life insurance is more than ever before set up under planned family programs, with a large portion of it arranged for income payment."

Of the total life insurance owned January 1 in Minnesota $5,368,000,000 was in 1,692,000 ondary life policies. Identical Twin Calves Wanted for 'U' Research

Minnesota 'U' Now Using Forty Sets of Twins and Triplets in Experiments

How identical twin cows can aid dairy cattle research was stressed Tuesday by a University of Minnesota scientist.

Jesse B. Williams said recent studies show that a single pair of identical twins, during their first lactation (milking) period, can be worth up to 32 unrelated cows for feeding and management comparisons.

He spoke at the annual meeting of the American Dairy Science association in Urbana, Ill.

Williams said twins are more efficient because they are genetically so much alike in the way the react to different kinds of treatment.

Scientists can perform an experiment on one cow and use its twin as a "check." For example, one might get an experimental type of feed while the other receives a standard menu. By checking differences in growth, health or milk production, the researcher can tell which feed is better.

Identical twins have contributed to important research findings. Minnesota researchers found in one experiment with twins that cows will give about the same amount of milk regardless of the milking schedule.

The University of Minnesota now has 40 sets of identical twin and triplet calves, heifers, cows and bulls—the largest such collection in the U.S. And they can use more; Minnesota farmers with identical twin calves and wishing to market them are urged to contact their county agents or the University dairy department.

Pennington 4-H Aids U. S. Center

Helps Furnish Room in Building in Washington

Pennington 4-H Leaders Council is participating in furnishing of a national 4-H center in Washington, D.C. The county has sent financial aid, based on the number of 4-H'ers enrolled, to assist in the project.

Thanks to Minnesota 4-H'ers, a room in the new center will be known as the "Minnesota Room."

Club members in counties throughout Minnesota raised $2,000 in a special "Share and Care" project. The check was presented by Minnesota delegates to the National 4-H club conference in Washington June 16th.

The money will be used to buy furnishings for the national center's recreation room, designated by a plaque as the Minnesota room.

Minnesota club members are among thousands of 4-H'ers thruout the nation who have contributed to the building and furnishing fund for the National 4-H center on a 12½-acre campus in a suburb of Washington which will be used for leadership and citizenship training, the national 4-H conference and other educational programs.

Privacy

Recently some parents were discussing with a psychologist a difficulty they are having with their two boys. "They just seem to be at each other all the time," the mother commented. Oh, it's never anything very serious, but most of the time it's just teasing and arguing over petty things." The boys were ages 9 and 12, and shared a room in their two bedroom house. The father added, "Johnny, the younger one is always complaining that .... never lets him touch any of his things. Jim says that Johnny is nosy—always prying into his business. We wonder if they'll ever get along."

If this has a familiar ring to it, it is only because it is a rather common family situation. The two boys had no serious emotional difficulties, nor were their personalities 'incompatible.' This was a perfectly normal phase of learning to live together. The difference in age and in interests may have accounted in part for what appeared to be constant bickering. Some of it, I think, could be due to living in close proximity with each other without any privacy.

Jim is beginning to feel a real need to be independent and have some "privacy." Sharing a room with his younger brother makes this a bit more difficult. Everytime he finds John using his things, he feels his privacy is being invaded and that makes him mad.

A certain amount of disagreement between brothers and sisters is "normal" and should not be taken too seriously. It would be ideal to let all growing children have a room to themselves. But this is not always possible. What is possible is to encourage children to respect the rights and properties of others. This is better done by example than by preaching. When parents try to treat each child as an example it helps children to learn to respect each other's rights, too. Adults and children all need some privacy, at least for part of the day. This not only helps to maintain peace in the family, but also helps cultivate proper self-reliance and independence in children.

Every Child is an Individual

No two children are alike in every respect, although they may be from the same family. Yet very often, parents and teachers find it hard to accept the fact that each child is an individual in his own right. Such remarks are quite common, "Johnny isn't any older than you, if he can do it, why can't you?"

Children may pass through the same developmental stages, but not necessarily at the same time. One child in the family may mature at an earlier age than his brother. Another child may be mentally advanced but physically and emotionally immature. Differences not only appear in physical appearance, but also in the way children react in the same situation; in the power of attention and concentration; in memory span; in emotional control; in interests and attitudes. Each child has his own distinct pattern of growth and if we are to help him make the best of his ability, we must recognize his individuality. It is unfair to appraise children solely on the basis of age, size or appearance.

Parents often do not realize the harm they may unwittingly do, by calling attention to child's superiority over another. This may arouse feelings of jealousy in the child who is made to feel inferior. While Tom may be good in athletics, his brother Dick may be good in art. If a comparison has to be made, it is better to compare the child's present behavior with his past. Saying to a youngster, "Johnny never did that why must you," usually accomplishes nothing but increased resentment.

Then, too, we need to remember that a child is a unique individual who has strong likes and dislikes of his own. Forcing our own decisions on the youngster in everything does not help to build good parent-child relationships. If children's individuality is respected and they have a say in the decisions of the family, they will welcome parental guidance.

A youngster whose individuality has always been respected is likely to respect and tolerate the opinions and rights of others in return. We need many such adults if our society is to become increasingly effective.

OUR LAND

Plant corn on slopes? Certainly—if you terrace or contour-plow the land first. So says Lawrence Parson, Morris. He had 40 acres so hilly that, in the past, all he could raise there was alfalfa. But Lawrence Parson is a beef farmer. He needed more corn. So he put in the terraces and raised corn on the slopes with no erosion problems at all. According to Lief Lie, Stevens county agent, Parson gets higher yields, the land holds more moisture and it's easier to work.

A "Show window" forest in Fillmore county gives local farmers a variety of ideas for windbreak and other reforestation plantings. The five-acre plot near Preston, in the Village Park, has red pine, white pine, white spruce and other trees. Supervisors of the West Fillmore soil conservation district started it, in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service and extension workers. Local citizens planted the first 1,200 trees in 1958, and will plant another 1,000 each year until the project is completed.

Producing top quality hay—there's a problem vexing many a dairy farmer. The Poppe brothers near Good Thunder dealt with it by putting a hay dryer in the barn. The system has an electric fan at one end and an A-frame duct down the center of the mow. Now the brothers can put their hay in when it's "tough" and before many leaves have been lost. Result? Higher quality forage. The Holstein cows on this farm appreciate it, too. Last year they averaged 450 pounds fat and 11,600 pounds of milk per head.

Trees are a good crop for the man who lives in the country but works in town. Take Earl Meidlinger near Finlayson, for example. According to Axel Hansen, Pine county extension forestry agent, Meidlinger planted 10,000 new trees this year. Why? Bank cashier Meidlinger says the evergreens are a crop of the future. He figures Christmas trees which he cuts for the next six or seven years will pay for the initial investment.

C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, ST. PAUL 1, MINN.

Summer Pruning

Pruning is not limited to early spring but is a continuous job for the gardener throughout the summer.

In June you can prune the early spring-flowering shrubs. They include the flowering crabapple, the lilac, the early spring spireas, the Persian lilacs and the flowering almond. Take into consideration the general form of the shrubs as you prune.

After the summer spireas have flowered, you can cut them back and they will bloom again before fall.

Prune roses after they have finished their bloom. As soon as the flower has faded, cut back the flower stem to the first five leaflets to provide the good strong bud which will produce a new flower shoot.

Remove flowers on all annuals and perennials as soon as the blossoms begin to fade and wither. By so doing you will keep almost all flowering plants in blossom longer.

It takes a BIG Crate of Eggs...

It does take a big crate of eggs and a lot of other poultry products to meet the needs of the 33,000 northern Minnesota families who depend upon iron mining and related industries for their livelihood.

These neighbors of yours in the Iron Country use more than 3,500,000 dozen eggs and consume more than 1,600,000 lbs. of chicken and turkey each year. For these products they spend nearly $2,500,000 a year.

The Iron Mining Industry, in producing iron ore, provides jobs for thousands of people in northern Minnesota—jobs which, in turn, provide markets for Minnesota farm products—markets right within Minnesota's own borders.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

How Long Does A Girl Wait for Dates?

By C. D. Smith

...BUT, HOW LONG MUST I WAIT TO DATE?
NOW, WAIT A WHILE LONGER, DEAR!

A teenage girl writes: "All during high school, my parents refused to let me date . . . other than on rare occasions. 'Wait until you're out of high school,' they kept telling me. Well, I am now out of high school, but they now say 'Wait a while longer'! How long am I supposed to wait until I feel free to say 'yes' when a boy asks me for a date?"

Although it is difficult to understand, some parents feel that the longer they can keep their children from having "dates" and associating with the other sex, that's the thing to do.

It isn't, of course. What happens, sometimes, is that they keep saying "wait" until they get to the point where they say "You're old enough, but you don't know anything about getting along with the opposite sex." And, if the child always followed the advice to "wait," this is quite true. We don't learn how to get along with people unless we associate with people. Parents are wrong to raise their children to a certain age, then say, "You're old enough now. Do anything you want to do." It just doesn't work that way. Life is a living experience and wisdom, character and prudence do not come with a certain age. They come through experience.

The best way to solve this particular problem, if it can be done in this fashion, is by calling a "family conference" and putting the cards on the table. It's much better to face up to the situation and try to work out a satisfactory agreement than to concede to the parents—having no dates at all, or "slipping" behind their back to have dates without their knowledge. Often situations of this kind resolve themselves when they are met squarely and with determination. After all, few parents are completely unreasonable!

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I let my Korea GI term insurance lapse after coming out of service in 1958, but the five-year term still hasn't expired. I am in good health. Can I reinstate the policy?

A—Yes. In submitting your applications for reinstatement, you must pay two monthly premiums, one for the month of lapse and one for the premium month in which you send your application. At the same time, send VA satisfactory proof of your good health.

Q—I get a pension from VA for nonservice-connected disability. Until lately I have also held a job a few hours a day, for which I received small payments. I don't have the job now but am drawing unemployment compensation. Must I report my jobless pay benefits as income for VA pension purposes?

A—Yes. Unemployment compensation —state, federal, or local —is countable for VA pension purposes and must be reported.

Q—Will you please give the dates by which World War II veterans and also Korea veterans must apply for a GI home loan?

A—World War II veterans have until July 25, 1960, to apply for a GI loan; Korea veterans until January 31, 1965.

Q—I am taking night school training under the Korea GI Bill. What is the latest date I can wind up my training? I came out of service in 1953.

A—Veterans discharged in 1953 face a termination date for GI training in 1961. Under the law, a veteran's GI termination date is eight years from the date of his discharge. In no event can he take training after January 31, 1965.

Q—The firm I work for is transferring me to another city and therefore I must sell my GI home. Will it be possible for me to get my GI loan entitlement back, so I may apply for another loan?

A—Yes. It is possible to have GI loan entitlement restored, in cases where the sale is for compelling reasons. VA, however, must be released of all liability on the present loan.

Q—I have a dental condition resulting from combat wounds, but for which I am not entitled to receive compensation. Is there any deadline in my case for applying for outpatient dental treatment?

A—No. Veterans whose concompensable dental conditions resulted from combat wounds may apply at any time and receive as many treatments as are needed.

Q—I am studying for my doctorate degree under the Korean GI Bill. How many hours of classroom work does VA consider to be full-time?

A—For graduate studies, there is no set number of hours. VA accepts the word of your school whether you are on a full-time or part-time basis.

Q—I was recently examined by a doctor in connection with reinstating my GI insurance, but neglected to send the examination report to VA. Will the report be acceptable to VA if it is sent in late?

A—The report should have been sent immediately after the examination. If the delay has been more than five days, you must submit a statement that you are in as good health as when examined. If the delay has been more than 31 days, VA cannot accept your late report. You must take another examination.

SHE'S GETTING IDEAS
about shopping without ever leaving home

This lady's shopping expedition is well under way . . . and she's pretty enthusiastic about it, too, as you can see. Yet, so far, she hasn't put a foot out of the house! What goes on here? Same thing that goes on in so many homes when it's time to buy something. First step is to see who's got what for sale . . . and for how much. The place to get the most useful buying information fastest is in the advertising columns of this newspaper. That's where most shopping expeditions hereabouts begin!

SCANNING THE NEWS

THE American people added $1.33 to their "nest egg" in life insurance and other accumulated long-term savings in 1958 for every dollar in their net increase in debt to buy homes, cars and other goods and services during the year.

This was the best showing in the post-World War II period excluding the reconversion year of 1946 as still under wartime influences. And the 1958 increase of nearly $18 billions in accumulated long-term savings of individuals, as compiled by the Home Loan Bank Board, was exceeded in the past in only three years during World War II, when savings reached abnormally high levels under the combined stimulus of patriotism and consumer goods shortages.

The 1957-58 recession may have tended to spur people to put a little something extra aside for their future protection and security. At the same time, personal debt did show a sizeable increase last year, amounting to over $13 billions, to bring the total to just under $190 billions.

But, all the facts considered, the 1958 record on the savings-borrowing front provides a fresh demonstration of how deeply ingrained is the people's thrift habit and of the prudence with which the average person makes his spending and savings decisions. This is of particular significance in view of the inflationary atmosphere which has prevailed in recent years.

A bigger "nest egg," of course, is a confidence-breeder of the first magnitude, giving people a greater feeling of independence and security. Savings likewise help to fight inflation and to preserve the dollar's buying power, of vital importance in view of the continued strength of the underlying inflationary pressures and the concern this has aroused over the future.

Savings, in addition, are also the dynamic factor in economic growth and national progress, providing the major part of the capital and investment funds which the nation needs to go ahead and to help meet the military-economic challenge of the Communist world.

Hinckley's scars from the great fire of 1894 are now healing rapidly. After half a century, reforestation is a booming business in the county—as it is in many areas of Minnesota. Axel Hanson, Jr., county forestry agent, says 112 land owners planted some 750,000 trees in Pine county this spring. They've planted more than two million trees since 1953, and regard the conifers as an important crop of the future.

Soil surveys are mighty useful to farmers in northeastern Minnesota. The typical farm in that region averages about 157 acres, with 53 under cultivation. With the high cost of developing cropland, it's important to select only acres suited for crop production and which will give a good return. The soil survey map and its accompanying land capability map is useful in making this selection.

Looking for some good emergency crops to plant yet this year? University of Minnesota agronomists say corn for silage can be planted as late as July 1. Soybeans can be seeded up to July 1-5 for hay or silage. Same is true for forage sorghum, except you can plant it as late as the first of August. Sudangrass is good as hay, pasture or silage, and sorghum is for hay or silage only. Millet will make fine silage or hay in central or north central counties. Other possibilities: rape for hogs, buckwheat as a green manure crop, winter rye for fall or spring pasture.

Chemical fertilizers harm earthworms? Don't believe it for a minute! In a 100-year experiment in England, plots fertilized annually actually had more earthworms. Where no fertilizer was used, scientists could hardly find a single worm. So as Curtis Overdahl, University of Minnesota extension soils specialist points out, earthworms are an indication of good soil fertility, but don't cause it.

Thieves Score 18 to 2 Victory over Winger

In a high-scoring and thoroughly chilled Northern Minny league game played on the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday night, the Thieves racked up a lop-sided 18 to 2 win over the Winger Tigers. The victory moved manager John Drury's club into a three-way tie, with Bagley and Cass Lake, for the league lead. The three teams all boast a four wins and two losses marks.

Bagley defeated Erskine, 8 to 0, in a game played at Erskine; and Cass Lake scored a 15 to 4 win over Eldred at Eldred.

The Thieves will meet the Fosston club on the Fair Grounds diamond next Sunday night.

Last night's game, which found the Thieves clubbing the offerings of three Winger pitchers for eighteen hits, with Larry Gilbertson and Jack Junker each collecting four safeties, was a long and tiring struggle, with the final out being chalked up at 11:15 P.M.

The Thieves, off southpaw Glen Nansen, the Winger starter, picked up a pair of runs in the 1st inning, with Charley Kankel and Gilbertson leading off with singles, and coming around to tally on a wild pitch and a passed ball.

In the 2nd, an error, a single by Kankel and a double by Gilbertson, plated two more runs, and finished Nansen's stint on the mound.

Jim Messelt, who came in from third base to do the relief duties, fared well in the 3rd and 4th innings, but in the 5th frame, three Thieves' hits, four walks, and an error sent six runs across the plate.

The Thieves added two runs in the 6th, another pair in the 7th, and closed out their scoring with three runs in the 8th.

The Tigers clawed into the scoring column in the 8th inning with two runs. Ed Worden walked; Bob Evenmo lofted a foul pop to Junker, who made a fine running catch on the play; Howard Nornes strolled; and then Skip Murray banged a double to the fence in right center.

With the state high school tournament in progress this week, the week's schedule for the local juniors has been postponed. They will return to action on Monday, June 29, when they play the Warren juniors in an 8:00 P.M. game at Warren; and on Tuesday, June 30, coach Jack Junker's Newfolden juniors will meet coach Skay's squad on the Fair Grounds diamond at 6:30 P.M.

Prowler Ball Club Goes into State Tourney Tuesday

Region 8 Champions to Face New Ulm Team in First Round at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Ralph Skay and his contingent of baseball Prowlers, champions of Region Eight, left town on Sunday morning enroute to Minneapolis and the Metropolitan stadium where, on Tuesday evening, they will begin play in the state high school baseball tournament.

The opening round of tournament play on Tuesday will find, in a 1:30 P.M. game, St. Paul Washington of Region Four meeting Greenway of Coleraine of Region Seven; at 3:00 P.M., the ever-powerful Austin team of Region One will meet Mankato of Region Two. In Tuesday evening's program, Thief River Falls will meet New Ulm of Region Three at 7:30 P.M.; and at 9:00 P.M., Minneapolis Washburn of Region Five will play the undefeated Little Falls team of Region Six.

The semi-finals will be played on Wednesday evening, with the finals being slated for Thursday night.

A consolation round, with the first round losers competing, will get under way on Wednesday afternoon.

NEW MUNICIPAL JUDGE IS NAMED AT CROOKSTON

Gov. Freeman last Wednesday appointed John R. Kelly municipal judge for Crookston. Kelly succeeds Robert A. Peterson who resigned, recently after he was appointed city attorney.

Another Bid

For the second time in Lincoln high school's athletic history, a Prowler baseball team will be competing in the state high school baseball tournament. The Prowlers meet New Ulm in a first round game on Tuesday evening at 7:30 P.M. in Minneapolis' Metropolitan stadium.

In 1955, a Prowler baseball squad, co-captained by Loren (Sid) Vraa and Joey Poole, and coached by Ralph Skay, participated in the state tourney and compiled a fine record, winning the consolation title.

In a first round game, the locals dropped a 9 to 4 decision to Little Falls, a perennial championship contender. Moving into the consolation bracket, the Prowlers defeated Mankato, 3 to 2, and then won the consolation title by trouncing the International Falls Broncos, 11 to 3. First baseman Glenn Carlson was named to the All-State tournament squad.

And now it is 1959, and coach Skay is bringing another, and younger squad into a state tournament. And it is agreed, too, that this 1959 squad will face a more difficult task then the veteran and experienced squad of 1955.

Coach Skay has given the starting assignment, the pitching duties, that is, to senior Harley Drees, who, with Jerry Jorgenson, co-captains the 1959 team. Drees, who has given the Prowlers many well-pitched games in the four years that he has been a squad member, will be "primed" for his best effort. The seniors on the Prowlers team have not been in action for the past ten days, but Drees did get some pitching duty when he hurled six innings for the Thieves against Cass Lake last Sunday, and was the winner as the Thieves scored a 12 to 6 win. Most of the Prowlers, though, are members of coach Skay's American Legion juniors, and these boys have played several games.

Batting Is Question

Entering state tourney competition, there is a question whether or not the Prowlers possesses enough batting punch to be a title threat. The locals have adequate and capable pitching strength in Drees and junior Arlan Hjelle, both righthanders. And in catcher Jim Wegge, a junior; first baseman Gary Anderson, a sophomore; second baseman Jerry Jorgenson, a senior; shortstop Eddie Lietzow, a sophomore; Drees or Hjelle at third; left fielder Paul Saurdiff, a junior; center fielder Gary Klungness, a freshman; and right fielder Gene Weckwerth, a senior; the Prowlers have a well-balanced defensive squad. But they lack consistent run-producing batting power.

Incidentally, for those fans who will not be making the long trek to Minneapolis, the Prowlers' tournament game will be broadcast by KTRF, with Douglas Duane Tegtmeier doing the pitch-by-pitch commentary. Fans do not miss much, only the hot dogs and pop, when they are tuned in to Doug's play-by-play.

The Big Fight

Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson will battle for the world's heavyweight boxing championship on Thursday night, June 25.

Elmer Poole, who exhibits nimble foot-work and expert open-field running in making wagers of any kind, has placed a modest wager to the effect that champion Floyd Patterson will not answer the bell for the eighth round. At first glance, this wager appears to be a reckless venture on Elmer's part, no odds or anything, but such is not the case. If the fight ends before the eighth, by a knockout of Patterson or Johansson, Elmer will be the winner. He could just as well have wagered that the referee would not answer the bell in the eighth!

We're neutral as far as the fight is concerned, but we will claim if Johansson wins that he, Johansson, is a true Viking and a sturdy Scandinavian. But if he loses, well, then he'll be just another Swede.

Speedway Attraction

The world-famed Lucky Hell Drivers, equipped with $100,000 worth of new Fords, will offer local speed fans numerous thrills and spills in a program of race-track entertainment at the Thief River Falls Speedway, three miles west of town, at 8:30 P.M. on July 4.

Sportsmen's Club to Discuss Club House on Tuesday

Invites Representatives of Other Outdoor Groups to Auditorium Meeting

A special meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the downstairs assembly room of the city Auditorium, Gay Warnecke, club secretary, announced today.

The meeting is being held in place of the regular meeting last Tuesday, which had to be postponed due to lack of attendance caused by other events being held the same evening.

Warnecke said 2 films will be screened and the club land committee will also make a report on their activities to date.

Other matters to be discussed include the possibility of having a booth at the fair in July.

Officers of other clubs such as archery, boat, rifle and other sports clubs are invited to Tuesday's meeting to discuss the possibility of purchasing land for a clubhouse to be used jointly by the various clubs, Warnecke stated. A good attendance of members is urged.

Refreshments will be served following adjournment.

Estimated Fire Losses Decline in U. S. During May

Estimated fire losses in the U. S. during May amounted to $81,597,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported.

According to Lewis A. Vincent, NBFU's general manager, this $81,597,000 loss represents a decrease of 4.7 per cent from losses of $85,633,000 reported for May, 1958, and a decrease of 10 per cent from losses of $90,689,000 for April, 1959.

Losses for the first five months of 1959 now total $182,999,000, a decrease of 1.7 per cent from the first five months of 1958, when they amounted to $191,187,000.

Aut Swenson Brings Thrillcade to County Fair 1st Day July 27

Want to see a 1959 model truck leapfrogged over an elephant, or a motorcycle hurtle through space over three parked automobiles?

Got a hankering to see some old model automobiles wrecked in deliberate end-over-end crashes?

Do pretty girls with acrobatic aerial ballet and daredevil talents appeal to you?

All these, and much more, will be featured by the Aut Swenson Thrillcade, jumbo of all thrill shows, when it appears Monday, July 27, as the opening day attracion at the Pennington county fair.

Jimmie James, Chicago, Ill., who's crowding 50 and is regarded as the dean of American stuntmen, will attempt to execute the "leapfrog" feat in an F-100 Ford truck. He'll do a take off from one elevated jump, hurtle his vehicle approximately 80 feet through space over the back of an elephant known as Dancing Dyna, and fervently hope that he lands right side up on a receiving ramp. Most of the time he makes it, but James bars scars and nurses fractures which are evidences of the times he has miscalculated.

Kenny Blaine, Toronto, Canada, tries a similar stunt, except that he makes the long broad jump on a motorcycle, trying to clear three parked vehicles.

Other Thrillcade daredevils such as Al Post, Des Moines, Ia., Johnny Mosher, Los Angeles, Calif., Tex Densmore, Dallas, Tex., and Suicide Kelly, Pittsburgh, Pa., compete in what's called a deliberate crash roll tournament. They hurtle off elevated ramps at the wheels of old model machines, and score points every time they turn them end over end. This stunt has two benefits—the point leading daredevil at season's end will win $5000, Produced Swenson has promised, and the wrecked vehicles are permanently removed as highway hazards.

The fair sex is represented by the Thrillcadettes and the Honey Girls of Brisbane, Australia, new to Swenson's troupe this season. Not only are they attractive, but the Honey Girls are acrobats and aerial artists, and they compete in Roman Steeplechase racing. This involves the problem of standing upright on a speeding automobile as it bounces from ramp to ramp.

Thrillcades's helldriver Kelley also will make the Ride of Death, snuggling in the cockpit of a motorless juggernaut as it swishes down a sky-track and spins through the air toward a receiving ramp. This is an old circus stunt that was abandoned 25 years ago because of the fatalities involved. It even had a tragic end for Dario LaCosta, a Thrillcade stuntman, five years ago in Portland, Oregon.

Swenson's thrill-package also includes motorcycle stunting, the popular precision driving, flaming well crashes, wire walking and other stunts. Comedy relief is also on the agenda, between the torture tests of men and machines, with a unit known as the Battalion of Buffons performing with eccentric automobiles and other props.

AT FAIR HERE Hurtling almost 80 feet through space in a ramp-to-ramp leap over an elephant's back is an everyday feat for Jimmie James of Chicago, Ill., dean of the nation's daredevils who'll appear hereon July 27th at the Pennington county fair with the Aut Swenson Thrillcade. Although he's crowding 50 James is regarded as America's greatest stunt performer and his skill in the precision driving and 'high sides" exhibition belies the opinion that the years take a heavy toll of a helldriver's reflexes.

Grand Opera Due at 'U' M. in 1960

Metropolitan to Return at Higher Price Scale

The Metropolitan Opera will return for a series of four performances in Northrop Memorial Auditorium at the University of Minnesota on May 20, 21, and 22, 1960. The decision to bring the Metropolitan back next season was reached at a meeting of the Upper Midwest Committee for the Metropolitan Opera, Monday morning in Coffman Memorial Union at the University.

The committee approved terms for the Metropolitan's return at a "substantial increase in cost" and the same meeting approved a new ticket price scale to go into effect for the 1960 Spring Season. Under the new scale, tickets for each of the performances by the Metropolitan will be priced at $12.00 to $4.00. During the past two seasons the prices are generally in line with those in other tour cities and actually less than in several.

In announcing the return of the company, the committee also listed the probable operas to be seen on the four performance season in Northrop Auditorium. They are Verdi's "Simone Boccanegra" and "Il Trovatore", Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and Johann Strauss' operetta "The Gypsy Baron."

Tells Consumers How to Resist Inflation

"Be careful, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer — don't chase prices further upstairs," urges the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Amid the current avalanche of ominous warnings, soothing optimism and general confusion about inflation, American consumers need most of all to realize their own strength and how to use it in their own defense, says the bureau's bulletin, which continues:

"Whether our present sound recovery turns into another unhealthy inflation spiral, as many economists fear, or whether the value of your dollar leaks away gradually by 'only' two per cent a year or so, as some 'optimists' have recently predicted, or whether the depreciation of the dollar shall actually be halted depends largely on you, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer.

"You can stop the deterioration of your dollars from any cause except full-scale war, by proper use of your political power and your cash-register power. You are irresistible when enough of you move in the same direction.

"Remember that a short time ago a lot of you raised your voices in support of economy in Government. Inflation by federal deficits has now been checked, at least for the moment. But keep the pressure on — and put some on your state and local governments, too.

"The non-governmental forces of inflation are 'revving up' as recovery mounts. You can put effective brakes on these forces through your terrific cash-register power.

"Watch prices closely. Remember that they have 'everything' in them — materials, wages, fringe benefits, taxes, financing costs, spoilage, credit losses, shoplifting losses, freight costs, selling costs, etc., plus business profits. Every one of these items has to be covered by the prices you pay, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer.

"Always remember that if you refuse to support higher prices, you refuse to support increases in the items that make up those prices. And nobody else can support them but you, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer.

"Therefore, unless you know you will have to have some certain item within the near future, don't rush out and buy ahead of your needs in order to 'beat' a rumored price rise. That is the usual error which merely accelerates and increases the rise.

"Instead, actually reduce your buying whenever and wherever prices start to climb. Shop. Substitute carefully. Make do. Never let easy credit terms divert you from the total price of any item. The American standard of living is so high that there is much leeway for economizing whenever there is genuine occasion for it.

"All of this simply means doing some economizing early, to check soaring prices at their take-off, instead of helping them soar for awhile and then being forced into later and more severe economies, which by their very severity produce another recession.

"It means some self-denial at times—but you are in a cold war with inflation, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer. If you want to defend yourselves successfully, you will have to be just as 'tough' as are the inflation forces which threatent your future and that of your children.

"You can stop inflation, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer, if enough of you will use your enormous power for that purpose. You don't realize your own strength."

"The world is blessed most by men who do things, and not by those who merely talk about them." —James Oliver

Welcome Summer

Summer moved in on us a little before minutes of daytime today between sunrise and sunset than we will enjoy again for another year. But let's admit that we have had very summery Spring and up to now we have had little cause to complain about the weather.

The summer months ahead of us are the anxious months, the months that will have much to do with the size of our bank balance next year at this time. Directly or indirectly, we depend upon the production of our farms for our livelihood, and our living standards, collectively, are determined to a large extent by the weather during these summer months.

From now on we will settle down to steady worrying.

Polio Increase

The development of a polio vaccine was a long step forward in the control of this disease. It has proven itself to be highly effective. Its effectiveness is limited however to the extent of its use. Salk vaccine provides immunization only for those who are vaccinated. For those who do not avail themselves of its protection, polio is just as much a threat as it ever was.

Health officials are concerned about the public indifference to this danger. In Minnesota, according to a survey by the Minnesota Poll, only 32 per cent of all adults aged 21 and older have had one or more polio shots. The great majority have had none. Most children have had at least one shot but many have not received the 90 per cent protection that three shots provide.

We are moving into the polio season. National statistics for May indicated that the number of cases of paralytic polio in the United States this year is running 88 per cent ahead of last year.

Why take chances? Get those polio shots now.

Record Deer Kill

Minnesota hunters harvested a record crop of deer during last year's hunting season, the total kill by residents being 75,141. Several hundred more were taken by out-of-staters and archers.

The results over a period of years vindicate those who have argued in favor of annual hunting seasons. It appears that under normal conditions our deer population will not be reduced by an annual open season.

There Are Reasons

Over in Wisconsin the legislature is still in session and the Wisconsin lawmakers have been in session just as long as have our Minnesota lawmakers. But the people in Wisconsin are not complaining because in Wisconsin that is the usual thing. They have no 90-day limitation and they expect their sessions to drag on into the summer.

In his St. Paul Pioneer Press column, Dick Wanek, points up some of the special reasons for what may become the all-time record length of the present special session. Says Wanek:

> "It will probably be many years before there is another combination of circumstances that will make necessary such a long extra session of the Legislature. Conditions of the budget, politics, and past practices were just right this year to produce the marathon that is still going on. As of Thursday next the all-time record for session length set in 1937 will be wiped out.
> "For example, this is the year the state finally ran out of its ability to get by on balances from previous years, from "windfalls" created by changing the constitutional requirement of setting aside half of the iron ore tax money in an untouchable trust fund, from shifting tax payments into an earlier payment period to collect them in an existing biennium.
> "It is also the year in which the Senate and House were divided politically (as they were of course in 1955 and 1957.) But this is the year after the governor and his party campaigned strongly against incumbent Conservative senators and failed to oust them, thus setting up the political barrier to compromise. It is also a time when the Senate has three years to go before facing re-election just in case the voters disagree with their views. If voters dislike the House stand in this Legislature, they can make changes next year. Traditionally lawmakers are more wary of voters in or just before an election year.
> "It is a year also in which the new money needs of the state just about equal the total budget requirements of 17 years ago. The 1942-43 budget from the four big appropriation measures totaled 73 million dollars. That's what is estimated more or less to be the new revenue needs to meet the 474-million-dollar comparable budget for 1960-61.
> "Combined, these factors have built up a barrier which has prevented settlement, even though income tax withholding is presently the key to settlement."

Replacement Tax

(A. J. Suel, New Prague Times)

When a proposed state income tax was under discussion in Minnesota some 27 years ago, one of the most effective arguments in behalf of a state income tax earmarked for educational purposes was that it would be a replacement tax in relief of property taxes.

Sincere in this belief, The Times editorially supported the proposed state income tax and urged its benefits as a replacement.

As every taxpayer knows now, this assumption was in error. The record indicates that each new tax becomes an additional tax and a replacement tax is a myth.

Perhaps, as the people demand ever increasing services from government, new taxes become necessary. But any new taxes should be advocated as such.

Need It Be Inflationary?

(Christian Science Monitor)

In Congress a challenging objection is being made against President Eisenhower's proposal that the Treasury be permitted to pay higher interest rates on government bonds. The argument is made that this course, generally regarded as deflationary, will actually tend to inflate prices since it will tend to raise other interest rates and so add to the costs of industrial operation.

This could be true only if business and the public begin producing and buying at boom levels against which the rise of interest rates is a clear danger signal. Recovery from the 1957 recession has been solid and encouraging. But it does not warrant a vicious circle of assumptions that every rise of living costs requires a wage increase, that every wage rise compels a price rise, and that every added cost of doing business can be passed along to the consumer.

Somewhere there must be an absorption of these pressures unless an unending price spiral is to vitiate every wage, price, or profit gain. As Americans have seen in the '30's and more recently, there comes a point at which the consumer rebels or just doesn't have the wherewithal to keep on buying, and the structure crashes.

If Americans will be content with solid growth they can avoid the boom-and-bust cycle. Entrepreneurs need not borrow so much that they produce so much that consumers must go on a credit binge in order to buy the output. In other words, interest charges need not add unduly to costs and prices if producer and consumer debt is used only within reason.

If it is wholesome for wages and commodity prices to respond to supply and demand, the same rule is true for capital. If capital is insufficient for government debt in addition to industry and housing, then an incentive is needed to encourage more saving, which forms capital. A higher interest rate for so long as necessary, especially to individual lenders or savings bond buyers, is a form of that incentive.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

In order to fill out the regimental boxing team, a GI was prevailed upon by his buddies to enter the tournament to show he was a good guy. The GI had never been in a fight in his life and he looked forward to his first bout with ill-concealed panic. When he came back to the barracks after the fight, his buddies could see that his worst fears had been realized. He was in terrible shape and his head was bloody and bowed.

"You poor guy," said the GI in the next bunk.

"That's not the half of it," gasped the boxer. "They tell me I gotta fight again tomorrow night. I won."

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Legislative reapportionment is necessary because as people move, as population increases and changes, redistricting is essential to insure representation according to democratic principles. Our Minnesota constitution provides that the Legislature shall redistrict and reapportion the state after each decennial census.

Long Delay

Until this year, however, no such reapportionment had taken place since 1913, and therefore representation in this current Legislature is based on the census of 1910. In other words, we are today operating under an apportionment that was considered fair as our population was distributed a half century ago.

Why?

Why has the Legislature for so long failed to carry out the provisions of the constitution? Why has it allowed our representation to become so out of balance that in some districts it takes 14 votes to have as much weight in electing legislators as only one vote in other districts?

Resistance to Change

Primarily it is because the Legislators themselves are reluctant to change their own districts. Redistricting inevitably gives less representation to some areas in order to give more representation to others. Those that will lose an advantage they now have naturally oppose such change.

Reapportionment This Session

At last, during this session, a reapportionment bill was passed to take effect in 1962. The new reapportionment act is far from perfect, but it provides for representation that is substantially more equitable than that which now prevails.

Constitutional Amendment

The Legislature also proposed a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters in 1960. If passed at that election this amendment would change our constitutional provisions for reapportionment.

I believe that this part of our constitution should be changed so as to insure effective and equitable reapportionment after each decennial census, but the amendment now proposed would not do this. In my opinion, it would make the situation worse than under the constitution as it is today.

This proposed amendment is not intended to take effect until after the 1970 census. I hope that the voters of Minnesota will have an opportunity to seek a better amendment before that date.

No Standards

The proposed amendment is defective because is sets no standards for representation in either house. It would not effectively insure fair representation for rural areas as it was intended to do.

Advantage to Wealth

One of its most undemocratic provisions is that which provides that if the Legislature fails to reapportion in the first regular session after each census, then the Legislature shall meet in an extraordinary session, without either compensation or expenses for legislators, until a redistricting bill is passed.

I'm sure this provision was intended to speed up the process, and to save money. But in attempting to carry out these worthy motives a basic lesson that all democracies have had to learn was forgotten. That lesson is the fact that unless elected representatives are paid for their time and their services, the real power goes to wealth instead of to people.

If legislators have to serve without either pay or expenses, only those who can afford it—or who are paid by other interests—will be able to hold out long enough to get their way.

Care Necessary

This provision is a good example of how something that at first glance may appear good can have very serious consequences. A constitutional amendment may set the pattern for our government for the next century. Let's get one that does not open the door to this kind of abuse.

Public Opinion

Editor Times:

The American Railroad Association has mentioned in their Nov., 1959 negotiations they intend to propose elimination of diesel locomotive firemen.

In my opinion this is unsafe for railroad personnel and the public alike.

I have in the past few years experienced two different occasions where it was necessary for me to take over the controls when the engineers suddenly became critically ill.

The first incident happened when I was a fireman on a snowplow between Overly and Kenmore, North Dakota. The Plow had derailed and we were returning from the caboose with derailing equipment, when the engineer asked me to relieve him, which I did.

Just after I relieved him he fell to the floor unconscious.

I took the train into Kenmore where the engineer could be hospitalized and the following morning he passed away.

The second incident happened right here in Thief River Falls. We were working the switch engine here in the yard when the engineer became critically ill and it was necessary that he be taken from the engine to the local hospital by ambulance where his condition proved to be fatal. Here I had to take over the controls also.

This is proof of the necessity of having two men in the cab of a locomotive.

Respectfully yours,
Walter Leach

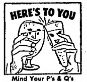
HERE'S TO YOU



Mind Your P's & Q's

Did you know that the expression about "minding your P's and Q's" originated in English taverns centuries ago when the inn-keepers kept track of customers' accounts by chalking up the pints and quarts of beer and ale on the wall?

Frankfurters 'n Beer

Here's a tasty casserole dish to brighten up the family's summer menu. Take 2 lbs. sauerkraut, 2 cups beer, and 12 frankfurters. Wash and drain the sauerkraut. Combine the sauerkraut and beer in a casserole; cover and bake in a 350° oven 1½ hours. Arrange the frankfurters on top and bake 20 minutes, uncovered. Serve directly from casserole. Serves 6 to 12.

Early Minn. Brewers

The early settlers of Minnesota had hardly put their roots down in the state's fertile soil a century or so ago when the pioneer brewmasters came to help make their life more pleasant. Minnesota has many brewing firms doing business today that are nearly a century old or older. One of the oldest of these firms is the Minneapolis Brewing Co. In 1850 a man named John Orth arrived at St. Anthony village (now Minneapolis) and began a brewery on the same site as the present firm. In 1893 the present firm was re-organized as the Minneapolis Brewing Co. and the beer given the name it still bears. Truly, Grain Belt has been "a long time a-brewing."

Council Asks Bids on Dist. 3 Storm Sewer

To Consider Bids on $300,000 Project at Meeting July 21st

At a special meeting Monday, June 2, the city council voted to call for bids on the storm sewer project in District three and also on the sewage disposal system and new access road at the municipal airport. The bids will be opened at the July 21 meeting.

The council, at its regular meeting June 16, accepted the plans and specifications on the long-debated storm sewer project which will extend as far north as Sixth st. with provision for over-sizing the mains for the extension of the system north of that dividing line.

The total estimated cost has been set at $302,000 which includes resurfacing of streets where mains are installed. Plans and specifications were submitted to the state highway department for approval last week.

At the airport, the replacement of the access road is contemplated to make entrance to the airport easier, especially during winter months when the road is often blocked. The work would probably be done with state fund participation.

Participation by the state has already been agreed upon in the installation of a new sanitary disposal system at the airport. The facility would serve not only existing buildings but would also serve the new shop building now under construction.

The next meeting of the council will be Monday, June 29, at 8 p.m.

Strandquist School Board Accepts Low Bids on New Building

Low bids totaling $163,452 for the construction of a school at Strandquist to replace the structure destroyed by fire in January were opened and accepted June 19. This was $7,548 less than the architects' estimate.

The low bid on the general contract was $105,000 by the Dean L. Witcher company. Lee Plumbing & Heating company of Thief River Falls submitted he low bid of $39,612 on the mechanical contract and Foley Electric of Warren offered the low bid of $18,340 for the electrical work.

The total bids were within a few dollars of the amount of money received by the school district in insurance on the building which was destroyed. Insurance received totaled $163,486.

A meeting of the taxpayers of the district was held following the opening of bids to give them information concerning the progress made in the building since the bond election. In addition to local people, Mr. Denbrook of the architectural firm of Wells & Denbrook of Grand Forks, Sletten Olson of Warren, school district attorney and Mr. Larson and Mr. Hendrickson of the state board of education attended the meeting.

An explanation of the bids received and the changes made necessary to comply with the specifications made by Guy O. Tollerud, state director of school planning, were made by Mr. Denbrook.

Larson and Hendrickson spoke at length on the advantages of a school merger but, after a question and answer period, the large audience voted 94% in favor of the rebuilding the school. This was about the same percentage which voted in favor of the bond issue.

Plan Setup of New Probation System in Area

Area County Boards and Probate Judges Met in TRF Tuesday

Four juvenile judges and 19 representatives of northwestern Minnesota counties met at the Pennington county courthouse Tuesday afternoon, June 23, to discuss details of the new probation system made necessary by a recent law passed by the state legislature.

Present were commissioners from Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake, Roseau, Kittson, Lake of the Woods and Clearwater counties and Charles Rodekuhr, Pennington county auditor.

A resolution was drawn up and will be acted upon by the boards of commissioners for the employment of a probation officer to serve the needs of the several counties. This area, in addition to other territory, is now being served by Milton Olson of Thief River Falls, a Youth Conservation Commission officer.

Under the resolution, the home county (Pennington) will provide office space for the probation officer and funds will be provided by the participating counties with a reimbursement to each county by the state at the rate of 10c per capita.

Milton Olson would serve as the probation officer if the resolution is passed by the counties and is approved by the Youth Conservation Commission. The arrangement would go into effect about Aug. 1 subject to the receipt of funds from the counties and the setting up of the budget which will total $13,784 the first year.

TRF People Asked to Visit Winnipeg July 24 to See British Queen

Members of the Lions club were guests of the Rotary at the regular Monday luncheon meeting June 22 and will be the hosts at the annual inter-club golf tournament July 20. The tournament at the local golf club will end with a dinner at 7:15 p.m.

Rotarians, Lions and their guests had as the main speaker Hugh Ingraham of the Manitoba travel and convention bureau who extended a special invitation to be present in Winnipeg during the visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip July 23 and 24. The couple are making their visit at the time the St. Lawrence seaway is being opened officially.

Ingraham noted the project as an example of what can be done through the cooperation of two nations. He also invited members of the clubs to vacation in Manitoba. Two films, one on the many vacation possibilities in the province and the other on fishing, were shown by Ingraham.

Mary Demetreliou, Greek foreign exchange student who has been sponsored during the past year by the local Rotary club, expressed her thanks at the meeting and reported that she will return to her native land at the end of this week.

"I have learned much about America while in Thief River Falls," she said, "and how the people of this country help others. Now I will go back to tell my people about America but I would like to return to the United States again to take an education course in English so that I can teach the language to my people."

Harold Harrison, former member of both the Lions and the Rotary and the piano player for both groups, delighted the joint gathering with three numbers. Harrison now lives in Temple City, Calif. Another former resident of the city, Dennis McGinn of Escanaba, Mich., also attended the meeting.

Judy Wold, Exchange Student, En Route to Sweden for Summer

Swimming in the Baltic sea and touring the castles of southern Sweden will be two of the interesting activities of a Thief River Falls girl this summer.

Judy Wold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wold, 406 Arnold ave. S., a member of the 1959 Lincoln high school graduating class, is somewhere on the Atlantic ocean today on a student ship carrying young people of the United States to Europe. The ship left Hoboken, N. J., Thursday, June 18, on a nine-day voyage which, for some, will end at Le Havre, France, and for Judy will end at Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

From that point, the local girl will travel across the Netherlands and Denmark by train, then across the sea to Sweden.

Judy will be staying with the Ola Andersson family in Skane, Sweden, this summer. Located in the southern resort area, the farm of the Andersson family is near historic castles and the Baltic sea.

Some time in September, Judy will join with the other students from this country in a tour of Europe before returning home.

The trip, a part of the student foreign exchange program, is sponsored by the American Field Service. Judy was selected by the recently-organized Thief River Falls chapter which seeks to promote international understanding through the exchange of students between nations.

Miss Wold left Thief River Falls June 14 with her parents for Minneapolis where she boarded a bus for New York. While in that city, she, and other students, toured various points of interest including the Empire State building and the United Nations building.

Crop Conditions over Pennington Co. Found to Be Generally Good

General crop conditions in Pennington county are good most of the county having been favored with adequate rainfall, and all of the cereal grains have a goodstart.

Weak spots in the crop picture is a greater incidence of smut in barley that is heading out, than has been observed in the past. Some farmers are reporting considerable damage from this disease. Also, several days of heat the week of June 3, coupled with insufficient moisture, caused damage to some fields. The burning of fields by the heat was not sufficient to cause any reseeding, but some permanent damage did result.

The first cutting of hay, although exposed to recent rains, has been running good. With the southern part of Minnesota reporting considerable winter killing of legume stands, a god hay crop in Pennington county is encouraging. The western half of North Dakota and all of South Dakota except the eastern 12 counties report drought and agencies are working on possible disaster relief for those areas.

Although relatively small acreages of corn and soybeans, have been seeded in the county this year, these crops are doing well. Herbert Lundeen in Deer Park township in the east part of the county reported knee high corn last week. Knee-high corn by July 4 is an old timers rule used as indication of good corn development. Lundeen also reported a good cutting of alfalfa hay.

Flax varies from only fair to good depending on fields used. High lime, poorly drained fields have only fair flax stands while better fields have good stands.

Spraying for weed control is nearing completion says County Agent Paul Steimaschuk. Grain fields are sprayed when the crop is in the fifth leaf to booth stage. Flax is sprayed before it is in bud, and corn before it is 10 inches high. Grain underseed with legumes is sprayed with MCP instead of 2, 4-D as is the case for weed control in grain without a legume stand. Removal of weeds is of utmost importance, since they compete for moisture, nutrients, increase harvesting, storage costs, and may cause heating of grain in grain bins.

Agreement Is Reached by Tax Conferees

Conference Group Completes Report in Late Session

Minnesota's special session appears to be nearing its end, the Senate-House conference committee on taxes having reached agreement shortly before midnight last night. The report will be submitted to the respective bodies today for action and approval is considered likely.

The solution agreed upon does not include the withholding system off income tax collection which has been the most controversial issue between conservative and liberal groups. The agreement does call for:

One-half per cent increase per bracket in individual income taxes, effective Jan. 1, 1959. Dependency credits, now $10, would be raised to $14.

Corporation income tax rates are placed on a permanent base at 7.5 per cent and a surtax of 1.8 per cent, a total of [illegible] per cent.

Cigarette taxes are raised 1½ cents per pack, from the present 4 cents to 5½ per pack. The distributors discount on cigarettes is reduced from 4 to 2½ per cent.

The present 10 per cent surtax on liquor is boosted to 15 per cent.

Tobacco products, now taxed at a rate of 15 per cent, in the future will have a 20 per cent levy on them.

Iron ore tax rate is raised to 14.25 per cent, with 12 per cent being made permanent, the other 2¼ per cent temporary.

The tax on 3.2 beer is raised from $1.10 per barrel to $1.60. On strong beer, the rate is boosted from $2.20 to $3.20. Both are for 31-gallon barrels.

FAMILY PORTRAIT The adopted American family of Mary Demetrellou, right, Greek foreign exchange student who lived in Thief River Falls during the past year, will lose its foreign "daughter" Saturday, June 27, when she returns to her native land. Greek Exchange Student Says Farewell to Friends in TRF

A native of Greece will return to her native land this month with an American high school diploma, a better understanding of what this nation is like and fond memories of 11 months of life in Thief River Falls.

Mary Demetrellou, foreign exchange student who has been living in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Ewing, 111 Tindolph ave. N., will leave New York by plane for Greece, where, for the next several months, she will tell her people about her experiences here and what she has found Americans really believe in and stand for. Here, in part, is what Miss Demetrellou wrote of her impressions of the United States and Thief River Falls:

"Here I am almost at the end of my year in the U.S.A., a year that I'll never forget. The enjoyable and beneficial experiences I have gained this past year, the nice people I have met and the different things I have seen will always remain bright in my memory.

Speaking of different things, I want to point out some of the differences between my country (Greece) and the U.S. First of all, let's take a look at the educational systems. We (in Greece) have six years of grade school and six years of high school like yours. According to our educational systems, students of the same grade must have the same courses every year. The number of subjects each student must have varies from 11 to 12 depending on the grade the student is in. All the courses are required.

Two foreign languages are also required — six years of French and three years of Latin. Our school day is a six-hour day. We start at 8 a.m. but we are through at 2 p.m. We do not have study halls and we do not eat at school. We go to school 36 hours a week because we go to school on Saturday too. Every day, we have different subjects. For example, three hours a week we have literature, three hours physics, two hours chemistry, etc.

In Greek schools, we have a lot of memorizing. We have to memorize every subject and give it from memory. Twice a year, we have examinations and, at the end of the year, we have a final test which is very hard because we have to memorize the whole book of each subject in almost every detail. To get an "A" or "B", Greek students have to study at least three or four hours every day.

During my year here, many people have asked me which of the educational systems (Greek or American) is the best according to my opinion. That is a hard question for me to answer.

I think your system is fine for those students who want to study. Most of your students take different subjects every year and, by the end of their school life, know as much as everybody else.

But what about those students who take life easy? Because of the elective subjects they can take, many students do not take physics, chemistry or mathematics — subjects which I consider fundamental in preparing for advanced schooling. These students, after having completed high school, will be handicapped in entering college because they haven't taken enough required college entrance subjects. They have their high school diplomas but I feel they should have made better use of their time in high school.

In the way of living, generally you live a more comfortable life here in the United States. For example, you will not find all the conveniences in Greek homes that are found in those in America. Over there, too, people have to walk much more than you do because we have few private cars.

As far as work is concerned, the people of my country work hard but I can definitely say the same for Americans, too. I have found Americans to be very friendly, helpful and sincere people who can be trusted.

The year has passed quickly and I find it is time to say goodbye to everyone. I want to thank the Rotary club for sponsoring me this year, the Ewing family for taking me into the family and making me feel happy and right at home, the teachers at Lincoln high school, all the students, my special thanks to my classmates for giving me the typewriter as a graduation gift and thanks to all the people of Thief River Falls for making this such a happy year.

I am sure that I will never forget you and I hope that some day I'll see you again.

Will I come back to the United States again? I surely would like to come to get some further education in an American college. I want to be an English teacher in my country and I hope that this dream will come true some day.

Again my thanks. Remember, my city in Greece is Patras. I would be most happy to someday have Thief River Falls people visit me there.

Good-bye, Mary Demetrellou."

M. D. Allan D. Davidson of Holt has received the degree of doctor of medicine at graduation exercises at the University of Minnesota. A graduate of Newfolden high school in 1952, he also received his B. A. and B. S. degree at the university. He will interne this year at St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Paul. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Davidson of Holt.

Svendsgaard and Mehrkens Holstein Cattle Rank High

June is dairy month and two Pennington county herds are being highlighted this year — the Holstein herd of Charles and Dale Svendsgaard at Mavie in Cloverleaf township and the herd of Maynard and Kenneth Mehrkens in Rocksbury township, two miles south and one mile east of Thief River Falls.

The Svendsgaard herd is continuing to lead in Pennington county production. With four months of testing remaining in the DHIA testing year, the herd has produced over 300 pounds of butterfat and is expected to average 400 for the year. The herd consists of 66 head of purebred and registered Holsteins with 32 cows now in production.

The cow pictured in this issue of the Times has 39 immediate or related offspring in the herd. A 13-year-old, she was purchased by Dale for 4-H work and has produced 600 pounds of fat at the peak. Many of the large type animals are of the Rockwood and Skyrocket breeding which was developed in Canada.

The Svendsgaards have started hauling their pasture in for their milk cows. The sweet clover-alfalfa mixture is cut with a field chopper and fed in the yard. Cows have maintained production with this method despite the annual seasonal decline during the spring when cows go on new pasture. A heavier consumption of forage is reported when feed is brought into the yard and flies and mosquitoes can be more readily controlled by spraying the yard with insecticides. In addition, greater yields of forage are possible per acre of pasture since no hay is trampled by the herd.

However, there is an additional labor requirement when forage is cut in this manner and the cost of the chopper must be considered. Because of these factors, the practice is recommended only for herds of 30 or more milk cows.

The Svendsgaards are in Grade A milk production.

The Mehrkens are the proud owners of the top producing cow in the Red Lake-Pennington DHIA. The cow, pictured in this issue of the Times, produced 668 pounds of butterfat in the DHIA testing year which was completed Sept. 30, 1958. During the year, the cow produced 18,120 pounds of milk. The Mehrkens also are in Grade A milk production.

At the present time, the dairy barn on the Mehrkens farm is being expanded to make room for 40 milk cows. The herd at present consists of 34 Holsteins with 67 animals in the entire herd.

Kenneth, who has completed six years of 4-H club work and four years of dairy project work, showed one of his calves at the 10th annual Northwest Dairy Day and placed reserve or second out of 107 Holstein calves shown.

Steers and Heifers: A load of high-Choice 1,158 lb. slaughter steers cashed at $28.50 while a load of high-Choice and Prime 1,263 lb. weights were also noted at $28.50. Several shipments of average-Choice 1,158 to 1,196 lb. steers moved at $28.00. Most of the steers graded Good and low-Choice and brought $25.50-27.50. A large shipment of low to average-Good around 1,300 lb. steers sold late at $25.00. Standard steers cashed at $21-23.00. Canner, Cutter and Utility grades were taken at $19-22.00. Cows and Bulls: Unlike last Monday, Utility and Commercial cows made up a sizable portion of the cow supply. The spread on these grades was $18.50-20.50, however, there were numerous high-yielding Commercial cows recorded at $21 on early rounds. Canner and Cutter cows found outlet at $16-18.00, but a few high-yielding Cutter offerings reached $18.50. Shelly Canner cows brought $14-16.00. Bulls were very scarce considering the large cattle run. Commercial and Good grades scored $21.50-23.50, Cutter and Utility offerings ranged from $21.50-24.50, the latter price recorded only on Utility 1,700 lbs. and above. Canner grade sold at $18-20.00.

Racing will continue this Sunday, under the lights, with a seven-event program being arranged. And on July 4, with racing to start at 8:30 P.M., the Northwestern Racing association will sponsor the famed "Lucky Hell Drivers". From the opening introduction of the "Parade of Champions" to the climactic "Space Car Cannon Shot," the show is filled with two hours of action, thrills, comedy, and mile-a-minute spectaculars.

The week's play in the city softball league was featured by the Bridgeman's 4 to 2 win over the defending city champion Bjorkman's last Thursday evening. The two teams engaged in an extra-inning thriller, with the Bridgeman's shoving across two runs in the top of the 8th inning to gain their winning margin. Bob Carlson, who hurled for the Bridgeman's in order in the last half of the 8th to register a cherished win over the champions.

In another evenly-contested game, the Len's Tire Service team, with Jack Poole poling out a home run into deep center-field with two men on and two out in the last half of the 7th inning, edged out an improving V.F.W. team, 8 to 6. The Len's entered the final inning trailing by a 6 to 5 score, but a walk and a base hit put two runners on the bases, giving Jack Poole his opportunity to drive in the game-winning runs.

Rain and wet grounds has forced postponement of several of this week's games.

Next week's slate should provide softball fans with fine entertainment as on Monday evening the Hamm's Beer team will meet the Bjorkman's; and on Tuesday evening, the Len's Tire Service squad will play the Bridgeman's.

Prowlers Lose State 1st Round to New Ulm

The New Ulm Eagles, although held to but four hits by righthander Harley Drees, secured much mileage out of the blows as two of the hits, by Gary Storm and Dennis Sperl, were run-producing triples, and gave coach Vern Zahn's Region Three champions a 7 to 2 win over the Prowlers in a state tournament first round game played in the Metropolitan stadium in Minneapolis on Tuesday evening.

The Prowlers gained a 2 to 0 lead in the top of the 2nd inning when, after Gene Weckwerth and Jim Wegge had been retired, New Ulm's Nels Iverson walked Gary Anderson and Gary Klungness, and Eddie Lietzow gained a "life" on an error. With the bases jammed, Jerry Jorgenson sent a single into center field, scoring Anderson and Klungness.

That Prowler lead was short-lived as the Eagles came back with a pair of tallies in the bottom half of the 2nd inning. Orval Ulrich lined out to left field; Carl Preuss singled through the mound; Gary Storm drove a triple to the fence in right-center, scoring Preuss; and when Mike Olson's flyball to left was muffed, Storm came in with the tying run.

New Ulm broke up the deadlock in the 5th inning, scoring four runs. Gary Carlson opened with a walk; Dave Silcox was retired on a pop foul to catcher Wegge; Wenzel Wiesner singled to center field; a wild pitch advanced the runners to second and third; Iverson bounced a grounder to second base, with Carlson beating the play at the plate; Dennis Sperl then drove out a three-base hit to right field, scoring Wiesner and Iverson, and on a low throw to the plate, Sperl came in with the inning's fourth run.

The Eagles notched their final run by taking advantage of a pair of infield errors in the 6th inning, with Storm coming around to score on Eddie Lietzow's second miscue of the inning.

The Prowlers garnered but three hits off the righthanded offerings of Nels Iverson. New Ulm tagged Prowler starter Drees for four hits, while Arlan Hjelle, who took over the pitching duties in the 5th inning, pitched hitless ball but gave up three walks.

J. Matchefts, H.S. Hockey Coach, to Return to Eveleth

Submits Resignation Wednesday; Has Served at Lincoln High 3 Years

John Matchefts, Prowler hockey coach for the past three seasons, has resigned his position on the Lincoln high school faculty to accept a coaching and teaching position at Eveleth high school.

Matchefts, who submitted his resignation to Supt. I. T. Mickelson on Wednesday, will be returning to his native Eveleth to take up the hockey coaching duties relinquished by Cliff Thompson.

In the three seasons that Matchefts tutored the Prowlers, taking over from Dennis Rolle at the start of the 1956-57 season, the locals compiled a record of 26 wins, 34 losses, and one tie. His Prowler aggregation of last season marked up a record of 14 wins, nine losses and one tie; and in state high school tournament play, the Prowlers won consolation honors.

During his high school career at Eveleth, Matchefts was an important cog in Cliff Thompson's Golden Bears, gaining all-state honors at center three years. Matchefts played his college hockey at the University of Michigan, and following the conclusion of his college career, John was a member of the U. S. Olympic hockey squad.

Back Into Action

The local American Legion junior baseball team, after a week's recess, occasioned by the Prowlers' participation in the state high school tournament in Minneapolis, will resume sub-district conference play on Monday night when, at 8:00 P.M., tey meet the Warren juniors on the Warren diamond.

On Tuesday, in a 6:30 P.M. game, the locals will meet coach Jack Junker's Newfolden juniors on the Fair Grounds diamond. In a previous game between the two clubs, coach Ralph Skay's team scored a 6 to 3 win over Newfolden and lefty John Haglund.

In a sub-district conference game played here last Thursday evening, the local juniors, with righthanders Jack Goulet and Arlan Hjelle sharing the hurling chores, defeated the East Grand Forks juniors, 6 to 0. Goulet and Hjelle limited the East Siders to five hits in applying the calcimine job.

An Added Attraction

The league-leading Winnipeg Goldeyes of the Northern league will meet the Grand Forks Chiefs on the Municipal Park diamond at Grand Forks Thursday night, with game time at 8:00 P.M.

But what adds considerably to Thursday night's slate at Grand Forks is that in a preliminary game, starting at 6:00 P.M., the Drayton American Legion juniors will play coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks juniors. And that should be a game worth making the 55-mile trip to Grand Forks to see.

Drayton, last season, challenged into the Class A American Legion junior play in North Dakota, and won the state championship. The team, then coached by Dick Davison, entered, and won, the regional championship, and was a participant in the sectional tournament.

This season's Drayton club, although missing their top flight pitchers of last year, righthander Doug Halcrow and southpaw Tom Knoff, are rated as a strong club. They have already made a challenge into the Class A division, and Thursday night's tilt should give an indication as to Drayton's potential to make a successful defense of their state title.

For the Archives

We must mention, and call to the attention of the keeper of the Pennington county athletic archives, that the Bridgeman's softball team, with Bullet Bob Carlson on the mound, and going the route, defeated the Bjorkman's, 4 to 2, in an eight-inning game on the "Ebbets Field" diamond on Thursday evening.

The Bridgeman's should derive a tonic-like effect from their well-earned win. They'll be tough from here on in.

And speaking of softball — There is a question which we wish to put to the league directors: in baseball the rules are specific in that the players must have their shirts tucked into their trousers. Does this rule pertain to softball, and if so, why is it that several of the "portly" Bjorkman's players wear their jerseys outside their trousers? If this relaxation of the rule is to permit certain of the Bjorkman's to "enjoy" the game in "comfort," we are all in favor of making a special dispensation to that effect.

In spite of last Thursday night's loss, we'll make a modest wager that come playoff time, the Bjorkman's will be in the finals. The "boys" must have another season of play remaining, and this could be it.

The Four Seasons

Chopping up some wooden boxes the other night in order to provide kindling to start our furnace fire, we were reminded of the four seasons of climate that pertain to northern Minnesota: early winter, winter, late winter, and next winter.

This cold and blustery weather has upset the fishing schedule of local anglers, and particularly the fishermen who ply the Lake of the Woods waters. And, too, the fish fly season is on at the Lake of the Woods, which adds to the slowness of the walleyed pike action.

Fishing up there was fair to good on Friday and Saturday, but late Saturday evening a strong north, northeast blow rolled up the water. And with the winds, up to twenty miles per hour, continuing on Sunday, the fishing was rated as poor.

The reports, too, indicate that the Waskish area of upper Red Lake has experienced a slackening in the walleye pike action. The Sunday winds drove the Red Lake anglers off the lake, too.

The Pen-Ro-Shall league will complete its first round of play on Sunday, and entering Sunday's game against Greenbush, the defending champion Thief River Falls Bums hold a two-game lead in the league standings.

In last Sunday's play, the Bums, in a home run fest at Badger, scored a 9 to 8 win over Badger. Jack and Pat Poole and Phil Hanson blasted round-trippers for the Bums; while the Christofferson brothers, Elmer and Ron, poled out four-baggers for Badger, with Ron getting a pair.

The Plummer Red Sox, a newcomer to league play this season, moved into a four-way tie for second place by scoring a 11 to 10 win over Goodridge. And Greenbush defeated Grygla, 14 to 5, in a game played at Grygla.

This Sunday's schedule will be featured by the Grygla vs. Goodridge game to be played at Goodridge. The two teams are long-time rivals, and the game should attract a large crowd of fans.

The Bums will be travelling to Greenbush, and Badger will attempt to get into the win column by playing Plummer at Plummer.

Bums Edge Badger Sunday by 9-8 Tally

Pat Poole Slams Homer with Two Men on Base

Pat Poole's home run with two mates aboard provided the Thief River Falls Bums with their winning margin as the Pen-Ro-Shall league leaders defeated Badger, 9 to 8, in a game played at Badger on Sunday afternoon.

The game, which was featured by the home run hitting of Pat Poole, Phil Hanson and Jack Poole of the Bums, and Elmer and Ron Christofferson of Badger, was a nip-and-tuck affair, with the lead alternating several times before the Bums, with a three-run outburst in the 8th inning, moved into a 9 to 5 lead. Badger, tallying three runs in the last half of the 8th, pared the lead to one run, which the Bums protected to register their fourth successive league triumph.

Next Sunday the Bums will play at Greenbush.

Thieves, Cass Lake and Bagley Share Top after Last Sunday's Contests

Fosston at Thief River Falls (night)
Cass Lake at Bagley (night)
Eldred at Erskine (night)

The Northern Minny league title chase has developed into a "battle royal" with six of the seven teams in the circuit being in contention for the championship. As a result of Sunday's slate of games, Thief River Falls, Cass Lake, and Bagley moved up into a three-way tie for the league lead. And pressing the league leaders closely are Winger, Erskine, and Fosston.

Last Sunday's feature game, between Bagley and Erskine, and which was played on a rain-soaked field at Erskine, found manager Mel Brustad's Bagley team getting a two-hit shutout performance from righthander Bruce Lindell and scoring an 8 to 0 triumph over Erskine. The loss dropped the Erskine Merchants into a two-way tie for league runners-up honors, with the Merchants having a two wins and two losses mark.

The other two games on Sunday's schedule found the Thieves trouncing Winger, 18 to 2, and Cass Lake, taking advantage of numerous misplays by Eldred, defeating Eldred, 15 to 4.

A pair of attractive games are on this Sunday's schedule, with Fosston meeting the Thieves at Thief River Falls, and Cass Lake invading Bagley for a game, the result of which will drop one of the teams down a rung or two in the league standings.

Fosston, in a game played at Fosston two weeks ago, scored a 9 to 8 win over the locals. Manager John Drury's Thieves are anxious to avenge that defeat.

Prowlers Eliminated by Little Falls 3 to 1

Although limiting the veteran Little Falls Flyers to but four hits, the Prowlers' Arlan Hjelle had trouble with his control, giving up nine bases on balls, and these walks proved costly as coach Ralph Skay's club dropped a 3 to 1 decision to the Flyers in a state high school baseball tournament consolation game played Wednesday afternoon. The defeat shunted the Prowlers to the sidelines for the balance of the tournament.

Little Falls, the winner over the Prowlers, will meet Mankato, a 7 to 4 winner over Coleraine in a first round consolation match, for the consolation title this afternoon.

Little Falls marked up what proved to be their winning margin when they tallied a pair of runs in the last half of the 2nd inning. The Flyers' Deering opened the frame with a triple, and walks to Tom Wilenski and Al Weiss filled the bases with none out. Jim Werner grounded to Hjelle, who threw to the plate to force Deering, and Jim Wegge's throw to first base was in time to erase Werner on a double play. Bill Johnson strolled, and the bases were again loaded. Dennis Sprandel banged a single into center field, scoring Wilenski and Weiss, to give the Flyers a 2 to 0 lead.

The Prowlers chalked up a run in the 3rd inning when Gary Klungness led off with a single. Eddie Lietzow's infield out moved Klungness to second, and when third baseman Dorian Sprandel made a high throw to first base after gathering in Jerry Jorgenson's ground ball, Klungness came in with the Prowlers' lone tally.

The Flyers added a run in the 4th inning when, with two out, Dennis Sprandel walked, stole second, and scored on Jerry Trafas' single to right field.

The Prowlers made a serious bid to tie the game in the 6th inning when a walk and an error put runners on the second and third with none out; but the Flyer's called on their stellar southpaw, Louis Eich, to snuff out the rally, and the lefty retired Paul Saurdiff on a ground ball to the mound and set down John Aune and Jim Wegge on strikes.

Postoffice Outlines Position on Lottery Publicity in Papers

The postoffice department's ruling on lottery advertising as applied to newspapers is clarified in a recent bulletin from the department, a copy of which has been supplied to the Times by Postmaster R. J. Dryden. It reads as follows:

The instructions contained the Postal Bulletin of April 23, 1959, concerning "doubtful mailings to be withheld from dispatch" should not be applied to newspapers; newspapers containing doubtful matter should not be withheld from dispatch without specific instructions, but such doubtful matter should be promptly reported to the General Counsel.

Instructions contained in the Postal Bulletin of May 7, 1959, "Advertisements of Merchants Lottery Schemes," is applicable only to schemes in which there appears the combination of (1) the distribution of chance tickets with purchases, and (2) a means for obtaining "free" chances to participate without purchases. The fact that there is "free" participation would make the scheme nonetheless a lottery, if, in addition, chances to participate for some are coupled or given with purchases or other consideration. Such schemes are lotteries as long as some pay, even though others play free. Thus the mere fact that there is provision for a "free chance" to participate does not remove the element of consideration from a scheme which otherwise constitutes a lottery. The advertised plan should be considered in its entirety, and if it contains the necessary elements to constitute a lottery (viz. prize, consideration, and chance), the same is in violation of postal laws.

With regard to the element of consideration, reference is made to the following statement contained in "Elements of a Lottery," published in a previous Postal Bulletin.

"(The General Counsel's) office must continue to hold that the element of consideration is present in a prize scheme when a substantial expenditure of time and effort is involved. However, . . . this office takes the position that consideration is not present in the following and similar situations: where the sole requirement for participation is registration at a store to learn if one's name was drawn; visiting a number of stores, or a number of different locations in a store, to ascertain whether one's name or number has been posted; witnessing a demonstration of an appliance or taking a demonstration ride in an automobile, etc."

Poor advertising will often sell a poor product; it will invariably sell a good one.

Safety Council Tells of Precautions Needed in Transporting Boats

From Carl Moen, chairman of the water safety committee of the Minnesota Safety Council come words of warning to boat owners. Normally concerned with boat safety on the water, Moen notes that adequate boat safety must include precautions when transporting boats on the highways.

The committee lists several regulations which affect the ever-increasing numbers of boat-owners seen towing their water vehicles over the highways.

One of the biggest dangers to motorists from boats and their trailers occurs at night. Every trailer, carrying a boat or not, must have at least one tail lamp. In addition, they must have a red reflector and a white license plate light. The reflector may be attached to the boat or incorporated in the red tail lamp of the trailer itself.

In the case of certain boat trailers, additional lights are necessary. Directional lights are needed under certain conditions. If arm signals of the driver and the signal lights of the towing vehicle are obscured by the trailer or boat, directional lights must be located on the rear of the trailer itself.

The law applies equally to stop lights. If those of the towing vehicle, or the driver's arm signals, are obscured to the rear, a stop lamp is required on the trailer.

Merrill, Highway Official, Retires

A. H. (Andy) Merrill will end 45 years of Minnesota highway service June 30 when he retires from the Minnesota Highway department, where he is assistant maintenance engineer for plant and equipment. Merrill started his highway career in 1914, serving as county engineer in Kanabec and Mille Lacs counties. He joined the Minnesota Highway department when it was officially set up in 1922.

Have Your Fishing License with You, Say Game Wardens

Also Remind Fishermen to Use Only One Line When Angling in State

Have your fishing license on your person and use only one line—these words of advice to Minnesota anglers from Francis W. Johnson, chief game warden.

"Our game wardens report that many anglers being checked fail to have their license with them," explained Johnson. "Usually, they report having left it in their car, camp or at home. Some don't have a license at all but use this excuse in hopes the warden will see fit not to issue them a summons.

"Our wardens are very busy at this time of year and usually don't have time to go ashore in order to check a license forgotten by an angler. The law requires that a person engaged in fishing have a valid license on his person.

"A few fishermen are forgetting that only one line may be used when angling in any waters of the state, except certain boundary waters," continued Johnson. "Our wardens have been instructed to enforce the law recently passed by the 1959 Legislature. Only boundary waters between the State of Minnesota and Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota are unaffected by the new law."

Fosston Hospital Sued by Patient

A jury was selected Monday in Polk county district court to hear the case of Curtis H. Wick of Fosston vs. Fosston Hospital association. Judge Paul A. Lundgren of Thief River Falls is on the bench.

Wick is suing the hospital for $60,000. He claims that while he was a patient at the hospital on Nov. 5 and 6, 1956, he received improper treatment which caused permanent disabilities and scarring of his right leg, ankle and foot.

P. O. Department's Campaign vs. Filth Is Getting Results

Postmaster General Summerfield Reports on Progress in Drive

A disclosure that one of the nation's biggest "filth factories" has closed its doors, together with news of the roundup of some of the country's biggest dirty mail merchants, featured a progress report on the anti-smut campaign released from Washington today.

The report, in the form of a press summary, was furnished to local Postmaster R. J. Dryden by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Another highlight of the report concerns the jailing of the operator of a filth-by-mail "club," furnishing the ultimate in obscene movies.

"Evidence that the Postmaster General's drive against mail obscenity is catching on continues to mount," the local postmaster commented in releasing the report. "Complaints from all over the nation indicate an increasing awareness by parents of this grave threat to our children, as well as a desire to do something about it.

Here are highlights on recent progress by the postoffice department in its anti-obscenity campaign, plus further details on the cases mentioned above.

Complaints about obscene mail are expected to be up about 100 per cent this year, soaring beyond 100,000. Most of them involve unordered solicitations of youngsters.

Postal inspectors are now hot on the trail of dozens of dealers in smut and a number of important cases are pending with U.S. attorneys. Investigations by postal inspectors into all types of obscenity activities now are running at the rate of thousands annually.

The 260 U. S. submarines which operated in World War II spent a total of 71,070 days at sea.

Few Idle Workers

The number of employed persons in Minnesota reached an all-time high in May, according to Frank Starkey of the state employment service. The record total was 918,099, and that is nearly one million.

The unemployed numbered 67,000, down by 32,000 from the year-ago figure.

In terms of employment that is about as close to prosperity as we will ever get. When less than five per cent of the potential workers are unemployed we may say that practically all who are able and willing to work have a job.

Areas of Confusion

East Grand Forks has adopted standard time, a sensible change that will provide uniformity of time schedules for all of Greater Grand Forks. And so it goes when we start tinkering with the clocks on a state or local basis. Daylight saving time did not end the time confusion in Minnesota but merely shifted it to different areas.

In the meantime interstate transportation is still scheduled by standard time and regardless of where we are, travel schedules must be translated to the prevailing local arrangement.

The only sensible solution for this mess is a constitutional amendment that would give to Congress the exclusive right to establish time zones as Congress now has the exclusive right to issue and control the coin of the realm. Not all people or all areas would be pleased with what Congress would do, but we at least would have uniformity.

Great and Good Citizens

A Minnesota railroad publication, Basic Transportation, devoted the front page of its May issue to a reproduction of a birds-eye view of the area to be improved by the $34 million upper harbor development project in Minneapolis. The bitterness of the railroads toward this shameful waste of federal funds is understandable.

On three occasions U.S. Army Engineers said the project could not be justified. Then our United States Senators pounded on the table and told the Engineers they had better reconsider and come up with favorable conclusions or else. Under such pressure the engineers held their ground for awhile, but in 1956 top-ranking officials agreed that so much money had already been wasted that the government might just as well go through with the project and write it off as a bad deal.

The project is not a credit to the integrity and judgment of the civic leaders of Minneapolis. In order to get a little gain for themselves at the expense of the federal government it was necessary for them to resort to high pressure methods, and to join hands with many other communities throughout the country that were also seeking federal funds for local projects of doubtful value. They became a part of a great pork barrel raid that cost the taxpayers of our country billions of dollars.

Among this group are many prominent people who consider themselves great and good citizens.

Service or Politics?

Dr. Ralph L. West is being replaced as administrative officer of the Minnesota Livestock Sanitary board, bringing to an end an outstanding record of public service.

Dr. West will be recognized as one of the great leaders in the fight to control and eradicate livestock and poultry diseases in the state. His has been a kindly but stubborn leadership. He has recognized the problems of livestock and poultry producers in their struggles with disease, and has dealt with them sympathetically. But he has never lost sight of the purpose of his service and the need for firmness in the maintaining of standards essential to long-term objectives.

Governor Freeman's unwillingness to reappoint Dr. West probably could be justified by his age. Dr. West has reached what generally is considered to be a proper age for retirement.

But the Governor is being criticized for having converted an important health service into another cog in his political machine. It is charged that his appointments in filling board vacancies have been political and that partisan considerations are now a determining factor in the appointment of Dr. West's successor.

Alfred D. Stedman, agricultural editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and a close observer of developments in this field, is not favorably impressed by what has been happening. He uses the term "reactionaries" in referring to Governor Freeman's appointees on the board and to his selection to fill the Dr. West vacancy.

Commenting on the overall picture the Pioneer Press has this to say:

"The state administration has now brought about in the Minnesota livestock sanitary board a change which is of great concern to the public of this state and nation.

"The change intrudes politics into an office where politics has no proper place. It results in displacement effective December 31 of Dr. Ralph L. West as administrative officer of the Minnesota Livestock Sanitary board.

"The board to work well must be nonpartisan and not political. Its functions are essentially as technical as those of boards of health or education.

"The board is guardian of this state's billion dollar livestock and poultry industries. Its job is to stamp out or control diseases that infect flocks and herds, many of such ills being also dangerous to people. Its job can be judicial in instances of extermination of animals for public safety or of duties to impose health rules that are onerous and costly. It should be at all times impervious to political pressures for relaxation of public health safeguards.

"For 17 years the board with Dr. West as administrative officer has operated effectively in this nonpolitical way. It has carried through the bovine t.b. eradication program that had been started before Dr. West took that office. Two years ago it achieved the same statewide pattern of eradication of brucellosis, the disease that when transmitted to people is called undulant fever. It helped Minnesota escape an almost nationwide spread of VE disease of swine (vesicular exanthema). Its operations have been widely studied as exemplary of success. Dr West's counsel has been nationally sought and utilized.

"But politics has been creeping on the board. Four years ago the state administration proposed to end its independent status by placing it under the commissioner of agriculture, a political appointee. One by one, new appointments shifted the majority against Dr. West. The nonpartisan membership of the board of the dean of the state College of Veterinary Medicine was lost, and he became an advisor only.

"So Dr. West is slated to go. But it does seem that, in Minnesota, politics is now being dangerously extended. The Legislature would not stand for political control of the state boards of health, education or livestock sanitation.

"Now, however, such control has been extended to the livestock board through Gov. Freeman's appointments to the board. If current reports are proved correct, that control will also shortly be extended in the same manner to the chairmanship of the Metropolitan Airports commission. The political road on nonpolitical affairs, once it has been taken, is a long road."

Fair Trade—for Whom?

(Business Week)

By a 20-9 vote, the House Commerce committee has approved Rep. Oren Harris' bill to legalize retail price fixing on a national basis.

By the simple expedient of issuing "notices," a manufacturer or distributor of a brand-named product could require retailers, regardless of state laws, to sell the product at a specified price. Individual contracts with retailers aren't necessary. What's more, this latest version of the so-called "fair trade" laws would be far simpler to enforce than its predecessors. In fact, since the bill takes the form of an amendment to the Federal Trade Commission Act, the FTC is afraid it could be required to assist manufacturers and dealers in prosecuting violators, even though the FTC is dead set against the bill.

The bill is an obvious weapon to plug the loopholes of the McGuire Act, which permits states to use "fair trade" laws. But last year many manufacturers dropped factory-fixed prices when state laws proved unenforceable. The Harris bill would solve that sticky problem.

Such a bill, backed by a powerful lobby of small retailers, has no place in the kind of economy we enjoy today. Perhaps in the depressed 1930s a case could have been made for fixing minimum prices on national brands. But there are already too many built-in ratchets in our economy that keep pushing prices upwards—farm supports, protective tariffs, commodity subsidies, loan guarantees, wage escalators. The Harris bill would be another. It is an anachronism which, in the long run, would not help the manufacturer, the dealer, the national economy—or the consumer.

Fortunately, there is not much danger of the bill becoming law. But the philosophy behind it — which, in effect, legalizes price fixing — is dangerous. It is symptomatic of the kind of thinking that has given protection to too many special groups.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A man came to a newly-elected governor of a western state and congratulated him on his election.

"I voted for you this time and I voted for you and the ticket for the past several years," the man said. "I'm a good Democrat. All my neighbors will tell you that."

"Glad to hear it," said the governor. "We need good Democrats like you."

"Sure," the man said. "And now since I helped you, I'd like to ask you to help me."

"I'll try," said the governor, "What can I do?"

The man dropped his voice. "Well," he said, "I wonder if you could help me get my citizenship papers."

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

In my newsletter of last week I mentioned that several things had become apparent during House debate on the wheat bill which I wanted to discuss with you. Since that time, a compromise wheat bill has come out of committee and been sent back to the Committee by the House. None of the observations which I wanted to make were changed by this action. In fact, they are perhaps even more appropriate because of it. The need still remains for a long, hard look at the entire agricultural situation.

Imports and Surpluses

One of the things which has become apparent is the need for a long, hard look at the entire problem of imports of farm products. Most of you are already familiar with the findings our office made with regard to imports of oats and barley. However, during House consideration of the wheat bill, Congressman E. Y. Berry of South Dakota expanded upon this, presenting to the House these facts and figures:

Wool-American farmers now producing less than one-third of the wool that is actually processed and consumed in this country. Cattle — 3,651,000 head of live cattle imported during the past 10 years. Hogs-13 million live hogs imported during the same period. Beef and veal-2,022,000,000 pounds of beef and veal imported in the last 10 years. Pork-almost a billion pounds of pork imported since 1949. Lamb and mutton-46 million pounds imported during the last ten years. Sugar-39 million short tons imported annually.

It is apparent that if we cut these imports by just a small percentage we would have use for all our acres. Certainly the long, hard look which American Agriculture is in need of today should include a long, hard look at these imports.

Grain And Livestock

The import situation pointed out above and the effect which just a small reduction of these imports would have on the use of our acres points out further that there is a relationship which exists not only among our grain crops, but throughout all farm commodities. As an example, think of the effect which just a small reduction in the exports of cattle would have on our domestic farm economy. More livestock would be raised requiring more acre and more feed,—feed which would in turn require even more acres. Needless to say, action such as this would increase the gross income and buying power—buying power so essential to the future of our small businessmen and our small towns.

Renewed Effort

The third thing which the debate and vote on the wheat bill served to point up is the need for more understanding of agriculture and renewed effort in the field. As I told the Members of the Livestock and Feed Grains Subcommittee last Friday while testifying on my small grain bill, House inaction on wheat should be looked upon not as a call to throw up our hands, but as a challenge.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

GI Education Bill

Extension of the draft will produce almost 4½ million Cold War veterans in the next four years. We must make sure that honorable military service does not simply mean wasted time and lost opportunity for these young Americans. Since January 31, 1955, these young men have not had the advantages of the GI Bill of rights educational benefits. I have introduced legislation (now approved by a Senate subcommittee) which would revive the most successful educational program in our history. The World War II and Korean GI education bills gave us 450,000 engineers, 180,000 more doctors and nurses, 113,000 physicists and research scientists, 238,000 teachers and 710,000 skilled technicians. But we are still short in all these fields.

Minnesota Veterans

More than 190,000 Minnesota veterans took advantage of the two GI bills, and the experts tell me that 30,000 of the 83,000 Minnesotans discharged between 1955 and 1963 can be expected to continue their education under the new legislation we are proposing.

Veto Threat

Under threat of a presidential veto, the Senate has cut back veterans direct housing loan legislation to $100 million from the $300 million approved by the House. In effect, the Senate is being blackmailed into voting an inadequate and higher-interest veterans housing program that will benefit the great financial interests of the country far more than the veteran. I am hopeful of a better bill out of the Senate-House conference.

Veterans Pensions

The pension bill just passed by the House of Representatives is a compromise plan worked out by the House Veterans Affairs Committee in cooperation with major veterans groups to modify the pension system for veterans with non-service-connected disabilities. It will not lower the pension payments for any veterans or widows now receiving pensions, but would eventually completely replace the present system of pensions by submitting a sliding scale of payments, based on need, and outside income, of from $10 to $90. The limit on outside income is raised from the present $1400 for single veterans to $1800 and to $3000 for veterans with dependents. The effect of the bill, according to Congressman Teague, will be to add about 72,000 veterans and 105,600 widows to the pension rolls — principally widows of World War II and Korean veterans. An important provision of the bill ends the existing requirement for widows of World War II and Korean veterans that their husbands must have had a disability at the time of death in order for the widow or child to qualify for a pension. The proponents of the bill claim that it will lower the total costs of the pension program over the next 40 years by $12 billion, despite the fact that additional groups will be included in the system. The bill faces close scrutiny in the Senate, to ensure that no injustices are possible under the proposed legislation.

Senate Veterans Committee

I have joined in sponsoring a resolution to set up a standing Veterans Affairs committee in the Senate. There is already a standing Veterans Affairs committee in the House of Representatives but too often veterans' legislation passed by the House gets lost on crowded Senate committee schedules. Establishment of a Senate Veterans Committee will make possible faster and better attention for vital legislation which affects more than 22 million veterans and their families.

ORDINARY DRIPPY FREE-FLOWING PAINTS
Dip brush in drippy, free-flowing paints, then point bristles up for normal downward stroke. Notice that force of gravity causes paint to flow downward, away from end of brush. Bristle tips do not retain sufficient paint for coverage. Several strokes are necessary.

GILT EDGE "HOMOGENIZED" SIDING & SHAKE PAINT
This new kind of paint defies gravity—clings to tip of brush, yet liquefies under slightest pressure to flow smoothly and evenly onto the surface. No going over and over grooved shingle and shakes —one stroke of the brush covers perfectly.

Chevy Gives You Smarter Style Today . . .

Don't take it from us—take it from independent experts and from facts and figures that are now a matter of record. POPULAR SCIENCE sums up Chevy's unmistakably modern style this way: "The fact is, in its price class Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling . . ." This is one more reason your new Chevrolet will bring a higher allowance at trade-in time, as Chevy has over the years. A look at last year's used car prices* shows Chevrolet averaged up to $128 more than comparable models of the other leading low-priced two.

*Guide Book figures of the National Automobile Dealers Assn.

PLUS 5 MORE BIG BESTS OVER ANY OTHER CAR IN CHEVROLET'S FIELD!

Best Brakes. Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in repeated highway speed stopping tests conducted by NASCAR.* No wonder. Chevy's brakes, built for up to two-thirds longer lining life, are the biggest in its field.

*National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research.

Best Engine. Every motor magazine has given Chevy's passenger car and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Economy. No doubt about this: a pair of Chevrolet sixes came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car.

Best Room. Dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

Best Ride. No doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

NO WONDER MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS IN '59 THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

Chances are, if you're like most people, the two important things you need to get a home are money for a down payment and a loan to make up the difference. Our association specializes in helping you get both these things. In fact there's no more ideal place you could go for home financing help. And here's why:

1. We know more about home loans because we make more of them—last year, one out of every three home loans throughout the U. S. was arranged by associations like ours.

2. You get friendly understanding and attention to detail from our staff which is experienced in home financing.

3. You repay your loan just like rent. A single monthly repayment is usually set up to include principal, interest and property taxes.

4. While you're saving for the down payment, your money earns excellent returns, and is insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U. S. Government.

You get the BIG comfort dividends in your 59 FORD...

Some cars' door openings aren't shaped to fit people! So you have to squirm and wriggle . . . make your body conform to the car when getting in and out.

To gain a low roof line, some cars end up with higher floor "humps" and thinly padded rear seats . . . a combination that's mighty tough on the middleman.

The squeezed-down, skimpy roofs of some cars aren't comfortable even for bare-headed riders. And they don't keep out excessive sunlight and glare.

NO SQUIRM

Doors in 59 Fords are wider—up to six inches wider—and door openings are contoured to fit you! You get in and out of a Ford with greater ease and comfort. The girls really like Ford's doors . . . for more graceful entries and exits.

NO SQUEEZE

Fords have useable seating space for six big people. The driveshaft tunnel is lower and rear seats are deeply cushioned all the way across. This means more comfort for all passengers . . . especially for the man in the middle.

NO SQUASH

See how much more head room Ford has. Even big six-footers sit up straight without touching the roof. And Ford's big roof protects all passengers, in both front and rear seats, against the discomforts of excessive glare and heat from the sun.

Greater comfort is only the beginning of the dividends you get in a Ford. You get the World's Most Beautifully Proportioned Car. You get a big dividend in Ford prices . . . the lowest of the best-selling three. And you get saving dividends that cut costs every mile you drive. See and Action Test a new Ford at your Ford Dealer's. See how you can go finer . . . with more comfort . . . for less . . . in a new Ford!

Start Early and Stop Early, Tourists Told

Start early, stop early and stop often in between. Three simple ideas offered today by Al Luecke, executive secretary of the Minnesota Safety Council embody great potential for safety on the highway.

"We safety people are particularly concerned about the many motorists who, during 49 or 50 weeks of the year, drive relatively short distances. Drivers often fail to realize the potential dangers they face on long arduous summer vacation trips."

Luecke pointed out that most of us are not physically able to drive eight or 10 hours a day. Today's superhighways, while eliminating many accident hazards, have created the peril of dozing at the wheel due to fatigue and warm weather and the monotony of non-stop driving, sometimes called "highway hypnosis."

Suggesting that motorists start early, Luecke said that they should get a good night's rest and begin the trip when they feel relaxed and alert. Many safety authorities recommend that motorists stop every two hours or so for a break, which might include a cup of coffee, a glass of milk or a soft drink. The break affords the driver a chance to get out of the car and stretch tired muscles.

The time between four and eight p.m. is highly dangerous on the highway, and this is behind the suggestion that motorists stop early.

"Follow these simple suggestions," concluded Luecke, 'and all motorists will enjoy their trips more, and they'll reduce the chances of a mishap on the way."

1st Baptist Ends Its Bible School

To Hold Closing Program at Church Sunday Night

The closing program of the daily Vacation Bible school of the First Baptist church will be held Sunday evening, June 28. The program will feature the children's choir singing a number of action choruses and there will be other musical features.

Handwork will be displayed for parents and friends, and the Dalzell quartet will sing a novelty number entitled, "Sit Down and Rest a Little While."

The school has an enrollment of 60 children, junior age and younger, and has been in session for the past two weeks. The children studied from interdenominational material and each class had its own handwork project.

The teachers included pastor and Mrs. Dalzell, Mrs. Hattie Lanska, Mrs. Morgan Ellingson Carol Taggart, Mrs. Selmer Bornholdt, Kay Stone and Julie Roue.

U. S. Navy Plans Grat Lakes Visit

To Visit 24 Cities on Lakes Starting June '26

Not since 1813 have Navy ships sailed the Great Lakes in force. But then, those wooden ships were built on the shores of the lakes with the abundant virgin forests supplying the timber for the keels, masts and beams.

Now in 1959 the Navy ships return. Not of wood, but of steel and now there's no enemy awaiting their arrival. The colonial tar has given way to the modern sailor in white and the forests have been repainted with "trees" of concrete and steel. Cities grow where once only trees would sprout.

All made possible by the century-old dream, the St. Lawrence Seaway. Once a dream, now a reality, brought about by the engineering skill of two nations. The same two nations who fought each other in 1813, now working with each other.

On June 26, the fleet of 28 U.S. Navy ships will assemble at Montreal and being an historic one-month cruise, visiting 24 different cities.

Almost one thousand Navy Academy Midshipmen will be aboard the ships. The entire Third Class (equivalent to the sophomore class of civilian colleges) of 916 students and 40 First Classmen (seniors) will participate in the cruise.

HAMBRO, NORBORG AT NORWAY DAY PROGRAM

Norwegian National League of Minneapolis has arranged an impressive program for Norway Day July 12, including special church services, band concert, entertainment, and two major addresses. Sermon at 10:30 A.M in Minnehaha Park will be by Rev. G. O. Odegaard of Northfield. Entertainment includes singing, folk dancing, instrumental music. Noted speakers for the occasion are Dr. C. Sverre Norborg, educator, lecturer, author, who has served on the faculty of the University of Minnesota, Augsburg and Macalester Colleges, and is now a pastor of Norwegian Lutheran Memorial church, Chicago; and Johan Hambro, noted Norwegian newspaper man who is now Secretary General of the World League of Norsemen. Mr. Hambro will stay over for a Monday evening meeting of Minnesota members of the League in the beautiful LBI Building, Minneapolis.

U.S. Tax Due from Liquor Dealers

Higher Rates Called for on Taxes Due July 1st

Liquor dealers apparently are disregarding the notice that was sent with Form 11, special tax renewal, explaining the changes in the law, according to Geo. O. Lethert, district director at St. Paul.

Payments at the old rate, Lethert said, have been enclosed with the majority of the applications that have been received; therefore, it is necessary to contact the dealer for the additional amount due, which delays the issuance of a stamp until the full amount is paid. The notice forwarded with the special tax renewal form contains the following information:—

Special taxes must be paid on or before July 1, 1959, or before commencing business, to avoid penalties and interest. Taxpayers no longer have until the end of the month to file.

The new tax rates are:

Wholesale dealer, beer	$123.00
Retail dealer, beer	24.00
Wholesale liquor d'ler.	255.00
Retail liquor d'lr.	54.00
Medicinal spirits stamp tax	54.00

"If a dealer is in business on July 1, the full tax rate is due with the return. If a dealer starts business later on in the year, the tax rate is pro-rated from the starting month.

A retail dealer is one who sells only to consumers. Such a dealer no longer is liable for tax as a wholesaler in those instances where he sells 5 gallons or more to the same customer. A wholesale dealer is one who sells to other dealers. Wholesale dealers do not incur tax as retail dealers because of sales to consumers at the wholesalers' premises of liquors of the class covered by their wholesale stamp."

In addition, Lethert said that many dealers are applying for both a wholesale and a retail stamp where they only need one. They should carefully read the above instructions to determine which stamp they need.

LITTLE BLAZE IS DANGEROUS THING

Thirty-five of Minnesota's 87 counties reported forest or woods fires last year; two of them only one fire each during the season, three counties two fires each, two had three, four had four each; from there the score goes up, with Beltrami's 117 reported fires and St. Louis' 173 leading the costly parade. Lake of the Woods' 34 big blazes covered the largest area, 11,922 acres; 66 fires scorched 6,876 Aitkin acres, in Pine county 67 fires swept 4,943 acres; Pine's damage at $22,620 led the state, Crow Wing's $17,062 loss second, Low's $16,774 third. Altogether 1,147 fires seared 52,127 acres for losses totaling $171,285. Were it not for the watchful care of Keep Minnesota Green and the expert guarding done by the State Conservation Department, these losses could have been multiplied many times. Farmers are charged with most of the fires, travelers next, rural workers other than farmers, then hunters.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	2 Chronicles	26	20-27
Monday	Revelation	22	6-21
Tuesday	Leviticus	14	1-20
Wednesday	Leviticus	19	1-18
Thursday	Numbers	20	1-13
Friday	2 Kings	11	1-16
Saturday	2 Kings	11 12	17 8

When I walk out of my front door, it always gives me a good feeling to see the spire of the church down the street.

A church spire makes you look upward. You have an irresistible urge to gaze at its highest point. It is a lofty symbol, the physical manifestation of an ideal.

Sometimes, when I step through my front door, my thoughts are on the "down" side. Then I look toward the church, my eyes travel to the sky, and I feel better, no matter what my troubles.

Next time you're near a church — try it and see. Better still, try going inside.
